BRITAIN OFFERS TO GRANT INDIA DOMINION RANK

LONDON WILL RETAIN CONTROL OF DEFENSE

Extremists, Who Already Are Opposed to Program, Asked to Assist.

London, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Partnership of India as a dominion with responsible self-government in the British commonwealth of nations was pledged today by Ramsay MacDonald as the great Indian round table conference in old St. James's Palace came to a close.

"You have opened a new chapter in the history of India," was King George's message to the 100 or more delegates, but it was Mother India who had the last word after nine weeks of oratory and debate.

The demure Begum Shah Nawaz, drawing upon Longfellow, quoted a poem epitomizing the spirit of the negotiations still to come—"Let us now be up and doing * * *."

The prime minister, in a long and earnest speech outlining British policy in India, extended the hand of dominion fellowship to the great Asian subcontinent where a fifth of the world's population dwells.

Innovations Are Promised.

The policy he enunciated promised these innovations:

(1) Amnesty for India's 50,000 political prisoners if "civil order" is restored in India.

(2) An invitation to the Indian extremists to participate in the negotiations still to come before the new Indian government is established.

(3) Establishment of full responsible self-government in India with the Imperial British government reserving control of finances, foreign affairs and defense.

(4) Extension of the voting franchise in India and the lifting of restrictions based on religion and caste.

(5) Establishment of a legislature of two houses modeled along the lines of the Congress of the United States.

Delegates Praise Work.

(6) Encouragement of Indians to settle their own communal problems.

(7) Uninterrupted continuance of negotiations to settle the details of the new government.

The round table delegates had fulsome praise for the work which had been accomplished in London, but there still remains the fateful issue as to whether restless India would grasp the hand Mr. MacDonald extended.

The round table conference was only a beginning of India's realization of her dream of self-government. Now the scene shifts to India and London waits with eager suspense for India's reaction to the round table deliberations.

The prime minister opened wide the door for Mahatma Gandhi and the other Indian radicals to come in on the negotiations which must continue in India until details of the new constitutoin are worked out.

One Dangerous Obstacle.

When that instrument is completed, Mr. MacDonald pledged, the British government will see to it that the British Parliament takes the steps necessary to make it effective.

There is still one great obstacle which can wreck the work of the round table. It is the matter of safeguards and reservations which Mr. MacDonald said, must continue during the period of transition until India is fully established as a self-governing dominion. These reservations cover the fields of foreign relations, finances and defense. They will continue over an indefinite period and the prime minister made no mention of a time limit on their operation. He pointed out, however, that such safeguards have accompanied the development of every free constitution.

PITTS JUROR, UNDER FIRE, HELD CITIZEN

HABEAS CORPUS GRANTED

American citizenship of Miss Mildred Jean Robertson, one of the points upon which G. Bryan Pitts, convicted former chairman of the board of the F. H. Smith Co., hopes to gain his release from jail, has been declared valid by several competent Washington attorneys in the past, it was learned last night.

His newly retained counsel charged yesterday that Pitts had been illegally convicted because Miss Robertson, a niece of Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club, who was a member of the jury which found Pitts guilty of conspiring to embezzle and destroy records of the Smith Co., was not an American citizen because she was born in Canada.

They sought a writ of habeas corpus to obtain Pitt's release from jail.

The father of Miss Robertson went to Montreal to manage the baseball club there, Mr. Griffith said last night. He married while in Canada, but did not renounce his American citizenship, according to Mr. Griffith, because he expected to return to the United States to live.

When Miss Robertson's father died and his children came to live with Mr. Griffith, the president of the Washington ball club sought the opinion of several attorneys on their citizenship because he wanted no doubt in the matter, he said.

All of the attorneys declared that since Mr. Robertson had never renounced his citizenship his children were automatically citizens of the United States, according to Mr. Griffith.

Pitts yesterday started every court action that possibly could get him out of jail before his appeal from the District of Columbia Supreme Court's sentence is heard.

Pitts instituted habeas corpus proceedings on the grounds of illegal detention; he changed attorneys and filed a supplemental motion to set aside the court judgment. All this was done in District Supreme Court.

At the same time, it was learned that for the past two weeks, C. Elbert Anadale, who with John H. Edwards, jr., was convicted with Pitts on charges of conspiracy to embezzle $5,000,000 of the company funds and Hoover Given Finding of U. S. Commission by Wickersham.

Investigators Will Now Begin to Study Crime in General.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The National Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement, popularly known as the Wickersham Commission, has rendered its verdict on prohibition, and it will be communicated to Congress a few minutes after noon today.

George W. Wickersham, the 72-year-old chairman of the commission, drove up to the White House at 8:45 o'clock yesterday morning. Under his arm was an ordinary manila envelope. In this was the commission's report on prohibition, a fat document 286 pages in length.

President Hoover was just finishing breakfast when Wickersham arrived. Together they went to the room which Abraham Lincoln used as a study, and there talked over the report. A little later, President Hoover took it with him to his office, and began the task of digesting it.

After that, he prepared the brief message, which he is to attach to the report when Maurice C. Latta, the White House executive clerk, takes it to the Capitol today.

Once the report has been submitted to Congress the newspapers will be free to publish its contents.

President Hoover is expected to adopt the conclusions of the Wickersham Commission, and to make them the basis of his prohibition policy in the presidential race of 1932.

In the last two months, there have been numerous forecasts as to the stand the commission would take. It was predicted that the eleven members would come out for beer and light wines; it was predicted that they would recommend the Canadian system or the Swedish system, or some other system. All kinds of things were predicted, but here of late the consensus has been that the commission will recommend that prohibition be retained.

The commission was appointed May 20, 1929, and since its creation has been voted $500,000 by Congress to carry on its work. Its headquarters is in the Tower Building.

Its orders are to make a "thorough inquiry into the problem of the enforcement of prohibition * * * together with the enforcement of other laws."

When it began its labors, President Hoover expressed the hope that it would follow up its investigation with

INJURIES ARE FATAL AS CAR HITS NURSE

Motorman and Conductor to Testify; Woman Fell on Tracks.

MAN SERIOUSLY HURT

Mrs. Sarah Smith Walker, 49, was fatally injured early last night when she was struck by a street car on Pennsylvania avenue southeast near Fourth street. She was pronounced dead at Providence Hospital, where she was taken in a taxicab. She was a graduate nurse and was returning home from the hospital.

The motorman and conductor were questioned at the Fifth Precinct station, and released after being ordered to appear at the coroner's inquest today. They are, respectively, George A. Watson, Third street, near East Capitol street southeast, and Charles B. Knelsley, Potomac avenue, near Seventeenth street southeast.

Miss Annie Jones, 217 Fifth street southeast, said that although she was standing in the front vestibule, near the motorman, preparing to get off the east-bound car at Fourth street, she did not see the woman step on the tracks. The car was proceeding slowly, she declared, in drawing to a stop.

The accident occurred about 30 feet from the pedestrian crosswalk.

Another witness, who was on the street, said the woman appeared to trip over a wire and fall in the path of the street car. He is William F. Clarkson, 329 C street southeast.

Mrs. Walker received a fractured skull and internal injuries, when hit by the car. She was not run over.

Trio Seriously Burned When Blast Starts Fire

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 19.—Bernice, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivy Myers, near here, was probably fatally burned and the father, 35, and another child, Benjamin, 4, were seriously burned when they were trapped in their burning farm home early today, following the explosion of a kerosene lamp.

The mother picked up an infant and escaped before the father and other two children, who were forced to flee through the flames.

SHOTS AT HOME OF GIRL HEARD BY MILK DRIVER

Blue Roadster Sped From Limerick Dwellingg at Once, Says Man.

WITNESS' STORY MAY FIX TIME OF KILLING

Woman Tells of Hearing Girl in Quarrel With Youth in Auto.

Shots heard by a milkman between 4 and 4:30 a. m. near the home of the slain Beulah Limerick early on the morning of the murder, last night focused the attention of police on the driver of a blue roadster, which drove from behind the Limerick house five minutes after the shots rang out.

The shots were heard by Donald E. Boyer, 31 years old, a driver for the Chestnut Farms Dairy, as he was making a delivery less than 150 feet from the house of tragedy on the morning of December 31, when the slaying occurred.

Earlier in the investigation a colored woman told Capt. Edward J. Kelly that she had seen a girl, answering the murdered girl's description, quarreling with a young man in a blue roadster parked a half block from the Limerick home about a week before the crime.

Saw Lights in House.

Boyer came to the attention of police after reports reached headquarters that the driver had told his story to customers on his route and also to employes of Bland's lunch room, on Fourteenth street northeast near East Capitol arteet, where William E. Paddy was trailed by Patrolman Robert F. Langdon early on the morning of the killing.

Boyer told Detective Sergt. Thomas Sweeney last night that he noticed a light in the basement room of the Limerick house at the time he heard shots and tha time front room on the third floor also was illuminated.

Boyer's story, if it withstands scrutiny of authorities, will prove important in the case, is that on the morning of the crime he delivered milk at 1845 A street southeast, which is 150 feet away from the Limerick home.

Two Shots Broke Silence.

As he placed the milk on the porch, he said, two shots broke the morning silence in rapid succession. He looked toward the Limerick house and noticed the lights in the basement and on the third floor.

Boyer listened for other suspicious sounds and, hearing none, decided that the firing was on the dumps behind the murder house. Boyer told Detective Sergt. Sweeney that he continued on his route and turned down Nineteenth street, away from the Limerick home.

In a few minutes, he said, he was attracted by the headlights of a roadster, which came from behind the Limerick house onto A street, East of Nineteenth street, A street is not improved, but it leads behind the Limerick house.

Boyer did not pay particular attention to the car, he said, but is reasonably certain that it was a roadster and believes it was blue in color. He did not take notice of the occupants.

Is Certain of Time.

Boyer is certain he heard shots the morning of the murder, he said, because he commented on the incident when he read of the killing in the papers.

Capt. Kelly said last night that the colored woman who saw the couple quarreling in the roadster is a house-

SENATE'S $25,000,000 RELIEF FUND PASSES BY VOTE OF 56 TO 27

PROGRESSIVES BACK DEMOCRATIC LINE-UP

G. O. P. Stalwarts Defeated at Every Turn; House Chiefs Worried.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Robinson-Black proposal to appropropriate $25,000,000 for the Red Cross to relieve distress nipped off all but the hardiest of administration supporters yesterday and was adopted by the Senate, 56 to 27. The Democrats and Progressives presented a solid line-up and with them went such administration stalwarts as Shortridge, of California; Jones, the assistant leader, and McNary, the whip.

Adoption of the proposal followed an unsuccessful effort by Senator Reed to provide that the appropriation not be made if the Red Cross succeeded in raising $10,000,000 by February 9. This was voted down, 53 to 30.

More significant than the small vote which the administration commanded, however, was the fact that of the 30 senators voting against the proposal not more than ten approve the President's course. Strenuous efforts were made over the week-end by party leaders to get the President to accept some sort of a compromise, one plan providing that the money be loaned instead of given to the Red Cross.

House Studies Compromise.

And House leaders are not optimistic about being able to hold their forces in line. Indeed, they are already studying compromise plans. One which found some favor with them would provide that Congress appropriate $12,500,000 and the Red Cross match it.

Regardless of how the matter comes out on Capitol Hill, though, those who have talked with the President are of the impression that if it comes to him he will veto it and accept an extra session. Democratic leaders have said that if the proposition does not go through that the Interior appropriation, in which it is incorporated, will not be permitted to pass.

But the bill is a long way from Mr. Hoover even yet. In fact, there is some question as to when it will get back to the House. Senator Thomas, of Oklahoma, is filibustering because of what he claims is an injustice to the Indians of his State in the bill. It may be the general chaos that the bill is in generally, and too, the prospects of an extra session even should this bill be disposed of, that influences the President against any thought of compromise.

Inconsistency Is Charged.

Some administration leaders are concerned more, however, about the political effect, from the party standpoint, of the President's stand than they are of the more immediate future of the Interior bill.

Democrats and Progressives have pounded away at him daily over the alleged inconsistency of his asking for money to feed the Russians in 1920 and not wanting to appropriate any to feed Americans now.

The President's attitude is, of course, that the Red Cross can raise funds to cope with the domestic situation and that a congressional appropriation would constitute a dole. But what the administration senators are apprehensive about is that he won't be able to get over to the country the distinction between putting the Russians on a dole and not wanting to put Americans on one.

Robinson Attacks President.

Even Senator Robinson, minority leader, whose words have heretofore been most temperate, cited the Russian expenditure yesterday, and in general attacked the President without kid gloves.

"The President and the Red Cross did little, and would have continued that policy of doing the least possi-

GIRL SHOOTS SLAYER OF FATHER IN COURT

FOUR SHOTS FIND TARGET

Dewitt, Ark., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—A 17-year-old girl in a crowded courtroom early tonight shot to death a man on trial for the slaying of her father as the jury was ready to retire with the case.

The girl, Mrs. Helen Spence Eaton, had sat in a front seat in the courtroom throughout the day listening to the trial of Jack Worls, 30, charged with killing her father, Cicero Spence, and throwing his body into the White River.

When the jury was ready to take the case, Mrs. Eaton rose quickly from her seat, drew an automatic pistol she had concealed in her clothing and fired four shots into Worls' body. He died 15 minutes later.

RED CROSS PREFERS VOLUNTARY SUPPORT

Central Body Says People, Not Congress, Should Meet Relief Need.

CITES ORDER'S HISTORY

(Associated Press.)

The Red Cross informed the Senate and the country last night that it desired to remain a volunteer organization.

"We consider ourselves charged with the responsibility in the drought area; we are meeting the needs and will continue to do so," said a resolution adopted by the central committee late yesterday.

The views expressed by the central committee closely coincided with those that have been voiced by President Hoover. James L. Feiser, a vice chairman of the Red Cross, visited the White House shortly before the resolution was made public.

At the same time the Farm Board made known that the grain and cot-

Body of Colorado Teacher Discovered Incased in Ice

Miss Enid Marriott, 28, Missing Two Months, Found in Ditch; Road Worker, Already Facing Abduction Count, to Be Charged.

Fort Morgan, Colo., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Incased in a 4-foot sheet of ice, the body of Miss Enid Marriott, 28-year-old Wiggins, Colo., school teacher, missing for more than two months, was found today in a lateral of an irrigation canal, near Fort Morgan.

Discovery of the body followed by two days the arrest of Harry E. Moore, a road worker, charged earlier today with abduction. Officers said a murder charge would be filed after discovery of the body.

The finding of a blood-stained shirt, the same size garment Moore wears, and a man's handkerchief with the initial "M," both found in the irrigation canal, and the fact the shirt answers the description of one found in Moore's automobile November 18, when his car was searched for liquor, were regarded by Sheriff Rufus A. Johnston as circumstantial evidence against the prisoner.

Moore admitted to authorities he was in Wiggins the night Miss Marriott disappeared from a railway depot. At 2 o'clock that afternoon he was released from jail. He was charged with drunkenness.

Moore denied the shirt recovered from the canal was his and has offered an alibi which, authorities say, is not supported.

Walter Byron, of Denver, head of an investigating agency, discovered the teacher's body in the ice. It was removed to a Fort Morgan mortuary. Numerous articles belonging to Miss Marriott, including some of the contents of her traveling bag, previously had been recovered from the canal.

Calvin Coolidge Says:

It would be difficult to recall when the American Red Cross has appealed to the people in vain for money. The request is now made for ten million dollars.

While that is a large sum it is less than the daily cost of the National Government. No one can doubt the ability of the country easily to meet this requirement.

The emergency is acute and urgent. The large centers of population are able to care for their needy and generally are doing it. The great stretches of open country where drought has been superimposed upon bad business conditions are unable to relieve the most intense suffering without outside assistance. Many people in those areas are on the border of starvation. They are face to face with famine.

Such an unusual condition in our domestic experience makes it extremely difficult for our people to realize it. But the suffering does exist. It must be relieved. No more compelling demand has been presented to private charity since the war. The situation is such that it is not too much to say that our whole social organization is on trial. A comparatively small expenditure made now will avert a possible future calamity.

Russia, Turkey and Iceland Asked Into European Union

Subcommittee Wants Them Invited for Economic Parley on Federation; Poland, in League Council, Answers Germany's Complaints.

Geneva, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Russia, Turkey and Iceland will be asked to participate in the preliminary economic discussions of a plan for an European federation if today's decision of a subcommittee is adopted by the European conference.

The decision, reached after a long debate, was a compromise. Germany and Italy had demanded that nonmembers of the League of Nations be invited to join in establishing the federation plan.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and "father" of the pan-Europe idea, and the foreign ministers of Roumania and Switzerland, were definitely opposed to inviting Russia.

Finally, participation of the three countries in the economic aspects of the work was adopted.

It was pointed out tonight that the recommendation of the subcommittee made no mention of political problems, thus leaving the door open for this phase of the question to be reintroduced at a full private session of the conference to be held tomorrow.

The reference for the first time to Iceland was seen as a move on the part of the mother country, Denmark, and Great Britain to bring that ancient democracy ultimately to league membership.

For three days, the time of the European conference, called to elaborate M. Briand's idea, was largely taken up with the question of Russia.

Italians and Germans stoutly de-had not the Senate taken the initiative and made a drive which has forced both the President and the Red Cross to a partial realization of the danger ahead," he said.

Asserting that he was tired of hearing so much about the unsoundness of a "dole," he declared it is just as much a dole when given by the Red Cross as by Congress.

"Any form of charity is a dole," he declared.

Calls Charges Contemptible.

"It is mysterious political philosophy to me that the President or any one else familiar with the traditions and institutions of this country would seriously make an argument that it is sound policy to appropriate public money for the purpose of preventing the starvation of foreigners, but very unsound policy to use a dollar of the money contributed by the people of the United States themselves, for their own relief."

Angered at charges that his course is based on a desire to hamper the administration, he declared that they were "contemptible," adding:

"I do say that it presents a pitiable spectacle of inefficiency and incompetency for months and months to do nothing and then claim it is politics when somebody tries to get action with which everyone in the Senate is in sympathy. It is difficult for the human mind to grasp that the Government as it is now being administered manifests such complete indifference toward the sufferings of its citizens."

Favored Restricting Aid.

He agreed that it would have been better to confine the Government's contribution to the drought-stricken areas, as had been originally proposed, and let the Red Cross administer to the unemployed, but this plan had been rejected, he recalled.

Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, joined with Senator Reed in trying to get a postponement of the appropriation until February 9 to see if the Red Cross could not raise its $10,000,000, both declaring that if the $10,000,000 was not raised by that time they would support the $25,000,000 appropriation.

Senator Borah joined with those who insisted, however, that the $10,000,000 Red Cross fund and the $25,000,000 appropriation will prove inadequate before the present depression is over.

ton stabilization corporations would sell their commodities to the Red Cross or any responsible unit of the Government on easy terms to enable the agencies to relieve distress.

The Red Cross resolution said in part:

"Some individuals asked to subscribe to this fund, while admitting its need, questioned the necessity of subscribing because of various proposals in the Congress to appropriate fund to the American Red Cross for this and other relief purposes.

"It is well known that under the charter enacted by the Congress the Red Cross is a voluntary organization and in all of its relief operations, covering now a period of almost half a century, it has, through expenditures of voluntary contributions, served people at home and abroad, and established for itself a well-defined place in the confidence of the people of the United States and throughout the world.

Wants to Stick to Principles.

"In our opinion it is best, as a question of public policy, that the Red Cross should remain a purely voluntary organization. We believe that the interests of the country and of the Red Cross will best be promoted by continuing to rely on the generosity of the Nation, and by adhering to the fundamental principles on which this organization was founded.

"It is realized that the generosity of the American people is being sorely taxed to meet the various acute situations which are developing in our industrial centers. The necessities of the case, however, demand serious sacrifice.

"It is a situatoin comparable with that existing during the war, and we urge the people to recognize this responsibility to the end that this money will be forthcomink from voluntary contributions, as it has in every major disaster in the past."

The move of the Farm Board was announced as a response to numerous requests that assistance be given in meeting appeals for food and clothing. Chairman Legge explained that the law forbade that commodities be donated. He said no interest would be charged and the date of payment would be set to suit the convenience of the purchaser.

QUIZ INTO CAMPAIGN FUNDS IS BROADENED

Senate Adopts Resolution to Delve Into Expenditures in 1928 Election.

MAY REACT ON CANNON

(Associated Press.)

The Senate yesterday broadened the scope of the campaign funds inquiry to include complaints involving the 1928 election.

The action was taken upon motion of Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, and it was regarded as opening the way for further inquiry into administration of the anti-Smith funds in 1928 by Bishop James Cannon, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Mr. Glass withheld comment on the purpose of his resolution. The bishops of the Methodist Episcopal Church South are now reviewing other charges made against Bishop Cannon.

The Senate lobby committee last year was blocked by lack of authority from proceeding with an investigation it undertook into Bishop Cannon's political activities.

Chairman Nye, of the campaign funds investigating committee, said last night he would make no further investigation until specific complaints or charges are made to the committee.

Mr. Nye moved yesterday to block any destruction of ballots cast in the last senatorial race in Alabama, where his committee is preparing to investigate. He wired to Judge Grosland, at Birmingham, asking if the law did not require preservation of the ballots for six months. Senator Heflin, who was defeated in the race by John H. Bankhead, wired the State attorney general urging that the ballots be preserved.

The resolution of Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, giving the Nye committee authority to impound ballots, is before the Senate.

courtroom at the time, took her into custody. She refused to discuss the shooting later, but remained calm. Less than a month ago, police said, the girl attempted suicide in a restaurant here by shooting herself in the breast.

Mrs. Spence, who was with her husband in a boat when he was slain and who told police she was severely beaten by Worls and two other men, died two weeks ago in a Memphis hospital.

Spence was killed with his own gun. Worls claimed self-defense. He said Spence threatened him and the two other men.

Mrs. Spence, however, was quoted by authorities as saying that her husband was shot unexpectedly by Worls, and was thrown into the river an hour later while still alive. The slaying occurred in a sparsely settled section of the White River country.

The shooting tonight threw the courtroom into an uproar, women and children, many of whom were in the crowd screaming and fighting to get out of the courtroom.

Officers said the girl had given no intimation of her intentions.

Spence at the time he was slain was under a nine-year prison sentence for killing another man on the White River.

The department has authorized expenditure of $23,000 to repair property damage. Naval officials yesterday said Red Cross aid probably will be solicited.

"constructive, courageous conclusions."

On the commission are ten men and one woman. The men, all of them lawyers, are, in addition to Chairman Wickersham, Henry W. Anderson, Newton D. Baker, William I. Grubb, William S. Kenyon, Frank J. Loesch, Paul J. McCormick, Kenneth Mackintosh, Roscoe Pound and Monte M. Lemann. The woman is Ada L. Comstock, a noted educator.

Eight of the members are Republicans, and three are Democrats.

The document submitted to President Hoover yesterday by Chairman Wickersham, consists of a report of the commission's investigations, a list of conclusions, and individual reports outlining the views of the various members.

Rumpus Is Expected.

When it lands at the Capitol today, it is expected to kick up considerable of a controversy.

In the past both wets and drys have attacked the commission. On one occasion, Representative La Guardia, wet Republican, of New York, made a point of order that caused a $250,000 appropriation for the commission to be thrown out.

President Hoover replied to this action by saying that he would raise the money from private sources to permit the commission to continue if the appropriation was not allowed. After that, the bill carrying the money was passed.

The work of the commission does not end with its report on prohibition. It must go ahead now with its investigation of crime in general.

Right now the only member of the commission in Washington is Chairman Wickersham. The others are expected to assemble here from time to time until their task has been completed.

DRIVER HEARD SHOTS AT SLAIN GIRL'S HOME

maid who was on her way from her home in the Northeast to a place of employment in the Southeast section of the city.

Capt. Kelly did not make the name of the witness public but said that as she passed the parked automobile on Nineteenth street she heard the driver of the car say to the girl companion:

"The hell you will."

"Yes, the hell I will," was the girl's answer according to the witness.

Wore Coat Like Girl's.

The colored woman told Capt. Kelly that the girl was youthful in appearance and wore a black coat with a black fur collar. Beulah Limerick owned a coat answering this description. The man in the car was described as about 19 years old and had his black hair sleeked back.

If the story of the milk man is substantiated, police believe that it will be very important. Patrolman Langdon, who is held in the District Jail for action of the grand jury, admitted before a coroner's jury that about 4 o'clock he glanced into the Limerick house. He heard no shots.

Richard Reed and Vernon Limerick, who slept in an upper bedroom, and are also held in connection with the murder, said that they heard no shots. Reed awoke soon after 4:30 on the morning of the murder, he said, and saw nothing unusual in the house and believed that the girl was sleeping.

Story May Free Paddy.

Reed and Limerick occupied rooms on the second floor. So far as has been learned by police, no one occupied the room on the third floor, where the milk man says he saw a light.

Capt. Kelly said that if Boyer's story is cororborated in any way, it will eliminate from suspicion William E. Paddy, who left the Limerick home at 12:40 on the morning of the murder.

Assistant United States Attorney Julien I. Richards, who will present the case again Limerick, Reed, Paddy and Patrolman Langdon to the grand jury, will today confer with police authorities regarding evidence in the case. Subpenas will be sent out today or tomorrow for more than 50 witnesses, he said.

The grand jury that considered the evidence against Langdon, for posession of instruments designed for the manufacture of illicit liquors, will make a report of its findings today, Mr. Richard said.

Harry T. Whalen, attorney for Langdon, yesterday visited his client at the jail. Langdon wants to get out, Mr. Whelan said, so that he can "do some investigating in connection with the case."

MRS. M. E. HOGSETT RITES.

Woman Who Lived Here Since 1912 to Be Buried in Staunton.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Hogsett, 80 years old, who died Sunday at her home, 1450 Clifton street northwest, will be conducted tonight at 7:30 o'clock from her late residence. Interment will be at Staunton, Va.

A native of Staunton, Mr. Hogsett came to Washington in 1912, following the death of her husband, Dr. Henry S. Hogsett. She was well known in church activities, being a member of the Central Presbyterian Church. Surviving her is a daughter, Mrs. Natalie H. Zirkle, with whom she made her home here.

COURT DRY BATTLE OPENS TOMORROW

TWO HOURS GIVEN SIDE

(Associated Press.)

Preliminary to tomorrow's battle over the validity of the eighteenth amendment, the Government yesterday filed with the Supreme Court its appeal from the decision of Judge Clark, of New Jersey, holding the amendment invalid.

A brief supporting Judge Clark's ruling, based on the contention the amendment should have been ratified by State conventions rather than legislatures, was also submitted yesterday by Jeremiah M. Evarts, an attorney of Windsor, Vt.

He is not associated with counsel for William H. Sprague, whose truck load of beer began the controversy, but was permitted to intervene by the court.

Says Point Decided.

Solicitor General Thacher will present the Government's contentions. He has already filed a brief outlining his argument. Summed up, it said the questions raised by Judge Clark have already been decided by the court.

Two hours have been set aside for Thacher, but he has indicated he will not need that much time. The Government is confident the court will sustain its position.

Julius Henry Cohen and Selden Bacon, New York attorneys, will support the Clark decision. They also have been allotted two hours of the court's time. Their brief replying to that of the Government has not been filed. They are expected to follow closely the reasoning of Judge Clark.

Woodcock Is Admitted.

Argument in another important prohibition case has been set for the near future. It is an appeal by Richard Husty and Charles Laurel, of Grand Rapids, Mich. Their automobile was searched on the street of Grand Rapids by agents who had no warrant. They attacked the legality of the search but were convicted in the lower court.

Prohibition Director Woodcock was admitted to practice before the court today so that he may argue the case.

The court today refused to review the appeals of Carl Hauptman, R. H. Johnstone and Clint Griffith, who were convicted in Ketchikan, Alaska, of violating the Alaska bone dry law.

The board plans an intensive Nation-wide development program. Frank M. Archer, of Boston, is chairman of the new board, which comprises Frank M. Archer, jr.; Benjamin B. Avery, of New York; B. Devereaux Barker, Arnault B. Edgerly, William E. Stanwood and P. E. Thompson, all of Boston, and H. A. Thompson, of Lowell, Mass. Officers are Mr. Archer sr., general manager; F. E. Thompson, president; Mr. Archer, jr., vice president and clerk of the corporation; Mr. Edgerly, vice president; H. A. Thompson, secretary-treasurer; Eugene J. Harrigan, assistant secretary; and Joseph T. Brennan, assistant secretary.

Mrs. Crater Subpenaed In Justice's Vanishing

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Joseph Force Crater, wife of the supreme court justice, who disappeared last August 6, returned from Portland, Me., yesterday and was served today with a subpena to submit to questioning by District Attorney Crain.

She said she would call at the district attorney's office tomorrow. Crain said that if she gives any valuable information concerning the disappearance of her husband he will submit it to a new grand jury.

Cantor Rosenblatt Sings Tomorrow

Dedication of Tablet to Louis Marshall Also Is on Program.

Featuring the observance of the fifth anniversary of the Jewish Community Center will be the concert given by the Rev. Josef Rosenblatt, world famed cantor, tomorrow evening at 8:15, in the Cafritz Auditorium.

Cantor Rosenblatt leaped into prominence by refusing a contract of the Chicago Opera Company on the ground that he could not appear in an operatic production for religious reasons. He does consent, however, to appear in a few concerts every year. This is his first appearance in a musical recital in Washington.

Another feature of the meeting will be the dedication of a tablet to Louis Marshall, American jurist, who exhibited such great friendship for the Washington Center. Isidore Hershfield, of the board of trustees, will deliver the eulogy. Mr. Hershfield had a historical association with Louis Marshall in connection with the administration of war relief.

The concert will be open to the public.

POLE OFFERS CURES FOR BANK SITUATION

REMOVAL POWER ASKED

(Associated Press.)

Two possible remedies for existing banking conditions were outlined by J. W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, yesterday as a Senate inquiry into the Nation's financial system got under way.

Appearing in place of Gov. Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board, whom the Glass subcommittee had first planned to call, Mr. Pole said help might be given by amendments to permit banks in large commercial centers to establish branches in rural communities and to give the comptroller power to remove national bank officers for inefficiency and mismanagement.

The committee went extensively into the reasons for recent bank failures and drew from Mr. Pole the opinion that failure of the National Bank of Kentucky was brought about by its "domination by a single arrogant person" and by bad real estate investments by the Bancokentucky Corporation, the holding company which later assumed control.

Power Would Be Rarely Used.

Although believing the power to remove officers for mismanagement would be very rarely used, but would serve as a "deterrent," Mr. Pole said the Kentucky failure would have been one instance where it would have been employed.

"In the present situation," he said, "it seems to me that a positive declaration of a national policy for the further extension of branch banking is essential."

He attributed the failure of 6,000 banks in rural sections in the last ten years to great economic and social changes which have made it impossible for the country banks to diversify their business.

"Much of the business which once went to the local bank now goes to the large bank in the nearest city," he said.

Norbeck Criticizes Witness.

He said branch banking, emanating from large commercial centers, should be permitted gradually to be established in rural communities in order to give to them the benefits of the best type of banking.

The economic depression, he said, had resulted in few failures of city banks and in every case of this kind the failure may be traced to "some specific abnormal situation."

Senator Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, chairman of the full banking committee, and a member of the subcommittee, took issue with Mr. Pole for emphasizing the failure of rural banks. He contended the city bank failures had involved as much, if not more money, than the rural closings.

Mr. Pole said the public was not aware of the number of banks "saved" from failure by his office. He estimated 500 banks had been withdrawn from the brink of disaster in the last five years by examinations and advice of his staff. He knew of no instance where a bank had lost anything through its loans to brokers.

Measure to Speed Building Passed

Completion of U. S. Plans Hurried in Bill Now Going to Senate.

(Associated Press.)

The Keyes-Elliott bill designed to speed completion of the $530,000,000 Federal construction program by liberalizing administrative machinery was passed yesterday by the House without a record vote.

Under the measure, which now goes to the Senate, the Secretary of the Treasury would be authorized to limit the issuance of plans and specifications to applicants judged financially responsible. He would also be empowered to limit the time of advertising for bids for building sites and to obtain surveys of sites without competitive bidding before the title has been vested in the Government.

A further provision would permit the employment of outside technical assistance in preparing plans.

DAHLGREN BRIDGE ON ROCKS IN HOUSE

SCHAFER THROWS TAUNT

Despite an effort by Representative Stephen W. Gambrill (Democrat), of Maryland, to get consideration by the House on the pending bill extending the time for beginning and completion of a bridge across the Potomac River near Dahlgren, Va., Representative Fiorella H. La Guardia (Republican), of New York, adhered to his objection.

The bill was on the consent calendar and Mr. La Guardia's objection was sufficient to prevent its consideration. Representative R. Walton Moore (Democrat), of Virginia, has supported the bill. Representative La Guardia quoted a report from the Secretary of Agriculture pointing out that nothing had been done by those authorized to build the bridge, although five years had elapsed since authority was granted.

Representative Gambrill said that the sponsors of the bridge had been unable to carry out their plans because of economic conditions and other factors over which they had no control.

A few minutes later another bridge bill was reached on the calendar. It provided for a bridge over the Rio Grande River between Texas and Mexico. Again Mr. La Guardia objected, but after a statement from Representative John W. Garner (Democrat), of Texas, withdrew his objection and the bill was passed. Whereupon Representative John C. Schafer (Republican), of Wisconsin, lauded Mr. La Guardia for aiding in the transportation of liquor into the territory of "wet drinking, dry voting Southern congressmen."

Philippine Memorial To Taft Is Authorized

(Associated Press.)

The erection in the Philippine Islands of a memorial to William Howard Taft, former governor general, was authorized in a Senate bill passed yesterday by the House. The House amended the measure to remove a limitation of $35,000 and to substitute the word "memorial" for "monument."

Selection of a site by the Secretary of War and approval of plans by the National Commission of Fine Arts was authorized. The bill now goes to conference.

Scout Badge Is Given To Walter H. Newton

A Boy Scout alumnus badge was presented yesterday to Walter H. Newton, secretary to President Hoover, by Robert Wilson, 13-year-old scout of Troop 12. The ceremony took place at the White House.

In accepting the token Mr. Newton, who first became an honorary scout in 1912, said: "Scouting has come of age and it is pleasant to think how many boys have come and will come of age as better citizens, manlier men and kindlier neighbors because of what scouting has done for them."

PANEL OF 48 DRAWN FOR TRIAL OF BRADYS

Court Anticipates That Both May Ask Jury Decision in Bomb Killing.

CASE SET FOR MONDAY

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 19.—Anticipating that trial by jury may be asked by both of the Brady brothers, Herman and Leroy, indicted in the bomb blast murder case at Seat Pleasant, Prince Georges County, New Year's Day, 1930, that resulted in the death of three persons and injury to four others, Judge Robert Moss, in the Anne Arundel County Circuit Court, today drew a special panel of 48 talesmen for emergency purposes.

Trial is set for Monday of next week and it has been indicated that the accused men will be tried separately. The additional 48 jurors will make a total panel of 73, as the regular panel of 25 has been carried over from the October term of court because of the large number of criminal actions developed by grand jury investigations in that term.

The trial here will be the third attempt to settle the cases. Indicted originally by the grand jury of Prince Georges County, counsel for the accused were granted a change of venue on the ground that a fair and impartial trial could not be obtained at Upper Marlboro and the cases were transferred to the Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville.

When arraigned there, Herman, the elder brother, whose wife was killed instantly by the bomb, delivered at her home in the form of a Christmas package, asked for trial by court. Leroy went to trial before a jury, and a mistrial resulted. Then another removal was sought and the lower court transferred the cases to the jurisdiction of Anne Arundel County.

From a local angle State's Attorney A. Theodore Brady will assist in the prosecution, while former State's Attorney Nicholas H. Green, a leading criminal lawyer here, will be associated with the defense.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE Democrats thought they were having a thunder of a good time the other day when they got after Senator Gillett for opposing the appropriation of $25,000,000 for distress and not opposing an appropriation to relieve the fire sufferers of Salem, Mass., in 1914. But the more we think of his action at that time the more he reminds us of that movie "The Copperhead" in which we saw Lionel Barrymore years ago.

It was the story of an Indianian who was in the Secret Service in the Civil War but he could not make this known. Throughout the war his townspeople heaped abuse upon him in the belief that he was a slacker and he had to bear it without saying a word.

The story did not become known until after his death and as he lay in his casket. Then his bigness became apparent in the form of a shadowy stature that was much bigger than the casket or the bodily form in which his townspeople had known him.

* * * *

ON March 4, Gillett ends some 38 years of service in the House and Senate, and before that he climbed the usual ladder of the public man in his State.

Quite frankly, we've never paid much attention to him since he has been in the Senate. He is not very loud nor does he frequently engage in debate. He is not often in the headlines around here. We've read often in the light pieces which the fellows write about the Nation's Capital and its public men that he is the best bridge player in the Senate but that would hardly bring about a crossing of our paths.

* * * *

BUT you can get a pretty good line on the man, and a pretty good line on the kind of service he has given in those 38 years from that action of his on the Salem appropriation.

It is true that he did not vote against it, which seems to make him quite inconsistent in opposing the relief proposition now.

But you have to know the whole story. He was a member of the House and those fellows are even more jumpy than the senators about the people's desires. A whole delegation came down here from Salem asking for congressional relief but neither singly nor in group could they prevail upon Gillett to support them. He said it was wrong, that Massachusetts should take care of its own and to that attitude he held tenaciously.

Finally, he was importuned that if he could not support the appeal that he at least not vote against it. This was the only concession he would make, and he made that undoubtedly in the knowledge that his vote would not have meant a thing in the world.

Instead of the Democrats laughing at him, or thinking they are making him look ridiculously inconsistent we think the man showed an unusual courage in not only refusing to vote for the relief but in not embracing his home-town delegation when they came to town and whoopin' it up with them. At least it is a courage one doesn't see on Capitol Hill every day.

RUSSIA, TURKEY MAY AID EUROPEAN UNION

clared there could be no European union unless all the countries of Europe were parties. Briand and many others argued that the conference was not competent to invite outsiders, being purely a League of Nations organ.

Foreign Minister Henderson, of Great Britain, represented the group which preferred to ask the Russians and Turks to come in when economic questions were being discussed, and this view finally prevailed in the subcommittee.

League Council Meets.

The council of the league began its session this morning and disposed of a quantity of routine business at a short sitting under the presidency of Mr. Henderson.

Disarmament is the topic for tomorrow's meeting and it is expected that at that time the date for the general world conference on air, land and sea disarmament will be determined.

The minorities question, which will bring up German complaints against Poland, will be treated on Wednesday.

The Polish government, in a communication to the league made public today, responded to the German complaints with regard to the alleged mistreatment of German minorities in Polish Upper Silesia.

The reply, signed by Foreign Minister Zaleski, declared the German charges were for the most part inaccurate or erroneous, discussed alleged provocative tactics on the part of members of the German racial group and denied the existence of an organized campaign of terrorism such as Germany complained existed.

Disorders Called Political.

M. Zaleski admitted that disorders had occurred, but asserted that they resulted from political, rather than racial differences. The note concluded:

"The Polish government, in the interests of pacific development and consolidation of relations between the majority and the minority in Upper Silesia, deplores the fact that certain regrettable incidents which occurred during the elections in that territory should serve as a basis for action of a political character clearly going beyond the scope of the minorities question.

"None the less, the Polish government, following its consistent line of conduct, has made a point of exerting its authority with a view of pacification of feeling and full elucidation of the circumstances connected with the incidents in question, and to bringing before competent judicial authorities those persons who took part in the incidents."

Indictment Held Blow At Gigantic Drug Ring

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—The Government struck another blow today at an alleged ring it accuses of importing $10,000,000 to $20,000,000 worth of narcotics yearly.

An indictment charging four men with importing 154 pounds of narcotics was returned by a Federal grand jury. Assistant Federal Attorney Henry Gerson said he was convinced 1,450 pounds of narcotics seized recently in Brooklyn, 68 pounds taken in Hoboken, N. J., and other amounts seized elsewhere were brought into the country by the alleged ring.

Stone Mountain Site Title Will Go to City

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—The Atlanta Journal said today a deed transferring title of the Stone Mountain Confederate Memorial site from the Venable family to the City of Atlanta has been signed by the Venable heirs and is ready for transmission to Mayor James L. Key.

This step, which follows negotiations under way since last September, is believed to clear the way for the appointment of a commission to supervise resumption of work on the monument as soon as funds can be raised.

Wound Bonuses Given To Chinese Soldiers

Nanking, China, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Battle wounds to the Chinese soldier mean not only a spell in blighty, but money in the pocket as well.

The national government has established a bonus for every wound a soldier can show, running from $100 for a full-fledged general down to $5 for the Chinese equivalent of the buck private. Even men taken ill at the front and therefore unfit for service, get $2 when they enter a hospital.

Two Detectives Kill Man Holding Them Up

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Edward Hines held up two police officers today—and died doing it.

Backing two detectives against the wall of an apartment house vestibule, Hines said "Stick up your hands, and keep 'em away from your pockets."

The officers—Michael Foley and Joseph McDonald—obeyed. As they did so a third officer slipped behind Hines and adroitly snatched an unloaded pistol from the coat pocket of Hines' companion, Lester Kelly.

The third officer, James Mahoney, then fired a shot into Hines' leg. Hines whirled to meet the attack. As he did so the other officers drew their guns and dropped him before he could fire.

Willys Sees Hope For Better Times

Patience and Optimism to Win, U. S. Envoy Tells Poles.

Lodz, Poland, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Patience, optimism, and international common sense will pull the world through to better times, United States Ambassador John N. Willys predicted at a dinner given in his honor tonight by the Lodz Branch of the Polish Y. M. C. A.

He prefaced his remarks with the observation that becoming Ambassador had taken 50 years from his age, in that as a diplomat he was again like a little boy, supposed to be seen and not heard. Nevertheless, he ventured to point many reasons for optimism in both the United States and Poland.

The world, he said, was faced by the necessity of "regarding conditions with all the patience and equanimity we can muster, until the guidance of business leaders and the shaping of events shall bring the readjustment necessary to save us all from the paradox of poverty precipitated by abundance."

ready wrought as with the question of whether nature had finished her sculpturing temporarily at least.

Thousands of tons of rocks and ice which had stretched between Luna Island and Prospect Point lay piled in grotesque, jumbled heaps at the foot of the cataract. Would Prospect Point and Luna Island themselves plunge downward and further change the appearance of the American Falls? That was the question which led the reservation commission today to order a complete aerial survey of the river and gorge.

Both Prospect Point and Luna Island are favorite spots with tourists and it was feared any further rock slides would seriously endanger the lives of visitors.

Already the news of the series of rock slides has drawn thousands of visitors to the outflung projections of rock which form the vantage points from which the falls may best be seen. Whether the erosion of countless centuries has worn away the foundation of these vantage points sufficiently to constitute a menace to safety was the question to be answered by the survey.

For, in the opinion of geologists, Profs. Carroll Lane Fenton and Reginald H. Pegrum, of the University of Buffalo, among them, the change in the contour of the falls was caused by no sudden spasm of energy, but was rather the natural outcome of years of quiet work on the part of nature.

In the opinion of reservation officials, the natural erosion was aided by alternate thawing and freezing, accompanied by low water.

George F. Unger, chief engineer of the commission, said that when the aerial photographs of the new contour of the American Falls have been taken "we will compare them with others which have been filed showing the old crest line."

"These comparisons will enable us to determine what, if anything, can be done about the cave-in," he said.

A cursory examination of the rock slides led officials to believe that the Cave of the Winds was not damaged. Although the entrance appeared to be blocked by huge masses of ice and rock it was deemed inadvisable to explore the cave at present because of the presence of ice.

WOMAN JUROR PITTS ATTACKS IS CITIZEN

conceal records had recalled his appeal and had decided to become a Government witness in the other cases pending. Anadale's inclination in this regard was seen some time ago when he refused to join with Pitts in an appeal, and when he engaged other counsel. Edwards already is serving a three-year term, his sentence having been reduced after he had abandoned his appeal.

At the time of the trial Pitts, Anadale and Edwards were represented by Attorneys Frank G. Raichle, Wilton J. Lambert, R. H. Yeatman, George D. Horning, jr., and Edmund Toland.

Edwards was the first to waver. He decided to drop his appeal and was sentenced to serve a three-year sentence instead of a four-year term.

Would Not Join Appeal.

Anadale then indicated his intention to forsake Pitts when he refused to join his former boss in the prosecution of an appeal. At that time it was stated he would not try for a reversal of judgment in the District Court of Appeals. The first actual announcement, however, came yesterday through his new counsel, Mr. Wilkes.

In his petition for habeas corpus Pitts claims he was tried in a court sitting as the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia. He points out the various jurisdictions of the local courts and charges that he should have been tried in a court sitting as a District Court of the United States. Nothing but a Federal court should have had jurisdiction, he says.

Continuing, the defendant says: "The petitioner was tried, convicted and sentenced in a court other than the court expressly specified by law for the trial of the offenses charged against the petitioner, and such trial and judgment was not had and pronounced in the specific court."

Woman's Citizenship Assailed.

Pitts also declares he was illegally convicted, asserting that Miss Mildred Jean Robertson, a member of the jury, is a subject of Great Britain. The young woman, who is secretary of Clark Griffith, was born in Canada, the petition asserts.

The former chairman of the board of the mith Co. also declares that his constitutional rights are being violated because he is not at liberty under bond pending his appeal.

Pitts charges that the indictment on which he was tried was amended after the grand jury presented and asserts that the grand jury did not consider the amended indictment.

In the supplemental motion to set aside the judgment Pitts bases his claim on the contention that Miss Robertson is not an American citizen.

Pitts, Anadale and Edwards were convicted more than a month ago on an indictment charging them with conspiracy to embezzle and destroy records of the firm. They were sentenced several days later by Justice William Hitz, before whom the trial was held.

Writ Granted Attorney.

Pitts was sentenced to serve fourteen years, Anadale to serve nine years and Edwards to serve four years. All three noted appeals. Later, Edwards said he would not appeal and Justice Hitz reduced his sentence by one year. Then Anadale employed other counsel and refused to take any appeal. While his sentence has not be reduced it is understood that he has turned Government witness, and that it will be reduced in view of what he has told Department of Justice agents. Anadale, it was said, has been a daily visitor at the Department of Justice for the past two weeks.

Late yesterday afternoon Justice Frederick L. Siddons sign the writ of habeas corpus for Pitts, presented by Attorney T. M. Wampler, instructing Lieut. Col. William Peake to bring Pitts into court tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

In addition to his conviction, Pitts is chraged in an indictment with using the mails to defraud, with perjury in connection with the Hamilton Hotel bankruptcy and with personal embezzlement of more than $1,200,000 of the Smith company funds.

Beer Baron Pleads Guilty in Tax Case

Frankie Lake Follows His Partner's Example in Federal Action.

Chicago, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Frankie Lake, former partner of Terry Druggan in the beer business, today followed the latter's action and pleaded guilty to charges of violating the Federal income tax law.

Lake's plea, like that of Druggan, was made "with reservations." These are based on the appeals for reversal by Ralph Capone and State Representative Lawrence O'Brien, who were convicted on similar charges.

The court set March 2 for the date of sentence. Druggan is also to come up for sentence on that day.

No sooner had the proceedings before Judge Evans ended than Lake was taken into custody by Chicago police on a vagrancy warrant issued several months ago by Municipal Court Judge John H. Lyle.

TRADE BOARD GROUP FLIES OVER CAPITAL

FAVORS MERGING FIELDS

Members of the aviation committee of the Washington Board of Trade saw the sun for the first time yesterday at 1 o'clock in the afternoon in spite of the fact that they had been up since early morning.

This was due to the fact that the sun was behind thick clouds, and the Board of Trade members had to penetrate them before they could catch a glimpse of Old Sol. They were taken aloft in two big passenger planes of the Ludington Lines after holding a luncheon meeting at the Washington Airport.

Announcement by Vernon R. Lucas, radio engineer and pilot of the Ludington Lines, that a plane trip over the city was forthcoming came as a surprise to the committee members. Mr. Lucas also told the group that he had nearly struck the Washington Monument on a flight down from New York Sunday night. He stressed the need of obstacles, such as wires, being removed from the vicinity of the airport.

The committee voted to continue efforts to bring about passage of the airport bill, which would result in consolidation of Washington Airport and Hoover Field, and the abandonment of Military road, which divides the two fields. A subcommittee was appointed to study the McNary-Parker bill, which would permit the Government to let air mail contracts to lighter-than-air ships.

Lawrence Williams, chairman of the aviation committee, who presided at the luncheon meeting, announced that fine progress is being made in the collection of weather and flying data at Hybla Valley for Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, who is considering Hybla Valley as a site for an airship center for transatlantic travel. Henry J. Brown, chief pilot of the Ludington Lines, told the committee that 10,000 plane passengers have been recorded at the field in the past four months.

Law to Help Girls Unlawfully Jailed

77 Committed as Wayward Minors May Be Freed in New York.

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—The law started today its task of seeing justice done to 77 girls alleged to have been committed illegally to Bedford Reformatory as wayward minors.

Mrs. Luigi Di Donato, who was sent up last year by Magistrate Abraham Rosenbluth when she was 16 years old, was given her liberty on a writ of habeas corpus granted by Supreme Court Justice Morschauser.

Testimony was adduced to show she was committed on her plea of guilty, which appellate division investigators of the New York magistrates courts insist is an illegal procedure. The girl has maintained that when she pleaded guilty she did not realize what she was doing.

Isidore Kresel, special counsel in the inquiry, announced Saturday the judicial conduct of Magistrate Rosenbluth would be investigated. Rosenbluth is at Miami, where he is said to be ill.

Concealing Assets Charged in Trial

Four Said to Have Conspired to Violate Bankruptcy Regulations.

Charged with conspiring to violate the bankruptcy laws by concealing assets from the trustee in bankruptcy, T. Oliver Probey, his son, T. Milton Probey; his son-in-law, Marion T. Edwards, and John H. Frankeberger went on trial in District Supreme Court yesterday for the second time.

Justice William Hitz declared a mistrial when the case opened last May because a juror was seen in conversation with a defendant. The retrial is before Justice Jesse C. Adkins, with Assistant United States Attorney William H. Collins conducting the prosecution, and Attorneys S. McComas Hawken and J. Robert Esher appearing for the defendants.

The Government charges that Frankeberger was an officer of the Henderson Tire Co. in 1927, and that the concern was connected with Probey's, Inc., a tire concern operated by the other three defendants. It is claimed the quartet concealed the presence of assets consisting of a large stock of tires.

Boyd, general counsel for the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad, and advisor to the Van Sweringen brothers, and John J. Benet, president of the Cheaspeake & Ohio, a Van Sweringen road, would announce plans for extending their road to Providence.

Levine's Airplanes Are Sold for Rent

$250,000 Craft Brings $750; Police Seek Owner on Other Count.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Airplanes and other property of Charles A. Levine, seized by a sheriff for rent due to Roosevelt Field, were sold today to the highest bidders. An all-metal monoplane, "Uncle Sam," which Levine built at a cost of $250,000 a year ago for a projected flight around the world, was bid in by Roosevelt Field for $750.

"The Riad," which Levine built for use as a land plane, seaplane or amphibian, sold for $1,000. Other property, including tools and supplies brought about $50. Roosevelt Field claimed $5,108, or 14 months' hangar rent, was due from Levine.

Sponsor and passenger on Chamberlin's flight from New York to Germany in 1927, Levine has been sought by police for two weeks in another connection. Assistant District Attorney Garrison in New York ordered his arrest because Levine failed to appear to explain possession of securities reported stolen.

Chichester, county health officer, announced yesterday that beginning today there will be distributed in the county public schools 5,000 letters in which attention is called to the need of the cooperation of both the child and parent in preventing any further spread of the disease.

"If an illness appears in the fam, ily," the question is asked "What is it?" You should not let the safety of the patient and the safety of other families in the community suffer because the question receives the wrong answer. The layman should not attempt to make these diagnoses, and thus jeopardize the welfare of the patient and the community. Most of these conditions are difficult of diagnosis and more difficult of treatment, even for one who has given all his life to such things. Call a physician, who will not only diagnosis and treat the condition found, but will give you full and complete information as to preventive measures," said Dr. Chichester.

LEADERS OVERRULE TAX RATE INCREASE

Montgomery County Chiefs to Hold Up Projects, if Necessary.

FIREMEN HOLD BANQUET

Montgomery County's tax rate will not be increased this year and projects of the general improvement program, which has been approved by the Montgomery County Civic Federation, which would necessitate an increase in the tax rate will be deferred, it was decided at a meeting of the county leaders held at the home of Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader.

Leading men from all over the county attended the meeting to discuss the policy of the administration. The consensus of opinion was that a raise in the tax rate at this time would be unwise because of the widespread depression and drought conditions, which have been felt by the farmers and business men of the upper end of the county to a large extent.

Such projects as can be carried out without an increase in the tax rate will be taken care of this year and all items which would require a raise will be deferred until later.

Can Avoid Tax Raise.

The civic federation advocated a road and school building program, which would necessitate a 10½ cents raise in the tax rate as part of the general advancement of the county's school and roads systems.

The county leaders believe that the increase in assessments in 1931 due to real estate construction, will support a 1932 bond issue and that the 1933 general increase of the taxable basis which will follow the general reassessment will finance the other items without a tax rate increase.

Bond issues to finance the entire program will be authorized by the General Assembly, but will be made optional and not mandatory on the county commissioners, who can issue the bonds if the means of paying for them without a tax increase can be worked out, but can hold them in abeyance if this is not possible. This will leave to the county commissioners and the members of the county delegation to the General Assembly the task of deciding which projects are necessary for immediate action and which can be held over until the financial situation becomes ameliorated.

Organization Decided Upon.

Formation of a permanent organization to be known as the Montgomery Government Club, which will be active only in county elections and not in the national elections was decided upon. The new group will be composed of delegates from the thirteen election districts on the basis of 1 delegate to each 50 voters.

Each district will have its independent organization, which will be organized by precincts and elect chairmen from each precinct to act as the members of the executive committee of the county organization. Democrats and Republicans who are willing to support the administration will be eligible for membership.

SEPARATING POWER PLANTS IS OPPOSED

Prince Georges County Grou Fights for Advantages in Rate Fixing.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Protesting "against the denial to the people of Maryland of any advantages in rate reduction accorded to people of the District," the Prince Georges County Chamber of Commerce met last night to oppose any separation of the Maryland and the District plants of the Potomac Electric Power Co. as a basis for rate fixing.

The chamber, with representatives of five towns, seven groups of citizens, and delegates from the Federation of Citizens Associations, adopted a resolution throwing its lot with the electric power company in the pending dispute It has been suggested that the property of the company in Maryland should be subtracted from the valuation of the Washington plant as the basis for fixing rates for the District. This, it is thought, might have the effect of lowering rates in Washington.

C. Melvin Shappe, special representative of the power company, addressed the meeting last night and said that if the separation is made it is likely that Maryland rates would no longer be as low as those in the District.

Joint Sessions Favored.

The Chamber of Commerce and allied bodies also went on record as favoring joint sessions of the Public Utilities Commission of the District and the Public Service Commission of Maryland when rates of the metropolitan area are to be set.

The resolution was adopted by the towns of Hyattsville, Riverdale, Bladensburg, Mount Rainier and Brentwood. Other organizations were the College Park Home and School Association, the Branchville Citizens' Association, the Beltsville Grange, the Exchange Club, the University Park Tax Payers' Association, the Stephens' Citizens' Association of East Riverdale and the Decatur Heights Citizens' Association.

William T. Jennings was elected president of the chamber, and Dr. I. K. Atherton was chosen vice president. Other officers are treasurer, William Bowie; secretary, C. D. Anderson; national councilor, M. T. May, and associate national councilor, Daniel Cox Fahey, jr. A. H. Seidenspinner was elected executive committeeman.

UP TO THE HOUSE.

By a vote of 56 to 27, the Senate yesterday refused to reconsider its vote of last Saturday approving the Robinson amendment to the Interior Department supply bill. The amendment appropriates $25,000,000 to be expended by the Red Cross for the purchase of food and medical supplies for the needy. Despite the fact that the States affected have made no effort to assuage the misery of drought sufferers, and despite the dangerous precedent set in the distribution of what amounts to a Federal dole, the Senate proposes to dish out with a large hand the tidy sum of $25,000,000 from the Federal Treasury on the theory that it is good politics to do so.

On Sunday President Hoover announced the appointment of a committee of influential citizens, headed by Calvin Coolidge and embracing in its membership such men as Alfred E. Smith and John W. Davis, "to sponsor the American Red Cross effort to raise $10,000,000 for the relief of the sufferers in the drought-stricken areas." In his letter to those he asked to serve on the committee, the President pointed out the extent of the emergency in the drought-affected areas, saying: "The American way of meeting such a relief problem has been through a voluntary effort, and for many years this effort has been concentrated in the American Red Cross, created by the people themselves to act in just such emergencies. It has met its responsibilities magnificently in times of war and peace. It is essential that we should maintain the sound American tradition and a spirit of voluntary aid in such emergency and should not undermine that spirit which has made our Red Cross the outstanding guardian of our people in time of disaster."

The Senate proposal for a Government donation to the Red Cross explains fully the poor showing the Red Cross has made thus far in its drive. Now that the Senate has repeated its gesture, the people will show even greater hesitancy to opening their pocketbooks in the emergency. Why should they give of their money when the Government is financing the Red Cross?

It remains to be seen whether the House will resist the threatened raid on the Treasury. The House has the opportunity to save America from a dangerous misstep. Early action should be taken to kill off this amendment in order to save the Red Cross appeal from failure.

ARLINGTON MEMORIAL BRIDGE.

It now develops that the Arlington Memorial Bridge will cost, if completed according to the original plans, about $780,000 in excess of the anticipated figure. Unforeseen difficulties of several sorts, together with minor modifications of the original plan, combine to explain the prospective deficit. It was found necessary, for example, to increase the height of the main bridge and the boundary channel bridge for structural advantages, and unexpected difficulty was encountered in fixing a firm foundation under the boundary channel bridge. The constructional difficulties and changes of the original plans increased the cost some $4,500,000 above the estimates, but by eliminating some of the items called for in the plans and economizing on others savings totaling some $3,763,000 were effected.

At a recent meeting of the Bridge Commission it was decided to limit the work from this time forward, cutting out certain aspects of the development as originally planned, in order that the cost may be kept as closely as possible to the original estimate. It was suggested that statues planned for the boundary channel bridge might be eliminated at a saving of $78,000; that statues planned for the main bridge might be eliminated at a saving of $392,000; that planting might be substituted for the balustrade on Columbia Island, estimated at $400,000, and that statues on Columbia Island, for which $400,000 was set aside, might be eliminated. Final decision as to how and what economies might be effected has not been made, but the commission is resolved to keep the cost as closely as possible to the original estimate.

Congress should be consulted before the plans for the brige and the surrounding development are materially altered. Arlington Bridge is being built not only to relieve a serious communication problem between Washington and Virginia, but also as a noble monument linking the National Cemetery, in which the Unknown Soldier is buried, with the Lincoln Memorial and the Washington Monument. It is not the fault of the commission that the project promises to cost more than was originally contemplated, and it is not the commission's duty to decide whether or not the project shall be completed on a less elaborate scale because of the increased cost. Congress under the circumstances may want to increase the appropriation so as to permit the full development and beautication of the bridge and its approaches. At any rate, the question should be brought before Congress before a final decision is reached.

OIL PROPAGANDA.

The campaign for a tariff on oil has reached the point of frenzy. Representative Garber, of Oklahoma, has introduced bills to levy a duty on oil imports and to authorize the President to halt all importations by an embargo. Representative Hoch, of Kansas, asks for a sweeping investigation into the industry. At the same time Washington is flooded with propaganda of a most extravagant nature.

Russell B. Brown, secretary of the conference of independent oil interests which met in Washington last week, demands a tariff in the holy name of peace. He views the peace of the world as "inextricably interwoven with the solution of the oil issues." America might make a substantial contribution to that peace "if it ceased to import so much of the blood-stained oil of South America and promoted the development of its own natural resources."

Perhaps the country will be pardoned if it is unable to follow the muddled logic with which the oil men make world peace contingent upon their own prosperity, and the public will be excused if it is unable to find blood stains in its gasoline.

The only investigation that would be relevant to the issue would be one to determine how soon the United States would be at the mercy of foreign petroleum monopolies, if petroleum imports were excluded. The Tariff Commission is investigating the need for a duty on oil, but the matter of policy, which can be determined only by Congress, will supersede any data that the inquiry might bring forth. Congress has already decided that the plea to speed up the exploitation of American oil reserves is indefensible, and there is not the slightest indication of any change in that attitude.

NEW YORK'S POWER POLICY.

The report of the marketing board of New York's St. Lawrence Power Development Commission is especially interesting because it comes at a time when efforts are made in Congress to socialize the power industry. This board of experts, appointed by Gov. Roosevelt, who is regarded as a foe of the "power trust," advises against construction of transmission lines by the State. Direct benefits from the development would not warrant general competition with existing companies, the board concludes, and the indirect benefits would be largely lost by such competition.

Gov. Roosevelt has held firmly to the idea of development of the St. Lawrence power project by the State. It may be assumed that he appointed a commission with views in harmony with his own. Even so, this commission can not see any advantage in competition between the State and private interests in the distribution of power. There is still less excuse for the Federal Government to enter competition with its own citizens in this field.

The House conferees on Muscle Shoals recently voted to allow the Government to construct transmission lines for distribution of power to be generated at Muscle Shoals. An expert State board considers such competition unwise, but the socialistic bloc in Congress does not hesitate to experiment. This report ought to remind some congressmen how far they have departed from common sense on the "power issue."

REAPPORTIONMENT SCHEMES.

Representative Thurston, of Iowa, has introduced a measure to increase the membership of the House of Representatives. It is not to be supposed that any one will take his bill seriously. Mr. Thurston no doubt regards his action as an effective means of letting the voters back home know that he resents the diminution of dear old Iowa's influence in Washington.

Some representatives from States that lose seats under the 1930 reapportionment have introduced similar measures. But most of them have suggested that the membership of the House be enlarged so that no State would lose. Mr. Thurston does not go that far. He advocates the creation of 40 new seats to be apportioned on the basis of population. Some States would still be losers, and others would make additional gains. The general effect, it seems, would be to accentuate the agony of what Senator Grundy used to call the "backward" States.

What difference does it make to a State whether it has ten or twelve representatives in Washington, if the relative voting strength of either number would be the same? No amount of sophistry or mental contortions can hide the fact that some States have grown much more rapidly than others. The only equitable distribution of seats in the House that can be made is on the basis of population. If that is done the size of the House is not important, except that it ought not to be unwieldy. Opinion is almost unanimous that membership in the House is already too large.

The most that can be said for Representative Thurston's bill, or any other measure that would increase membership in the House, is that it would cost $400,000 for salaries alone, and would contribute magnificently to the inefficiency of Congress without aiding the States in any way.

FOR THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

One of the most important pieces of District legislation before Congress is the Gibson bill to amend the license laws. Many provisions of the present license law are obsolete, and conditions have changed so radically since it was adopted that changes are imperative. The new bill was drafted by a special committee appointed for that purpose by the Commissioners. It departs from present practice in that it sets up a graduated scale of license fees based on the cost of inspection of bakeries, groceries, and other lines of business. Under the present law about $175,000 in revenue is collected annually, of which about $60,000 is in excess of inspection costs. Under the proposed new law the collections probably will mount to $275,000, of which approximately half will be in excess of the cost of operation.

The initial hearing on the bill developed some opposition. The point was made that small businesses should not be taxed, particularly grocery stores and the like, for the purpose of raising revenue, because such taxes, in effect, add to the cost of living. It was said further that the proposed measure would make necessary the appointment of additional inspectors who would run around bothering businesses, thus increasing the costs of doing business.

It would be a splendid thing if businesses of certain kinds could be allowed to operate without license supervision. The large number of small stores in Washington that are insanitary and unclean, however, indicates the need for revision of the license laws. If it is true that license fees in the proposed new measure are no larger than are needed to support the cost of making inspections, and that the profit that will accrue under its operation will come from the so-called restrictive fees, there is no valid basis for opposing its enactment. Such businesses as groceries, barber shops, &c., must be licensed and regularly inspected in the interest of the health of the community.

WASHINGTON'S BOYHOOD

By CHARLES ARTHUR HOPPIN,
In Tyler's Quarterly Historical and Genealogical Magazine.

George Washington was born in the brick house built by his father at Popes Creek, Washington Parish, Westmoreland County, Va., on the exact spot where, in 1895, the United States of America erected a monument to mark the site and to memorialize the event of that birth.

The birth occurred on February 11, 1731 (old style), now called February 22, 1732 (new style).

George Washington lived there in that house until after the death therein, and the burial in the Washington family graveyard nearby at Bridges Creek, of his half-sister, Jane Washington. She was buried there on January 17, 1734 (old style), which is now 1735 (new style).

Ere long after the seventeenth of January, 1735, and as soon as the Potomac River was free from ice and open fully for navigation by small sailing craft, and when the spring weather had made agreeable a journey up the river of at least two days' duration, George Washington and his parents removed by water from the house at Popes Creek to Epsewasson, now known as Mount Vernon, then (1735) in Prince William County, Va. His father first became of record, as present there, on November 18, 1735, when chosen vestryman of Truro Parish in that county.

On November 3, 1738, George's father purchased 280 acres of land with two dwelling houses and outbuildings thereon, largely in Brunswick Parish, King George County, Va., and located near to and northeastward of the Rappahannock River, and partly opposite the lower end of Fredericksburg on the southern (opposite) side of that river and in the County of Spotsylvania.

Within the year following this purchase George Washington, with his parents, removed from Epsewasson into one of those two residences upon those 280 acres of land. Therein he lived from 1739 to his father's death, in the same house, on April 12, 1743. During this period of residence George Washington was a pupil of the sexton of Brunswick Parish, King George County, who was familiarly called "Hobby." * * *

Augustine Washington returned from his second visit to England early in July, 1737. The identity of "Hobby," when "brought" and where from, are not entirely clear. The situation is summed up fairly by C. H. Callahan, in "Washington, the Man and Mason," viz:

"During Augustine Washington's residence at Epsewasson, the Truro parish vestry, of which he was a member and present at the meeting held August 13, 1737, elected the Rev. Charles Greene rector, who subsequently, at the instance of Mr. Washington, appointed a man by the name of William Grove clerk. A division of sentiment arose over this appointment and Grove, to preserve harmony, declined the position of clerk, accepting that of sexton. Some writers opine that this sexton (Grove) was a political convict brought over from England by Capt. Washington, and that the rural pedagogue, Hobby (George Washington's first (known) schoolteacher) was none other than this exiled sexton, who had removed with the captain from Epsewasson to Stafford (then King George County), 'Hobby' being a nickname."

Ere long (the exact month is not of record) after his father's death in April, 1743, George Washington became a pupil of a Mr. Williams in Westmoreland County, Va., about 35 miles eastward from where George's father had died. During this period (the length of which is not of record, nor is it of record as to how many terms, or months, in each of the several years following his father's death, George was taught by Mr. Williams) he, George, resided, during such terms, at Wakefield, Popes Creek, Westmoreland County, where he had been born, with his elder half-brother, Augustine Washington, jr.

After this period, of probably not consecutive residence throughout any one year, George Washington lived with his mother in one of the aforesaid two residences on the aforesaid 280 acres in Brunswick Parish, King George County, Va. While living there his schooling was completed before February 27, 1748, by a finishing course of instruction under the Rev. Mr. Marye, who, it is being modernly claimed, tutored privately at Fredericksburg, Spotsylvania County, within convenient daily reach of George's home with his mother in the adjoining county of King George across the Rappahannock River. The number of months, or terms, that George received instruction from the Rev. Mr. Marye, and when the months or terms began and when they ended, are not of record. A reasonable division of the time, between April, 1743, and February, 1748, would be that George's schooling was half at Wakefield with Mr. Williams and afterward half with the Rev. Mr. Marye. School days had ended, of course, before George, in February, 1748, departed from his home in Brunswick Parish, King George County, for Mount Vernon, there to continue, at 16 years of age, preparation for his active career as a surveyor. He inherited from his father in 1743 a "set of surveyor's instruments" and he practiced with them in 1747 in King George County.

DOC'S FIRST QUERY.

When comes my doctor unto me
In answer to my pleading,
To give that balm for agony
Which I am sorely needing,
When he has put his coat away
And made his formal greeting,
He'll look at me and sternly say:
"Well, what have you been eating?"

As like a timid child I rise
To tell my tale of anguish,
How spots are thick before my eyes
As I in fever languish,
He shakes his wise old head and gray
At all that I'm repeating;
Then to the good wife turns to say:
"Well, what has he been eating?"

Is there no other source of pain
Than pie and cake and cheeses,
Do I from red roast beef obtain
Whatever my disease is?
Is there no way, in innocence,
Of stray bacilli meeting
That always he must thus commence:
"Well, what have you been eating?"

If that so far off heavenly shore
My doctor goes before me,
And standing at the pearly door
I find him waiting, for me,
I'll wager as I step inside
Where angel wings are beating,
He'll say to me: "And so you've died!
Well, what had you been eating?"

If One Castaway Is Unwilling to Divide Food Equally, Others Say He Is Mad.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MAN'S inhumanity to man is a product of stupidity.

The age-long crushing of the weak by the strong, the cruelty of greed, the trickery and injustice of avarice, all alike are caused by the failure of reason to overcome instinct.

That is a truth so simple and so obvious that a child should be able to comprehend it.

Imagine, if you will, a little company of people cast away on an island in the sea.

There is sufficient clothing for all, and food and water in abundance.

The people are not safe, however, for the island that offered them refuge is slowly sinking. They can measure the encroachment of the waters and predict the end almost to a day.

There is no possibility of escape. It is but a question of time until all alike shall be engulfed in the sea.

Now imagine that a few men of that doomed company, being stronger and more greedy than the others, seize the springs of water and the trees that supply food and say to the others: "A few of you may earn your keep by guarding our properties and by serving us in various ways, but the others shall have neither food nor water except by offering their clothing in exchange."

Would you call these strong ones wise?

Why should they wish to "own" the springs and the trees and collect piles of clothing when they are so soon to be drowned with the others?

If they were wise and compassionate men, they would make use of their superior strength to insure a fair division of necessities and to encourage and strengthen the weak.

You know they would; for groups of people have faced disasters much like this imaginary one, and in every instance the strong have been unselfish and gallant.

Why is it, then, that men can not or will not conduct themselves with equal sanity and decency in this fatal adventure called life.

There is no escape for any of us. All must die soon, and none can take treasure or property with him.

Why aren't men wise enough to see the truth, to regard their fellow men as comrades in disaster, and to use their talents unselfishly to serve and protect their weaker brothers until the inevitable end comes to all?

Because nature, bent on preserving the species, gave the primitive an instinctive love of life and made him incapable of realizing its futility. She blinded him to the inevitable fact of death.

Only reason can see the truth. Only reason can take away man's childish selfishness and teach him to live nobly. And those who can reason are called cranks.

What Grover Cleveland Said.
Minneapolis Journal.

In 1887, Grover Cleveland, expressing disapproval of a bill appropriating Federal funds for relief of drought-stricken counties in Texas, gave his views on the dole in the light of the Constitution. This is what Cleveland said:

"I can find no warrant for such an appropriation in the Constitution, and I do not believe that the power and duty of the general Government ought to be extended to the relief of individual suffering which is in no manner properly related to public service or benefit. A prevalent tendency to disregard the limited mission of this power should, I think, be steadfastly resisted, to the end that the lesson should be constantly enforced that, though the people support the Government, the Government should not support the people. Federal aid in such cases encourages the expectation of paternal care on the part of the Government and weakens the sturdiness of our national character."

Its benevolent purpose fails to excuse the Robinson amendment to the Interior Department appropriation bill providing for a Government gift to the Red Cross for relief of need in the drought belt. Provision of such a gift, or such loaning of the money as is suggested by way of compromise, would establish a precedent which can not fail to be embarrassing both to the Government and to the Red Cross in time to come.

The granting of a dole to buy food for the drought sufferers would open the way to other doles on other occasions and in other sections.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mankind Crucifies and Burns Its Best Friends—Senator Borah a Shining Victim.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The pages of history offer convincing proof that mankind has persistently nailed its saviors on crosses and thrown its would-be benefactors to the flames; a practice which it has not yet entirely relinquished, Senator Borah being a most recent victim of our social ingratitude.

The distinguished senator from Idaho has persistently advocated the recognition of Soviet Russia. Now his advocacy of this piece of political strategy has not been entirely due to a misguided sense of justice, nor yet to an overflowing abundance of good will. On the contrary, his avowed sponsoring of the Soviet cause is confessedly in the economic interests of our own country.

"I think the greatest undeveloped market in the world awaits us if we are but bold enough to seize it," he recently wrote a critic of our Government's policy of pious aloofness. "If we do not do something of this kind" (in regard to official trade resumption with Russia) "we will continue to be in trouble in this country."

Now those are the words of a man who is undoubtedly a friend of American business and American institutions. The one public official whose far-sighted intelligence enables him to see with utmost clarity that the salvation of our modern mode of production and distribution depends upon a sufficiency of available foreign markets. Without a sufficiency of prosperous foreign markets our economic system suffocates like the occupants of a room without windows. A foreign market is the oxygen that capitalism must have to live. Capitalism can no more operate without foreign markets than an automobile can run without gasoline.

We must have a foreign outlet for our unpurchased commodities at home. For the accumulated mass of unpurchased commodities represents capital's share of labor's productivity, which labor is unable to repurchase for lack of funds, and capital is as yet unwilling to relinquish. That surplus can only be profitably disposed of to prosperous foreigners. For if those unpurchased commodities are permitted to clog our domestic market, an economic crisis like we are witnessing now is the inevitable consequence. A condition where food, clothing and shelter exists in lavish abundance only that our freeborn American citizens lack the wherewithal with which to purchase what their hungry stomachs crave and their shivering backs implore.

Senator Borah sees clearly the cause and partial cure of our present economic malady. He knows that appropriating funds for Red Cross and Salvation Army relief will not put men to work. He knows that unemployment can not be legislated out of existence. To put men to work requires orders, not laws; orders from prosperous customers.

Senator Borah sees Russia as a nation of 160,000,000 potential consumers of America's surplus products, and wisely demands that our Government recognize Russia, at least recognize the potential profits to be derived from that accursed land where the erstwhile lowly are the present lords; a country where the meek and the humble have indeed inherited a part of the earth.

But is he listened to? What thanks does Borah get for his loyalty to American business and its political institutions? He is denounced as a radical, as a dangerous red, a senatorial bolshevik who, along with Norris, should be taken out of the Senate and drowned in the Volga River.

Verily, mankind has persistently nailed its saviors on crosses, and thrown its would-be benefactors to the flames. ELI APPELBAUM.

Feeding the People by the Government Is a Long Step Toward Communism.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: your editorial, "States as Beggars," must have pleased any old-fashioned Jeffersonians and Jacksonians as well as Lincolnians who may have read it.

Its criticism of the drought States for not making an earnest effort to take care of their own before seeking Federal alms is not at all too severe.

The editorial's headline presents in three words a picture of State decadence which should make dole-minded advocates of States' rights blush with shame.

I do not think the people at large would view that picture with composure if they could understand its full significance. But the fact that there are prominent political leaders to teach them that it is a proper function of our Government to feed the masses may indicate that, without knowing it, we are headed in the direction of a dictatorship of the proletariat.

If the present socialistic experiment in Russia is wrong from the American standpoint, then there is grave danger to our institutions in the new doctrine of Federal doles. Should the spirit of those who advocate it find general expression, it will only be a historically short time until the United States will become the Union of the Soviet States of America. FEDERALIST.

Without Footpaths the Modern Hiker Stands to Be Killed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I was very much pleased with W. T. T.'s remarks in connection with the agitation of the American Society of Municipal Engineers for highway sidewalks to safeguard pedestrians.

Let any one who imagines this is a matter of small importance start out on an old-fashioned hike, and I risk my reputation for common sense that he returns with a different opinion if not with broken bones.

Walking in the wide open spaces is good for mind and body, and is recommended by the doctors. Which is a pretty good reason why boards of health in every community should encourage construction of footpaths. G. A. PAYSON.

TO HOLD BANQUET HERE

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Criticism of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's declaration for Indian self-government was voiced tonight by Dr. Haridas T. Muzumdar, semiofficial representative of the All-India National Congress in the United States and editor of India Today and Tomorrow.

"The round of festivities in London came to a close today," Dr. Muzumdar said, in a statement. "Barrage of publicity emanating from London has hoodwinked the world into thinking that Great Britain has gone far out of her way to give India self-government. On January 26 the world will hear the Indian side of the story.

"All over India, I have received word, demonstrations will be held to celebrate the first anniversary of India's declaratoin of independence. In this country, too, demonstrations are going to be held in all cities where there is a large Indian population.

"I have arranged for a fitting celebration of the anniversary on January 26 in Philadelphia and Washington. The declaration will be read in front of Independence Hall at noon in Philadelphia, following a parade from City Hall.

"In Washington a banquet will be held in the evening and among the guests of honor and speakers will be Senator Norris, of Nebraska, and Senator Wheeler, of Montana. Charles Edward Russell will speak on India, America and Ireland. Senator Blaine and Dr. John Haynes Holmes and many other prominent Americans are serving on the committee of sponsor. * * *

"The failure of the round table to proclaim a general amnesty shows up the hypocritical nature of the entire proceedings. Where is the earnest of good will? Mr. MacDonald has added two cubits to his stature by a volume of platitiudes he let loose upon the conference at the beginning and at the end, but as for a solution of the Indo-British problem, he has contributed mighty little. * * *

"This is a life and death struggle for us. Platitudes do not bring us our liberties. We have declared war on the British government of India—albeit, a nonviolent war—and we mean to achieve our independence or die."

Alaskan Boatmen Vanish Strangely

U. S. Officials, Suspecting Violence, Investigate Disappearances.

Hutchinson, Alaska, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—A series of mysterious disappearances of boatmen in southeastern Alaska is being investigated by the U. S. marshal's office and Department of Justice agents. While the circumstances in several of the cases were similar, officers said today they had not found evidence to prove the disappearances were plotted by a single killer.

Those missing include Albert Farrow and L. G. Davis, who left Petersburg, near here, for the west coast of Prince of Wales Island about November 19, and were never heard from; Albert C. Anderson, who went hunting ashore from his boat and failed to return, and John Wickstrom, a troller, who disappeared together with his boat near here.

Text of Prime Minister MacDonald's Statement On Britain's Contemplated Future Policy in India

London, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—The text of the British government's declaration of policy in India, as read today by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at the last session of the Indian round table conference, follows:

"The view of his majesty's government is that responsibility for government in India should be placed upon the legislatures, central and provincial, with such provisions as may be necessary to guarantee during the period of transition the observance of certain obligations and to meet other special circumstances, and also with such guarantees as are required by the minorities to protect their political liberties and rights.

"In such statutory safeguards as may be made for meeting the needs of this transitional period, it will be a primary concern of his majesty's government to see that the reserved powers are so framed and exercised as not to prejudice the advance of India through the new constitution to full responsibility for her own government.

Further Negotiations Seen.

"His majesty's government while making this declaration is aware that some of the conditions essential to the working of such a constitution as is contemplated have not been finally settled, but it believes that as a result of the work done here they have been brought to a point which encourages the hope that further negotiations after this declaration will be successful.

"His majesty's government has taken note of the fact that the deliberations of the round table conference have proceeded on the basis accepted by all parties that the central government should be a federation of all India, embracing both the Indian states and British India in a bicameral legislature.

"The precise form and structure of the new federal government must be determined after further discussion with the Indian princes and representatives of British India.

"The range of suspects to be committed to it will also require further discussion because the federal government will have authority only in such matters concerning the states as will be ceded by their rulers in agreements made by them upon entering the federation.

Viceroy Would Act as Agent.

"The connection of the states with the federation will remain subject to the basic principle that in regard to all matters not ceded by them to the federation, their relations will be with the crown, acting through the agency of the viceroy.

"With a legislature constituted on a federal basis, his majesty's government will be prepared to recognise the principle of the responsibility of the executive to the legislature.

"Under existing conditions the subjects of defense and external affairs will be reserved to a governor general and arrangements will be made to place in his hands the powers necessary for administration of those subjects.

"Moreover, as the governor general must as a last resort be able to maintain in emergency the tranquility of the state and the rights of the minorities, he must be granted the necessary power for those purposes.

Plan of Financial Structure.

"As regards finance, the transfer of financial responsibility must necessarily be subject to such conditions as will insure the fulfillment of obligations incurred under the authority of the secretary of state, and the maintenance unimpaired of the financial stability and credit of India.

"The report of the Federal structure committee indicates some ways of dealing with this subject, including a reserve bank, service of loans and exchange policy which in the view of his majesty's government, will have to be provided for somehow in the new constitution.

"It is of vital interest to all parties in India to accept these provisions to maintain financial confidence.

"Subject to the provisions the Indian government would have full financial responsibility for methods of raising revenue and for control of expenditures on nonreserved services. This will mean that under the existing conditions, the central legislature and the executives will have some features of dualism which will have to be fitted into the constitutional structure.

Reserved Powers Cited.

"The provision of reserved powers is necessary under the circumstances and some such reservation has indeed been incidental to the development of most free constitutions.

"But every care must be taken to prevent the arising of conditions which will necessitate their use. It is, for instance, undesirable that the ministers should trust to the special powers of the governor general as a means of avoiding responsibilities which are properly their own, thus defeating the development of responsible government by bringing into use powers meant to lie in reserve and in the background.

"Let there be no mistake about that.

"The governors of the provinces will be constituted on a basis of full responsibility. Their ministries will be taken from the legislature and will be jointly responsible to it. The range of provincial subjects will be so defined as to give them the greatest possible measure of self-government.

Limit of Federal Government.

"The authority of the federal government will be limited to the provisions required to secure its administration of federal subjects and to discharge its responsibilities for subjects defined in the constitution as of all-India concerned.

"There will be reserved to the governor only that minimum of special power, which is required to secure in exceptional circumstances the preservation of tranquillity and to guarantee the maintenance of rights provided by statute for public services and the minorities.

"Finally, his majesty's government considers that institution of responsible government in the provinces requires both that the legislatures should be enlarged and that they should be based on a more liberal franchise.

Rights of Minorities.

"In framing the constitution his majesty's government considers that it will be its duty to insert provisions guaranteeing to the various minorities in addition to political representation that the differences of religion, race, sect or caste shall not in themselves constitute civic disabilities.

"In the opinion of his majesty's government it is the duty of the communities to come to an agreement among themselves on points raised by the minorities subcommittee, but not settled there.

"During the continuing negotiations such an agreement ought to be reached and the government will continue to render what good offices it can to help secure that end, as it is anxious not only that no delay should take place in putting the new constitution into operation, but that it should start with the good will and confidence of all communities concerned.

"Various subcommittees which have been studying the more important principles of a constitution which would meet Indian conditions, have surveyed a considerable part of the structure in detail and the still unsettled points have been advanced a good part of the way to agreement.

"His majesty's government, however, in view of the character of the round table conference and the limited time at its disposal in London has deemed it advisable to suspend its work at this point so that Indian opinion may be consulted upon the work done and expedients be considered for overcoming the difficulties which have been raised.

"His majesty's government will consider without delay a plan whereby our cooperation may be continued so that the results of our completed work may be seen in the new Indian constitution.

"If in the meantime there is a response to the viceroy's appeal to those now engaged in civil disobedience, and if they and others wish to cooperate on the general lines of this declaration, steps will be taken to enlist their services.

Appreciation of MacDonald.

"I must convey to you all on behalf of the government its hearty appreciation of the services you have rendered not only to India, but to this country, by coming here and engaging in personal negotiations.

"Personal contact is the best way of removing those unfortunate differences and misunderstandings which too many people on both sides have been engendering between us in recent years.

"Mutual understanding of intentions and difficulties gained under such conditions as have prevailed here is by far the best way of discovering the means of settling our differences and satisfying our claims.

"His majesty's government will strive to secure such an amount of agreement as will enable the new constitution to be passed through the British Parliament and be put into operation with the active good will of the people of both countries."

Indians Assail Speech.

Bombay, India, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's speech which closed the Indian round table conference in London today, pledging responsible self-government to India, drew sharp criticism tonight from members of the All India National Congress, or Nationalist organization.

Official comment was not obtainable because the contents of the declaration arrived too late, but available opinion in Congress circles criticised the prime minister's speech for what was declared to be its verbiage, vagueness and complete lack of concrete proposals.

Keen disappointment was expressed over Mr. MacDonald's failure to declare for immediate amnesty to the 50,000 congress members now in jail, including Mahatma Gandhi.

Amnesty Insisted On.

'When asked to grant general amnesty today, Mr. MacDonald remarked that' if the results of the round table conference brought the response of civil quiet in India, "the British government will certainly not be backward in responding to it."'

"There can be no peace in India," said a prominent congress official in an interview tonight, "while these men, who represent the best brains and the most liberal thought of the country, are behind steel bars.

"We find little comfort or hope in the premier's speech. Therefore, India's struggle to become mistress in her own house must continue with renewed intensity."

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

2 DEAD, 2 INJURED IN AUTO COLLISION

NO INQUEST IS PLANNED

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 19.—Mason Small, 23, this city, and Howard Stevens, 24, of this county, were killed and two companions who were riding with Stevens, Kester Hess, 21, and Robert Miller, 24, also of the county, are in local hospitals, following an accident Sunday night when automobiles driven by Small and Stevens collided head-on, 10 miles south of here on the Winchester-Martinsburg State highway.

Mason was killed instantly. His body, with head badly smashed, was found 100 yards away from the point of accident and some feet from his wrecked car. Stevens died of a fractured skull while being brought to the hospital here.

Miller is suffering from a probable fracture of the skull and Hess from chest injuries. Hospital physicians do not think their injuries will prove fatal and their condition was reported as improved this morning.

An acting coroner held that an inquest was unnecessary, as drivers of both cars were killed. Officers quoted the injured men as saying that Stevens had been driving fast.

The Stevens' car was headed for this city while Small was driving to Winchester, Va., to keep an engagement with his fiancee, Miss Helen Miller. The accident occurred during a light snow. Officers were inclined to believe that the Stevens' car was being driven on the wrong side of the road.

Small was a gas service station employe here, and formerly was in the theater business, both here and in Winchester, Va. Stevens was employed in the country.

Barksdale, president of the Virginia Bankers Association, spoke on new phases of banking being developed; Representative Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, discussed problems allied with banking in northern Virginia.

The Rev. Dr. F. T. McFaden, pastor of the Loudoun Street Presbyterian Church, discussed the "Christian character of Robert E. Lee" at the banquet. The convention was presided over by C. T. Merchant, of Rosslyn, group chairman. More than 200 members registered, and for the first time in years every bank in northern Virginia was represented.

Woman, Returning From Burial, Hurt

Mrs. Johanna Walter, of Winchester, Fractures Skull in Crash.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. V., Jan. 19.—Mrs. Johanna Walter, 50, of Winchester, Va., was in a critical condition at a hospital here today with a fracture of the skull received late Sunday when the automobile in which she was returning to her home from a funeral of a relative in Keedysville, Md., was hit by an automobile being driven into the State highway by Stewart Barrett, of this county.

Barrett said he did not see the car approaching until his car was almost on the highway. Mrs. Walter was thrown from the car after it was overturned several times. The accident happened on the Winchester-Martinsburg highway, 5 miles south of here. Hunter Miller, Keedysville, Md., and Lawrence Sutler, Winchester, Va., who were taking Mrs. Walter, their aunt, home from Keedysville, were slightly injured and were taken to a hospital in Winchester. Mrs. Walter is the wife of John W. Walter, of Winchester.

Daughter of Late H. G. Davis Killed

Woman Owner of Largest Arizona Cattle Ranch, in Auto Crash.

Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Arthur Lee, owner of one of the largest cattle ranches in Arizona and a daughter of the late United States Senator Henry G. Davis, of West Virginia, was killed in an automobile collision near here yesterday. She was 60 years old.

Mrs. Lee was riding with her son, Arthur, and Mrs. John A. Thayer, of Charleston, W. Va., neither of whom was hurt. They told authorities the fenders of their machine locked with those of a car parked on the Nogales Highway as Mrs. Lee attempted to pass it. She was thrown to the pavement and killed.

Mrs. Lee owned the Sopori Ranch near Arivaca. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Stoddard Johnston, New York; three sons, all living in Arizona, and a brother, John Davis, of Elkins, W. Va.

Widow Is Indicted As Husband Killer

Mrs. Essie Smith to Face Trial January 27 at Charlottesville.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 19—Trial of Mrs. Essie C. Smith, accused of murder in the first degree in connection with the slaying of her husband, John A. Smith, Chesapeake and Ohio Railway fireman, was set by Judge A. D. Dabney, in corporation court today for January 27. Her bond of $5,000 was continued.

Mrs. Smith was indicted this morning by the grand jury, on evidence submitted by C. H. Yowell, of the local police department, and Coroner Watson Sadler. Mrs. Smith, it is alleged, met police in the hallway with the remark, "I hope and believe I have done the right thing."

Smith's body was found November 7 in a rear bedroom on the second floor of the residence on Lexington avenue, with some eight or more bullet wounds.

LOCUST SWARM DUE IN VIRGINIA SHORTLY

NO PREVENTIVES KNOWN

Blacksburg, Va., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—A warning that the seventeen-year locust is due to appear this year in parts of Augusta, Carolina, Highland and Shenandoah counties was issued here today by A. M. Woodside, assistant entomologist of the Virginia Agricultural Experiment Station. The insects, known to scientists as the periodical cicada, were reported from these counties in 1914, and may be present in other parts of the State.

Damage by this insect, Mr. Woodside said, is the result of insertion of its eggs into the wood of twigs, including those of fruit trees. The shredding of the wood makes the wounds slow or impossible of healing, and causes many small branches to break. Heaviest populations will occur in and near woods, or on areas that have been cleared since 1914. Where orchards have been planted since 1914, or are near woods, damage is often rather severe. Where there were no woods at the time of the last outbreak, there will be few of the insects.

After the cicadas appear, there is little that can be done to prevent damage. Those who have a few shrubs or fruit trees can pick the insects off, but this must be done daily if damage is to be avoided. It is too laborious for more than a few trees. Heavy applications of Bordeau mixture have been said by some investigators to cause the insects to go elsewhere to deposit their eggs, but there is not sufficient evidence to cause this to be recommended. Besides, Bordeau can not be used on apple trees at the time the cicadas are emerging. Steps that can be taken to lessen damage are postponing of pruning and allowing hogs to run on the areas where the cicadas are expected to appear.

The postponing or lightening of pruning is the practice usually recommended in orchards, especially with young trees, as it leaves considerable 1-year-old wood in which the eggs can be deposited, thus lessening the injury to the old wood.

Cicadas emerge about the first of June in the Valley area, and earlier in the East.

Doctor Denounces Almshouse Finding

Says Institution Scored Is Not Unsanitary or Fire Hazard.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 19.—Dr. W. Ross Cameron, health officer here, today took issue with the report of Gov. Ritchie's commission on almshouses for the western shore, which declared dirt, disease, misery and fire hazard are the lot of the inmates of Bellevue, the county home here.

Dr. Cameron, who recently took over the duties of full-time health officer, made a survey of Bellevue for the State department of health and found the institution to be among the best he has seen.

"An inspection of almshouses in a hundred counties anywhere would place Bellevue among the best," said Dr. Cameron in his report to the State board. He found that "sanitary conditions at Bellevue were good and that the inmates were comfortable." Not a complaint was made by any inmate whom he questioned.

The company had nineteen days in which to pay the interest from January 1 in order to satisfy the trustee, which is a Baltimore bank. The bonds are due to pay 2½ per cent annually and become due in 1941.

Tonight at the Petersburg Grays Armory, which was profusely decorated with Confederate and American flags, a banquet was given by the Sons of Confederate Veterans and Petersburg Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, to A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans of Petersburg as the guests of honor. Maj. Homer Atkinson, of Petersburg, commander of the Confederate Veterans of the South, was toastmaster.

SUITS ASK $31,000 IN AUTO COLLISION

LIQUOR CAR CAPTURED

Total damages of $31,000 are asked in seven suits filed in Prince Georges County Circuit Court on behalf of the family of Mrs. Catherine F. Martin and others, of Mount Rainier, against Sullivan & Gobel, grocers, of Brentwood. All the suits arise from one auto accident.

It is said that a car driven by Mrs. Martin was in a collision with a truck owned by the grocery firm. In Mrs. Martin's car were Shirley Hoover, Dorothy Hoover, Dorothy Martin, Marion Mitzier, Dolores Smith and George Hoover. All these are school children, and suffered broken ribs, cuts and other injuries.

Mrs. Martin asks $1,000 damages, and the other suits ask $5,000 each. They were filed by J. Frank Lillard against Jewel M. Sullivan and Harold Goebel, and against the firm.

The grocery company also filed counter suits through Attorney Arthur C. Keefer against Mrs. Martin and her husband, Seth J. Martin.

In another suit, Henry G. Reidinger, of Washington, asked for $5,000 damages from Thomas Avaunt, proprietor of a barbecue stand in Cottage City. Reidinger says that he was cut about the head with a butcher knife in the hands of Avaunt last fall and that he is seriously and permanently injured. Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer is his lawyer.

Asking $20,000 for the death of their son, who was killed by a hand-car on the Pennsylvania Railroad, Bertha and Edward Curtis, colored, have filed suits. The accident occurred near Marlboro last fall.

While attending the funeral of Mrs. Madge E. Smith in Riverdale yesterday, Mrs. Elizabeth McGee was injured by a fall down the cellar steps at the Smith home. She was taken to Casualty Hospital in the ambulance of the county rescue squad and treated for cuts and bruises. Later she returned home.

Mrs. Smith was buried in Mount Olivet Cemetery after the services. The woman, who was a native of Cork, Ireland, is survived by her husband, Harry L. Smith, two daughters and three sons.

A nine-mile chase of a liquor car along the Baltimore boulevard yesterday ended near College Park, Md., when a police car forced the other machine off the road into soft mud at the side. The driver of the rum car gave his name as George Sheldon, of Baltimore.

County Policeman Claude Reese said that Sheldon's machine, which carried a cargo of 26 cases of alleged whisky, was accompanied by a block car, which attempted to stop the police auto. The contraband-carrier and its escort were sighted near Ammendale, Md., and the chase through the heavy noon-time traffic followed.

Sheldon was taken before Judge Herbert J. Moffat and held in bond of $1,000 for transportation and possession. He posted this sum and was released.

Willie Boone, former constable in Spaulding district, has been sworn in as deputy under Sheriff W. C. Hopkins. Boone was appointed as constable by the previous Democratic board of county commissioners, but was not reappointed when the new Democratic board came in. Hopkins was elected on the Republican ticket.

Calling for help when assailed by alleged high-jackers yesterday cost George Washington, of Accokeek, his freedom. He got the help—County Policeman Frank Prince, but Prince, finding the still and a small quantity of liquor, took Washington along to the county jail at Marlboro.

Washington said that Moses Carter and Fred Johnson attempted to hold him up with a shotgun in a deserted gully in the lower part of the county. He shouted and Prince responded. The three were taken into custody after Prince found the still in nearby bushes. Washington is charged with possession—the others with attempt to rob.

Being arrested for driving while drunk early yesterday morning cost Paul Hoffman, of Brentwood, Md., his car. He left it parked while he answered the charge, but found it missing when he returned to the spot some time later.

Hoffman was arrested by Albert Anderson, chief of police of Hyattsville, in that town. The car was parked, but Hoffman could not remove the ignition key, which was stuck. He left the engine running while he went with the policeman.

Apparently there are no clues to the hit-and-run machine which struck and injured Janie Carter, on the Baltimore boulevard near Laurel, several days ago. The woman, who is 30 years old and lives in Oak Crest, Md., received fractures of the right leg and right arm.

She was accompanied by two other persons, who were narrowly missed by the striking car. She has five children.

OTHER POST PREDICTIONS

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 19.—When the General Assembly reconvenes tomorrow night, marking the beginning of the third week of the 90-day biennial session, President Walter J. Mitchell of the Senate and Speaker Francis A. Michel of the House are expected to have their committee assignments ready. Until the committees are announced the Assembly will be unable to settle down to real business. The slate of minor employes also will be made known by Wednesday.

Developments over the week-end foreshadow the chairmanships of the powerful committees. Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer, Prince Georges County, is slated to head the finance committee of that body and thereby become majority floor leader. This has been brought about by Senator S. Scott Beck, of Kent, agreeing to accept the chairmanship of the judicial proceedings group, the next highest post.

On the House side it has been a foregone conclusion that James J. Lindsay, of Baltimore County, would head the ways and means committee, which carries with it floor leadership. And by a compromise effected to assure Mr. Mitchell's selection for speaker, George M. Hofferbert, of Baltimore City, who loomed as a formidable aspirant for the speakership, will preside over the House judiciary committee, the third ranking post in the lower branch.

Compulsory automobile insurance of some sort is likely to emerge as a law at this session. Senator E. Milton Altfeld, of Baltimore City, is preparing a bill designed to require motorists who have been convicted of negligence to carry insurance. Outright compulsory insurance was sought in a bill offered at the 1929 session, but it met violent opposition and died in committee.

COURT IN DANVILLE DROPS ARSON CASES

Judge Decides in First of Four Trials Evidence Is Insufficient.

STRIKE SITUATION CALM

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Jan. 19.—Four arson indictments returned by the corporation court grand jury a week ago were wiped from the docket this afternoon when a directed verdict by Judge Henry C. Leigh brought freedoom to J. R. Duffy, the first man to be tried. The State then took a nolle prosequi in the remaining three cases.

All four men were alleged to have participated in setting fire to the home of W. T. Dolley, a nonunion worker. After the State's case had been completed, Judge Leigh decided that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant a conviction and so ruled from the bench. The State showed by witnesses that Duffy was seen walking away from the porch which had just begun to burn. The defense, as outlined by counsel to the jury, was that Duffy a union picket saw the blaze and was on his way to the union's woodshed to get help to put it out.

The strike situation remained quiet today, with union members asked by Francis J. Gorman, union organizer, "to watch" for the financial statement of the textile corporation to be presented at the annual meeting next Thursday. C. S. Garrison, union spokesman, said two or three union members own stock in the mills and plan attending the meeting. He was unable to state whether any of them would seek to lay the union complaint before the stockholders.

DISEASE IS KILLING MARYLAND HORSES

FEED MOLD SUSPECTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., Jan. 19.—A strange malady among horses in the northern section of this county and southern Pennsylvania has resulted over the week-end in the death of a score of farm animals.

So serious was the situation considered that Dr. William G. Chrisman, chief veterinarian for Maryland, was called to the scene yesterday from Baltimore. Today laboratory tests are being made of food that had been fed the animals. Among the heaviest losers are Ira Martin, of Reid, who lost three horses and a colt by death Saturday, while a fifth horse was gravely ill today. A neighbor, Jonas Martin, lost three horses yesterday, all of which died from the same strange disease.

In explaining how the disease affected the horses Dr. W. J. Sullivan, this city, who was called in by Ira Martin, said the animals were dead within five or six hours after they were stricken. Mr. Martin first observed failure of his horses to drink water. Then they chewed hay for some time and spit it out instead of swallowing it. Within five or six hours the animals dropped over dead.

Dr. Sullivan believes that moldy feed poisoned the animals, and is of the opinion that the condition of the feed, probably improperly matured because of the drought, might be reaponsible for the deaths. But what is puzzling both Dr. Sullivan and Dr. Chrisman most is the suddenness of death. Food poisoning usually is not fatal for from two to three days.

OLD GOLD CAPTURES CHICAGO IN ONE AFTERNOON

WINDY CITY GIVES O. Gs. BIG PLURALITY IN RIPLEY'S NEWEST CIGARETTE TASTE-TEST

By ROBERT RIPLEY, Himself

It didn't take Chicago long to decide which cigarette it likes best. I got the answer in six hours.

I arrived at the Windy City at high noon . . . with a supply of the four leading brands of cigarettes . . masked with black bands to conceal the names.

Before the close of the afternoon I had given the "taste-test" to every rank and file in the town . . . from the cattle herders at the stock-yards to the traders in the pit . . . from the movie fans in the loop to the gang-fighters of the police force.

And as usual, O. G. ran away with the vote.

Let me repeat, I'm not out to prove OLD GOLD'S case. I'm out to get and print the facts . . . as I do on all my "Believe it or nots."

But take it from me . . . or leave it . . . so far, I haven't been able to make OLD GOLD lose.

STOCKYARDS COW-PUNCHERS stop herding beef-on-the-hoof long enough to register another win for OLD GOLD in new taste-test. Believe it or not, these Cattle Herders gave Ripley the "low-down" on cigarette tastes.

Wedding Rites Witnessed by Mrs. Hoover

John A. Drake Marries Eleanor Smith at Barnett Home.

Mrs. Hoover attended the marriage of Miss Eleanor Bryan Smith, daughter of Lieut. Comdr and Mrs George Leonard Smith, to Mr. John A. Drake, son of the former Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Mrs. J. Walter Drake, of Detroit, which took place yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Barnett, on Rhode Island avenue.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock by the Rev. Hubert Johnson, before an improvised altar of palms, ferns and cut flowers which decorated the rest of the house. A stringed orchestra played while the guests, which included only members of the families and close friends, assembled for the wedding.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of cream satin fashioned on simple princess lines, with a short circular train. Her veil of Brussels lace was the one which Mrs. Barnett had worn at her own wedding and was simply arranged. She carried white lilacs and gardenias.

The matron of honor, Mrs. F. Eberhart Haynes, wore a gown of pale pink chiffon fashioned on long lines, with a short jacket with long sleeves. She wore a close fitting hat of brown straw and carried blue Japanese iris. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Charles David Hayes and Miss Barbara Drake, sister of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Hayes wore a costume of pale blue chiffon and lace, and Miss Drake was gowned in peach color chiffon and lace. Both frocks were fashioned alike. Their hats were of natural colored straw and they carried arm bouquets of tea roses and blue iris. The best man was Mr. Anthony Hyde.

Following the ceremony there was a reception and wedding supper for those who had attended the ceremony, after which Mr. and Mrs. Drake left for a wedding trip, the latter wearing a brown cloth suit trimmed with beige fur and a brown hat. They will make their home at Groose Pointe, Mich., on their return.

Mrs. Drake has made her home for the past few years in Rockford, Ill., but before that attended school here and made her debut in the Capital several seasons ago. Mr. Drake is well-known here, and was a frequent visitor here when his father served as Assistant Secretary of Commerce. Mrs. Walter Drake, mother of the bridegroom and his other two sisters, Miss Rosalie Drake and Miss Betty Drake, came to Washington to attend the wedding, as did Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rohr, uncle and aunt of the bride, of Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Gibson Wenly have returned from Japan and China, where they have been living for several years, and are at the Brighton. Mr. Wenly is on the staff of the Freer Gallery, and has been engaged in research work in the Far East in connection with his position.

Mrs. Wenly's mother, Mrs. G. D. Jefferson, who has been spending several years in Rome, has joined her son-in-law and daughter in Washington.

The ladies of the "little Cabinet" group met yesterday at their second luncheon of the season at the Shoreham Hotel. There were about 20 guests.

READY MONEY IS A GOOD CURE FOR FINANCIAL ILLS

The experiences of individuals in matters of finance are not always what they would like them to be. There are times when the bright outlook on the future is obscured by the financial difficulties of the present, when unexpected expenditures must be met, and when money alone is needed.

These are the times when a bank account proves a good ally and when this cash reserve well repays every effort made in placing it there. Money in the bank is a reliable precaution against financial emergencies.

Dress Interprets the MODE

Paris, Jan. 19.

IN suits, this spring, every woman can suit her own figure. There are tailored costumes for every stature, and indeed one does have to take one's hight and breadth into consideration when selecting a suit! If one is short, for instance, one would naturally choose the longer coated models, and if one is "too wide in the beam" as it were, (and so many of us are!) one chooses a jacket that just comes below the hips, instead of one that stops just where the line would accentuate the breadth.

And as to styles, what variety! Straight and tailored as a man's, straight and wide shouldered and baggy as an Englishman's, or fitting at the waist and widely flaring from there as the suit coats of twenty years ago. Styles may come and styles may go in quite capricious fashion, but they almost always return sooner or later!

Skirts are less varied than jackets. Indeed, a very distinctively cut jacket requires a simple skirt, to be not too much of a muchness. The wrap-around skirt has returned to favor, and who isn't glad, when it is so slimly flattering! Few flared suit skirts are seen, as it is difficult to give a tailored suit its necessary trimness and chic with a flared skirt. Otherwise, the skirts simply circular, and those with fullness introduced with pleats, tell the story.

* * * *

How to make really handsome screens from wallpaper, is what this week's leaflet tells you. So easy, too, and so inexpensive * * * and not the littlest least homemade looking! For the expensive wallpapers * * * those that cost umpteen dollars a yard, can be bought in remnants very, very reasonably. And then the frames, and the certain way you hang the wallpaper. Oh, I almost forgot! You have to first of all send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the leaflet that tells you how to make these screens! Foolproof directions, too, * * * and you can make a whole family of screens in a half a day, you know.

* * * *

One of those confections that just takes your breath away * * * that's what I illustrated for you today. A Lucille model in pale pink tulle, with lovely pink satin roses incrusted on it, and strass outlining them and falling down the dress. Dewdrops shining in the dawn is an obvious simile, but that is what this dress makes one think * * * now doesn't it? Especially when worn by a little rosebud of a woman!

* * * *

* * * *

Some one has said that lace gives what may be called a smile to an ensemble. * * * I think that very good. Isn't it descriptive? Just think of an ensemble touched with lace, and the next one without it * * * in the proper ensemble there is a difference. Not that everything should be gobbed up with lace * * * far from it. But sometimes it is just the thing a suit or dress needs * * * and the chic woman spots it.

* * * *

Delightful beauty hints often are found in Dare's weekly fashion letter, and it always appears in The Sunday Washington Post.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY

HOLLYWOOD—Of course movie players seldom play real life roles, but it seems an odd coincidence that three of the lonesome ones in "Lonely Wives" are among Hollywood's most contented wives. They are Laura LaPlante, Esther Ralston, and Patsy Ruth Miller.

LAURA LA PLANTE

Miss LaPlante is the wife of William Seiter, a director, and likes home life so well that she is perfectly willing to devote all her time to it.

She proved that by giving up stardom when she didn't like the type of parts she was given. She only came back because the character she is playing now is similar to those that first brought her fame.

In private life, Miss Ralston is Mrs. George Webb. Her husband is also her manager, and she credits him with much of her success. They have been married five years.

Miss Miller is married to Tay Garnett, a director and writer, and usually she is Mrs. Garnett, playing in pictures only occasionally

Making the Breaks.

I believe I have discovered one reason for so few extras getting the much talked about breaks they are supposed to be ever hoping for.

After spending several hours on a set talking to some of them, I concluded that they had no interest other than the ticket that would entitle them to their $7.50 at the end of the day. Few of them knew what the story was about nor who was in the cast besides those appearing in that day's scenes.

One who was alert enough to discover a technical error, and bold enough to call an assistant director's attention, was rewarded with a small part. It was apparent that the others resented their ingenious fellow-worker's presence. Discovery of the error later would have meant retaking the scene and a possible additional day's work.

Fame In Hollywood

Louis Broomfield, who spent a few months in Hollywood writing pieces for the movies, tells this one on himself. He says he had been at a studio for several weeks with no work assigned to him.

Finally he went directly to the owner of the plant to tell him he was getting tired of doing nothing, and felt guilty about taking a weekly check.

"Vell, don't vorry about vork," he was told. "Ve vant you here on account of your name, Mr. Bromberg."

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Disillusioned Lover.

WHEN girls attempt to be blase and sophisticated they little dream the havoc they cause in a lover's heart. Men being still the simple and elemental creatures that they are, any act on the part of woman that she may be less than the goddess she has become in his infatuated eyes, is sure to bring about a violent reaction from which recovery on the lover's part is nearly impossible.

Why then these efforts on the part of the girl? Why try to dissipate the glamour of love? Why try to show the man that his idol is made of mud? The boy whose letter follows might have loved the girl of whom he writes. It is a fortunate circumstance in this case that she has revealed herself, for the really coarse girl is spiritually unfitted for marriage and all the spiritual responsibilities that it entails. But other girls who are merely eager to appear worldly and wise and sophisticated would do well to profit by the revelations in the letter of one disillusioned man:

Dear Frances McDonald: I have been going with a girl for eight months and feel I should break away from her, although at one time she seemed all that made life worth while. But she started calling me "slow" and telling risque stories when we were together and otherwise making me feel she was far from being the girl I had thought her. Do not think for one moment that I am a sissy or an angel, for I am neither. But I loved her truly and therefore the last thing I would think of doing would be to hurt her in any way. But this is what she keeps inviting. And that just makes me sick and kills everything.

We are both of good families and she claims she loves me more than anything in the world. Why then should she try to destroy my love and respect for her? Could I change her? Could I ever get back the love I felt for her before she disgusted me? I really never met a girl I loved as I did her. And then she turns out like that.

When I broke with her once before she had a nervous breakdown and the doctor told me it was all over me. I went back then. Yet she tells stories I would never repeat where any woman could hear them. What is your advice? Please answer as it will mean a decision in two lives. I will watch the paper. REGAN

And the answer is that a clean-minded man tied for life to a nasty-minded woman is a spectacle to make the angels weep. In this case the girl is probably neurotic as her breakdown seems to indicate. And since her physician is taking a hand in directing the romance he should be told of her choice of subjects for conversation. She is a type who will always be incapable of supplying any of the spiritual needs of any man. And the one who escapes her will be the winner. Regan deserves a better fate.

Guiding Your Child

The Highest Reward.

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Of all the rewards that can be given to children, none is at once so efficacious and so free of any possible evil after-effects as that of a sense of achievement. With it goes increased self-respect and the desire for continued improvement.

When you say to a child, "If you'll clear away your toys you can have a lollypop," he may be stimulated to obey as quickly and as well as he is able, but tomorrow he may demand two lollypops for the same task; or he may refuse to do it entirely if no reward is forthcoming.

If, on the other hand, you can get him to clear his toys away simply by telling him that in so doing he will be helping to put the living room in order, his action becomes a part of his picture of himself as a fine, helpful child who does his share to make things easier for every one.

With a very young child, or with one who had not been wisely handled in the past, we can not begin with this direct appeal to his self-esteem. Such a child will respond better to the idea of winning love and praise, and to some definite reward such as a sweet or an exceptional privilege.

These must be used carefully, however, always with the thought in mind of educating him to the higher standard. We may say, for instance, "If you put away your toys without mother's help, she'll have time to make a cake this afternoon and then you can have one for supper."

The child then understands that his helpful act has actually resulted in his mother's being able to give him a treat. From this it is not a long step to learning to do a right action for its own sake.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

AM inclosing a clipping from two plants. Please identify them.
E. D. W.

Can not identify either specimen, as both reached me in a wet mass. They should have been wrapped in waxed paper.

Please send me the name of the preparation to use to get rid of moles. I am disgusted with traps.
MRS. J. B. H.

Better write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, when the desired information will be mailed to you. We can not publish names of proprietary articles in this column.

We have several baby chrysanthemums in our back yard which were purchased from a reliable firm two years ago. They have grown well and developed plenty of buds, none of which have opened. They are planted where they get sun from 9 a. m. until 5 p. m. Why do they fail to flower? L. C. R.

They are receiving sufficient sun; so it must be a case of poor soil, poor drainage or lack of water. Try applying a mulch of well-rotted manure or use a generous quantity of bonemeal in the spring, and later in the season, when the buds begin to develop, give the plants several applications of liquid manure.

Please tell me what to do for a poinsettia. Since bringing it into the house I have kept it in a warm, sunny room, close to a window. I water it every day and, with all this care, the leaves continue to fall. Can you tell me why this is? J. F.

The warm, dry air of the house is hard on the poinsettia. Give the plant more air and syringe the foliage with cold water once or twice a week. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, I shall be glad to send you a circular on the care of this plant.

Please tell me why the leaves of my Christmas cactus hang lifeless on the stalk. They retain their color, but seem withered. G. R. S.

All cacti prefer soils to which considerable sand has been added. Except when in flower they do not tolerate much water, and the buds are apt to drop if given too much water during dull weather. Try watering the plant only once in four days. The Christmas cactus demands a great deal of sun at all seasons.

Please tell me how to prevent a rosebush from being destroyed by insects. MRS. L. F. A.

Spray the plant twice each week with following formula:

Arsenate of lead spray.
3 teaspoonfuls of arsenate of lead powder.
1 ounce of any liquid soap.
1 teaspoonful of nicotine sulphate.
1 gallon of water.

This spray combines the properties of a stomach poison and a contact insecticide and is good for general garden use as well as for roses.

Please tell me how to prevent the leaves from falling from my begonia. MRS. M. A. K.

When a begonia loses its leaves, it is due to too much or too little water, too little fresh air and too much or too little sun. Better write again inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and I will send you a circular on the care of the begonia.

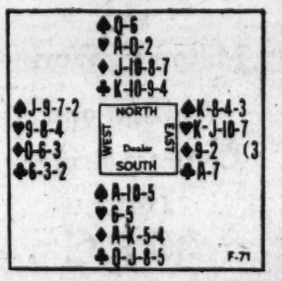
WORK ON BRIDGE

A CASE IN WHICH EITHER PARTNER CAN MAKE THREE NO TRUMPS



With the above hand at Auction the bidding would be: South one No Trump, over which North should bid two No Trumps (a pre-empting bid); that probably would hold the contract. East hardly would dare bid three Hearts when sandwiched between two hands, each strong enough to bid No Trump.

At Contract the bidding could be either South one No Trump, West pass, North three No Trumps; or perhaps more soundly and conservatively South one Diamond, West pass, North two No Trumps, East pass, South three No Trumps.

With South playing No Trump and West opening with the Deuce of Spades, North should not play the Queen from Queen and one small because South has the Ace-Ten and one small; with that distribution two Spade tricks are assured if North plays small on the first lead. With the Spade Six played on the first trick, Declarer will win two Spades, one Heart, three Diamonds and three Clubs regardless of what the adversaries do.

With North the No Trump Declarer, fulfilling the contract would be much easier because East would lead a Heart up to North's Ace Queen. Declarer's first effort would be to establish the Clubs and that would put East in the lead. Of course he would utilize this opportunity to establish his Hearts, But North could block the suit by holding up his Ace until the third round, in which event East would not be able to get in to make his remaining Hearts. The winning of one Diamond by West would not matter. Consequently Declarer would win three Clubs, three Diamonds, two Hearts and one Spade.

What Today Means to You

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger period is from 5 p. m. to 7:45 p. m.

The planetary aspects of January 20 are favorable. Optimism will prevail. Energy will be stimulated, and results will be achieved. The signs point to some opportunity, which, if seized, will necessitate a change of environment, but will lead to ultimate success.

Children born on this January 20 are promised rugged health, and there will be a tendency on their part to take risks out of the ordinary. They will excel more at sports than at studies. They will always "play the game," and be loyal, self-reliant and sincere.

You, if born on a January 20, are a dreamer, and you prefer reading and thinking to acting or fighting. Your mind is full of mental pictures of things you would like to be and do, but you take few practical steps to bring that fanciful ship, which is filled with your "dreams come true," nearer to you. From books, from observation and contemplation, you have gleaned much knowledge, and your head is crammed full of facts and ideas, which make you wise, but of which you make little everyday use.

You doubtless have been a disappointment to your school masters, or your parents, for you were a precocious child, and easily won scholarships; but in the greater universities of life—the trades, professions and business world—you have not shone. You, however, are content with your existence, and are never bored with yourself. You would rather be a brilliant "nobody" than a stupid "somebody." Money and position are not essential to your happiness—friends, reading and the delights of the natural world are. You can appreciate art, music and the drama.

You have a cheerful disposition, although you have moods when you want to shut out the outside world, and wish to be alone. You never inflict your sorrows upon others, and do not invite others to confide in you. Loyalty is a decided factor in your make-up.

Successful people born January 20:
Robert Morris, "superintendent of finance" during the Revolution.
David Wilmot, senator.
George B. Robinson, lawyer and congressman.
Mischa Elman, Russian violinist.
Joseph Hoffman, pianist.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, PH. D.

The family name "Graves" has no reference to burials. Its most common source is the old English "graf," meaning "the grove," and it, therefore, indicates the location of the dwelling of the persons who were first so called. However, in some cases it is derived from the old English "gerefa," meaning "the reeve" or "the bailiff," and, therefore, indicates an original occupation. Finally, there is evidence that occasionally this name was first given as a nickname to persons with solemn or grave dispositions. It occurs frequently in the Hundred Rolls. A certain Henry de la Grave is mentioned in that famous document, and a Robert atte Grave is mentioned in an English record of the year 1300.

Another name which has no reference to burials, in spite of its present form, is "Tombs." "Tomba" (also spelled "Tombs," "Tombes" and "Tomes") is merely one of the many variations of "Thomas." "Thomas" is ultimately of Hebrew origin, and means "the twin." A certain Alice Tomes is mentioned in a London marriage license of the year 1632. The spellings "Tombes" and "Tombs" appear to be first recorded in 1701.

The family name "Hersom" (also spelled "Hearsom" and "Harsom") has come down to us from two English sources. It is frequently derived from the middle English adjective "hearsom," meaning "obedient," and was, therefore, first given as a nickname. However, there is evidence that "Hersom" sometimes represents the nickname "Herizun," which is derived from the French "herisson," meaning "the hedge-hog." There is evidence that this same French nickname is also an occasional source of "Harrison."

The family name "Hildebrand" is of German origin. It is derived from the old Teutonic "Hildibrand," which was a personal name meaning "battle-sword."

The Life Story of Gen. Wood

By HERMANN HAGEDORN

By HERMAN HAGEDORN.

CHAPTER XVII.

Gen. Wood made plans with Elihu Root, Secretary of War, to turn over the government to the Cubans in May, 1902. He was not sorry to see the end of his rule approaching.

"The present form of government is necessarily autocratic, with absolute power vested in the military governor," he wrote his old teacher, Jessie Haskell, at 70, keen-witted and devoted as ever, "and I confess the exercise of absolute power, without legislative assistance, is far from pleasant. Dictatorship for life might be agreeable for one satisfied that his performances were of the best, but where it is temporary and among a foreign people, it has, from a republican standpoint, many objectionable features."

But he could not help noting exultantly that the results had "really been worth the Spanish war many times over."

He was justified in his pride. He had at Santiago begun the work, carried it forward through the first difficult six months; established precedents, set the pace, and at Havana brought it to fruition. On all sides were physical monuments to his foresight and steady hand. Sir William Van Horne's great railway, from Havana to Santiago, which Wood had made possible, was practically completed. Along the Havana waterfront a magnificent drive had been constructed. "Under the auspices of the favorable conditions created by the administration of Gen. Wood," wrote a Cuban historian, "electric tramways had pushed out the boundaries of the capital."

"Nothing I have ever seen," James Bryce, who visited Cuba early in 1902, wrote Wood, "interested me more than the work you have been doing in endeavoring to restore prosperity to a superb country which has so long suffered from misgovernment and from the slackness and backwardness of its population."

Praised by Englishman.

Another Englishman went even farther. Besides the Nile, that autumn of 1901, John St. Loe Strachey, editor of The London Spectator, asked Lord Cromer, British Consul General in Cairo, but in effect Governor of Egypt, and generally regarded as the greatest of living colonial administrators, whom he had in mind as a successor. The Egyptian problem was intricate and full of explosive possibilities. Cromer was getting old, and the question of who was to carry on his work involved not impossibly the future of India, the imperialistic dreams of Russia and Germany and a world war. Strachey was surprised to find that Cromer had selected no shoulders for his mantle. He had tested out this man and that, he said, but none had measured up to the responsibilities. Strachey's face showed his concern.

Cromer turned toward him abruptly. "Strachey, I know a man who could do the work satisfactorily. It is that American doctor who has been commissioned a general and is Governor of Cuba."

"Do you know him?"

"I never saw him in my life, but I have followed his work with the greatest interest. He has the attributes of a great colonial governor."

Wood, unconscious of the impression he was making in distant parts, cast his eyes over that portion of creation for which he was at the moment responsible, in search of Gordian knots. It was not at all that he was vaingloriously seeking more worlds to conquer; it was only that he recognized that a military dictatorship, with all its disadvantages to dictator and dictated alike, had, like the sword, a capability for decisive action which reason and governments based on consent did not possess. At best he knew the Cuban republic would have a rough road to travel. It seemed merely decent to remove what bowlders he could.

Enough Knots Remained.

A number, in fact, he had already removed. But there were enough others.

"The railroad situation here is unbearable," he wrote the President. "The rates are from 40 to 150 per cent higher than they should be.

"I have attempted by all peaceful and amicable means to bring the railroad companies into line. I will not do anything unjust or unreasonable, but will only take such action as tends to protect the inherent rights of the people."

To Root he wrote:

"As far as I can learn, the railroads have always been able to buy the government and run things about as they saw fit."

The "day of reckoning," he added, was also coming for the local gas company, which was making many promises and keeping none, and was charging the public $3.95 a 1,000 cubic feet. The company's contract was expiring and there would be no new contract, he wrote, until the rates came down.

"It is difficult for you to conceive the abuse and corruption which have gradually been unearthed. I think that in time we can straighten them out without any serious difficulty."

A railroad law was enacted which drew praise even from Wood's most relentless critics. A friend, Gen. Grenville M. Dodge, American rail magnate, declared that in its fairness alike to the railroads and the state, the law was "better than any he had ever operated under" and would be regarded as one of the best acts of the American intervention. The regulation of rates raised a storm, but Root upheld it in a statement which left nothing to the imagination. As for the gas company, Wood wrote Root early in January:

"The regulation of the price of gas has * * * been accomplished; and, as fixed, makes a large profit possible on the actual value of the plant, plus a reasonable value for the company's position; but it will not leave a profit on some four or five millions of watered stock."

Politics Also Hindered Work.

There were other problems which partisan politics could be trusted to complicate rather than to solve. The island was overburdened with small municipalities, rich in officials and poor in everything else, and Wood merged them with one or another of their more prosperous neighbors, abolishing practically a third of the municipalities of the island. There were lusty outcries from the officials deposed, but every one else was content. Land titles offered more involved questions. The original grants had been laid out in circles, with the result that where the circles overlapped there were large areas claimed by numerous estates. In many cases, in consequence, property owners could not obtain titles to their land or show sufficient title to borrow money on it. Members of the Supreme Court assured Wood that, if endless litigation were to be avoided, the only possible solution of the question lay in a military order fixing the means of ultimate division. Wood directed them to draw it up and promulgated it.

These drastic reforms aroused anew the ire of American theorists. What about the Teller resolution's disclaimer of "sovereignty, jurisdiction and control?" The manifest purpose of the Governor "not only to administer the present affairs of the island, but as well to essay regulation of its fundamental laws and governmental processes" constituted a "flagrant violation of a national pledge." The power, of course, existed. "The moral or the legal right to exercise that power" was "distinctly open to question." Through the sharp charges of autocracy and usurpation ran the familiar refrain: What matter what happened, in actuality, to the freedom America had pledged, so long as in cold-hearted caution the word were observed?

Battle Results in Congress.

Wood's determination to secure tariff concessions for the Cubans resulted in an epic battle in the American Congress, in which the American politicians comically revealed that in dodging and back-trailing they and the Cuban leaders were brothers under the skin.

Meanwhile, among the Cubans, the irritation of the struggle over the Platt amendment had long ended in sentiments of friendly appreciaton. The triumph over yellow fever, the successful negotiations for the purchase of the church property, the mortgage law, the curbing of the railroads and public utility companies, the conclusion of the Rathbone case; above all, the governor's leadership, fearless and persistent, of the reciprocity movement had silenced the objections and the mockers. Now that the intervention was withdrawing to a close, even the most ardent partisans of independence were willing to admit that the four years of American rule had made over their land. The Spaniards in the island were warm in their gratitude. At the end of the war they had been men and women without a country, separated from the Cubans about them by a gulf as wide as the sea which lay between them and Spain. They had thought with horror of Cuban rule and showed themselves ready to sacrifice everything they possessed rather than submit to the brutal despotism they expected the Cubans would exercise. That fear had altogether vanished. Conservative Spaniards had their doubts about the ability of the Cubans to govern; but conservative Cubans had the same doubts.

No Protest From Spaniards.

There could have been no better tribute to Wood's success than the fact that the plans to turn over the government to the Cubans brought no protest from the Spanish element.

More swiftly the culminating act of the drama approached. Late in April, Estrada Palma, the President-elect, arrived in Cuba and was received with tumultuous enthusiasm. With great care Wood initiated his successor in the mysteries. Palma was earnest and conscientious, but Wood felt a shiver of apprehension when the President-elect asked him to withdraw a certain military law guaranteeing protection to judicial officers. Wood pointed out that a similar law was embodied in the Cuban constitution. Palma answered that he intended to suspend it.

But such shadows were fleeting those May days. Havana blossomed out in flags and bunting. Every house, rich or poor, displayed its emblem of honor; majestic arches spanned the streets; colored cloths, spread on Venetian masts, canopied the narrow thoroughfares. Flowers to right and left, overhead, underfoot, brought a delirium of color and fragrance. The ships in the harbor were as gay as the houses on shore. For a week life was one long fiesta, with the celebrants of the night mingling their laughter with the chants of the newsboys musically announcing a new day's exultation. Rathbone, on bail pending his appeal for a new trial, looked with jaundiced eyes on it all, and wrote Senator Hanna with the gloating enthusiasm of a detective in a dime novel that the officials of the Jai Alai Association were secretly plotting to give Wood a handsome present in return for an official order which he had recently issued, which, Rathbone declared, settled certain disputed points in their character.

"I advise keeping quiet about this until Wood receives the present, for two reasons: First, it will give Wood pleasure to receive it; and, second, it will serve our purpose well to have him receive it, because in doing so he comes pretty near violating the criminal code of Cuba again, to wit, Article 397, which reads as follows:

"'Article 397. The public functionary who shall accept presents that were given to him on account of his official position shall be punished with the penalty of suspension in its minimum and medium degree, and public censure.'

"Of course the plan is for him to receive the present after he shall have retired as military governor; but is he not morally, if not legally, culpable? It is a well-laid plan to evade the law, at the same time accomplish all that is desired."

All Magnificent Melodrama.

It was all magnificent melodrama. What lay behind it was the desire of the Spanish residents to give Wood a token of their gratitude for giving them again a country and a flag. Most of them happened to be members of the Jai Alai Association and felt a peculiar tie with Wood because of his enthusiasm for their national game. His action regarding the jai alai charter had been merely the confirmation of an action taken two years previously by the city council of Havana and the civil governor of the province; and he had taken it at the direction of the Secretary of War.

The presentation was made several days before the transfer of authority at a breakfast open to all eyes, with the archbishop and all officialdom present. The gift was a tribute to the personal qualities which had resolved a ruinous cacophony; no law, Cuban or American, was involved.

The 20th of May dawned clear, with sapphire waters sparkling. Toward noon the din in the streets grew quiet, as the populace climbed to the flat roofs to watch for the lowering of one flag, the raising of another. Only in the square outside the palace, except for a space kept open with might and main, the crowd stood packed far back into the streets which flowed into it. In the open space eight troops of the Seventh Cavalry, dismounted, were drawn up with sabers at their heels.

In the audience room, where the Spanish arms, still hanging over the window, conjured up a host of tragic witnesses, breast plated and plumed, from the days of Spain's glory, the ceremony of transfer took place.

The members of the government of intervention were there, the members of the government about to assume authority, the representatives of foreign powers and of the church, military and naval officers in braid and sparkling buttons, and the governor's mother, thinking of Charles Wood, no doubt, and his devotion to this beloved "Tom" of his, who stood before her in his dress uniform and yellow sash, giving a new nation to the world.

On the stroke of 12, from the Cabanas Fortress, guns began to boom, and, in a voice curiously devoid of emotion, Gen. Wood read a statement transferring the government to the Cubans.

Through the reading, the guns, at measured intervals, spoke their solemn litany. The hearers, crowded together in the hall where Spain's pomp and glory had so often been proclaimed, were obviously stirred. Palma responded and signed the document of transfer.

Wood sent his aide, Lieut. Frank McCoy, to the roof of the palace to pull down the American flag. Gen. Wood and Maximo Gomez raised the Cuban flag together.

As the generals together raised the flag to full staff, the halliards broke. Gomez was disturbed; it was an inauspicious sign; but in a minute the halliards were repaired and the flag floated secure.

Farewells. Farewells. Then accompanied by his aides, the members of his Cuban Cabinet, the members of the new Congress, Wood proceeded to the waterfront where a launch was waiting to take him on board the cruiser Brooklyn. An old man who had lost three sons in the revolution knelt as Wood passed by and tremulously, with hands uplifted, exclaimed, "I can now die in peace! May God reward you Americans!" Again, as on that December morning in 1899, the shore was lined with people cheering, but this acclaim had a sweeter sound in his ears.

Shore Black With Cheering People.

Slowly the Brooklyn made her way out of the harbor, escorted by the tugs, saluted by the foreign warships. From the Adreana to the Malecon, the shore was black with people cheering.

"Although it was a noisy crowd ashore," McCoy wrote, "on the Brooklyn there was a silent group, thinking hard."

Wood felt a sharp relief and sense of satisfaction that the work was done, the transfer of authority accomplished; and yet it seemed to him, as the cruiser bore him past the Morro into the waters of the Caribbean that it would have been better for the Cuban people if the transfer had been delayed to permit the Cubans to find a more secure footing; to establish more firmly their relations with the Spaniards; to grow accustomed to a basis of suffrage which excluded the ignorant and the irresponsible.

In an official order the Secretary of War extended to Wood and his subordinates the thanks of the President "upon the completion of a work so difficult, so important and so well done."

"Out of an utterly prostrate colony a free republic was built up, the work being done with such signal ability, integrity and success that the new nation started under more favorable conditions than has ever before been the case in any single instance among her fellow Spanish-American republics. This record stands alone in history, and the benefit conferred thereby on the people of Cuba was no greater than the honor conferred upon the people of the United States."

DON'T GIVE A DAM..

DAM IS THE SMALLEST HINDOO COIN—NOT EVEN WORTH A FARTHING. FEW COINS ARE OF SMALLER VALUE. YOU AREN'T SWEARING WHEN YOU DON'T GIVE A DAM.

NO CHAFFING MATTER

WE USE THE WORD CHAFF TO MEAN WE'RE JESTING, BUT IT STARTED AS A RATHER GRIM JOKE, CENTURIES AGO. WHEN A HUSBAND ILL-TREATED HIS WIFE, THE VILLAGERS EMPTIED A SACK OF CHAFF ON HIS DOOR-STEP, TO INDICATE THAT "THRASHING" HAD BEEN DONE INSIDE.

HOW THE PRESIDENT'S CABINET WAS NAMED..

WHEN ENGLISH KINGS CENTURIES AGO ESTABLISHED THE CUSTOM OF HOLDING MEETINGS WITH THEIR OFFICIALS, THESE MEETINGS TOOK PLACE, NOT IN THE LARGE COUNCIL CHAMBER, BUT IN A SMALLER ROOM CALLED A CABINET. THAT'S WHY WE NOW APPLY THE NAME TO THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICIAL BODY.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL.

AN extended session with the Messrs. Michael J. Cullen, Orangelo Ratto and Allan Rogers, in Mr. Cullen's office in the Palace Theater yesterday afternoon, failed to adduce any conclusive evidence that Loew, Inc., is, or is not, in process of abolishing masters of ceremonies from the de luxe Loew houses in which stage units are presented.

The rumor has been abroad for several days that the m. c.'s, if not out, at least were on their way. The report seemed to center in the cases of Dave Schooler, Wesley Eddy and Mr. Rogers. Mr. Schooler, to be sure, is no longer a member of the Loew cohorts, but only, so far as can be learned, because he chose to resign rather than acquiesce in certain proposals of the Loew home office. Wesley Eddy, up to a few minutes ago, was knocking them cold in the Great Lakes Theater, in Buffalo, under the astute managing directorship of Charlie Raymond, no stranger to Washington sundodgers.

Allan Rogers, to the best of his knowledge and belief, is merely held in abeyance pending the passing of a couple of stage shows in which a master of ceremonies, by the very nature of the stage shows' structure, can have no useful place. Having just returned from a week-end of festivity with old college mates in Baltimore, Mr. Rogers was on the verge, yesterday midafternoon, of grabbing himself a rattler for New York to see if the Gay White Way is still gay and still white.

Incidentally, it was pleasant to learn that Mr. Rogers hails originally from the same neck of the woods as your reporter and that we both attended the same Middle West institutions of learning, although several years apart, Mr. Rogers being years older than I am—heaven forgive me for lying!

At any rate, it is probable that Mr. Rogers will remain at the Palace, unless he goes to New York, provided he decides not to make his home with his parents in California.

And is the theater getting letters about it!

Speaking of the Palace, it would be interesting to know how Jack Powell, the drum-stick virtuoso, manages to tap out his rhythms so unfailingly on solid surfaces—like the stage floor, the proscenium arch, the footlight trough and similar nonresilient substances—with what appear to be regulation sticks. Since most of the surfaces and utensils upon which he executes his syncopations are less pliant than the sheepskin of a drumhead, the assumption is that the necessary flexibility must be in the sticks. There must be some bounce somewhere, and I have never noticed the Palace Theater bounding around, to speak of.

His many friends in the Capital will be glad to learn that Corbin Sheild, one of Washington's veteran showmen, who recently resigned from the managership of the RKO-Keith Theater in this city, has been appointed division manager for the Federal Theatrical Accounting Service, with headquarters in the National Press Building, suite 1096.

The Federal Theatrical Accounting Service is a national organization that supervises the conduct of percentage film engagements, audits accounts and performs other services to exhibitors and theater managements suggested by its name. The local office is being established by Walter Logan, from the Cincinnati division, under the general managership of Claude Saunders, well-known film executive, for many years associated with the Paramount-Famous-Lasky Co.

Mr. Sheild paid a hurried visit to New York last Friday upon his appointment to the new post, returning to the Capital yesterday. His territory will consist of the States of Maryland and Virginia and the District of Columbia. Columbia Pictures, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Paramount-Publix and others of the foremost producer-distributors operating in this vicinity already are listed among his active accounts.

The best wishes of the industry accompany Mr. Sheild into his new affiliation.

And mention of the RKO-Keith Theater reminds me. Deftly as Lowell Sherman has directed "The Royal Bed," and skillfully as he enacts the role of the harassed king of a tiny principality tottering on the brink of revolution, he speaks one line that I am sure was not taken over verbatim from the script of Robert E. Sherwood, author of "The Queen's Husband," from which the picture was adapted.

When Mary Astor, as Princess Anne, remarks that she has read all about her dad in the papers, he replies:

"Well, you shouldn't read THOSE kind of papers."

Tst, tst, tst!

The appearance of Robert Warwick in the same picture will recall to many the days of his stardom. Warwick is still a handsome figure of a man, although a bit paunchy about the jowls and not quite so electric as once he was.

My most vivid recollection of Robert Warwick is as he appeared one night as a member of the audience at a "Midnight Frolic," on the Ziegfeld Roof, atop the New Amsterdam Theater, in New York, way back in the days when Art Hickman and his orchestra furnished the dance music. Eddie Cantor starred in the floor show and Odd McIntyre was Ziegfy's press agent. Mr. Warwick's dancing partner this particular night was Helene Chadwick, also a movie personage then in her heyday. I had never before realized that he was so tall or she so diminutive, and I marveled at their patience and poise as everybody in the place danced around them to get a good look at the handsomest couple on the floor—and on the screen.

Warwick is not badly cast as the fire-eating war lord in "The Royal Bed"—he made an enviable record in the Great War and knows what it is all about.

There is no telling these days where old screen favorites are going to leap out at you. In the "Fashion News," at the Earle, one of the first mannequins to appear is Vera Reynolds.

There was a time when Cecil B. De Mille made quite a fuss over the possibilities latent in Miss Reynolds as an interpreter of serious roles. She appeared more than once as leading woman with William Boyd—the screen Boyd, recently married to Dorothy Sebastian after having been divorced by Elinor Faire—and then something happened. After the ugly rumors had subsided, the moguls concluded that her popularity had too, and now here she is modeling gowns!

In the same short subject is Carmel Myers, once one of the leading stars of the old Mutual programs in the days when Lon Chaney was among their male luminaries in two releases a week.

Heigho! Tempus fugit, time and tide * * * and so forth.

Tell you what, boys, for the sake of novelty why not call Beulah Limerick a suicide?

Here's Sanitary Protection that really fits, really protects

Kotex is specially designed to fit inconspicuously; and it is so soft and comfort-giving besides.

YOU know what a relief it is to feel entirely free of self-consciousness at times when sanitary protection is necessary. To feel well groomed, comfortable, at ease.

That's the feeling Kotex gives you. Kotex, with its skilful shaping; its rounded corners; its soft filler. And it is so easy to dispose of!

Why Kotex is so absorbent

It is amazingly absorbent, you know. And there is a special reason for that. You see, it is made of fold upon fold of a dainty material, and each of these delicate layers is a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

Kotex absorbs laterally, not in one concentrated area, but away from the surface. That is why it stays comfortable so much longer than the ordinary sanitary pad.

It may be worn on either side, with equal efficiency, with no danger of possible embarrassment from wrong adjustment.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Ill.

IN HOSPITALS . . .

1—The Kotex absorbent is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

2—Kotex is soft . . . not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, fleecy softness.

3—Deodorizes . . . safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

VICTIM OF HOLD-UP HELD UNDER ARREST

CONFESSION IS ALLEGED

Special to The Washington Post.

Kansas City, Jan. 19.—Three men were recently held at police headquarters in connection with a hold-up of a filling station, and one of them was the victim in the hold-up.

L. H. Collins, 24, attendant at the station, showed great indignation as he related the facts of the robbery to Thomas Higgins, detective sergeant. The bandit had taken $70 of the company's money, and some one during the night had taken an overcoat valued at $7.50.

An accurate description of the supposed bandit was given to Higgins by Collins, and Higgins arrested Charles Hottle, 21, living at the same address as Collins. The description given by Collins fitted Hottle. Summoned to headquarters to identify Hottle, Collins said he could not be sure.

Then Higgins found Hottle's car, a Chevrolet roadster. Collins, Higgins noticed, had described the car in detail, even to the dented fender which would have been on the opposite side of the car as the hold-up was in progress.

Hottle confessed the hold-up had been a "frame-up," and told Higgins the one who really took the money from Collins, without the use of a weapon, was Harley Hutchinson, 18. He admitted executing the hoid-up in compliance with a plan of which, he said, Collins had knowledge. Hutchinson and Hottle both signed statements involving Collins in the plot, according to police.

In his statement Hutchinson said he obtained only $30 from Collins, while Collins reported to the police he had been robbed of $70.

Woodpecker Breaks Ice for Robins' Bath

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 19.—If George Helms wasn't chief of the county detective force, his latest contribution to the lore of natural history might be classified under the same heading as the story concerning salt and the bird's tail.

"A few mornings ago," said Helms, "a flock of robins arrived to take their usual morning plunge in my bird bath, but found it frozen over. Well, sir, there was a consultation and one of the birds flew away and returned with a woodpecker. Mr. Woodpecker cracked up the ice and the robins took their bath.

"The process was repeated several mornings, but I guess the woodpecker went on strike. Anyway, I thawed the ice with hot water, and now the robins set up a racket at my back door every day until I produce the hot water.

Tortoise Mourns Mate; Yields to Winter Sleep

London, Jan. 19.—Winter sleep has finally assuaged the sorrow of a giant tortoise in the zoo for its dead mate. For several weeks following the death of its companion the lumbering reptile constantly made the rounds of the tortoise house searching for her.

There were other giant tortoises around him, but they were not his distinctive variety, and he wanted a friend. Then winter came, and after eating a meal he turned his head to the wall and buried his troubles in sleep.

Electric Roll Call Favored in Ohio

Automatic Voting Is Suggested as Time-Saving Device for Legislators.

Cleveland, Jan. 19.—The Citizens League has mailed all members of the Ohio House of Representatives copies of a proposed new set of rules designed to simplify procedure and expedite business. If its suggestions are adopted the House will have electric roll calls.

The proposed rules would eliminate roll calls of the House for the introduction of bills, reduce the number of standing committees from 36 to 21, abandon entirely the reference committee, restrict the power of the rules committee and introduce the electric roll call to take the place of the call of "ayes" and "noes" by the clerk.

At the last session a check of a typical afternoon disclosed that out of a total of 238 minutes, 70½ minutes, more than one-fourth of the time, was taken up with roll calls, while only 46½ minutes was devoted to actual debate. The average roll call in the House takes 12 minutes. An electric device would register, record and tally the vote in one minute, the league reported.

Lisbon Cries for Return Of Its Open-Air Cafes

Lisbon, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Urging that the open-air cafe is a lure for tourists, restaurant owners of this capital are asking the city to revoke a decree barring chairs and tables from public sidewalks.

The favorite lounging place of thousands of Portuguese citizens disappeared overnight when the edict was put into effect. Their wails of anguish were long and loud.

Formerly there was almost a continuous string of wicker chairs and tables under the shade of green palms along the Avenida, the "Boul Mich" of Lisbon.

Escaped "Lifer" Returns to Cell

Murder Convict Surrenders After New Acquaintances Rob Him.

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 19.—Mills Moore, York County murder "lifer," who escaped from the South Carolina penitentiary, was returned recently to his cell, and is in solitary confinement as punishment, according to Col. James N. Pearman, superintendent of the prison.

Moore was brought back from St. Louis, where he surrendered, cowed and penniless, after he had fallen in with bad company and was robbed. He confessed to St. Louis police that he was an escaped South Carolina prisoner and asked that the Columbia authorities be notified.

Moore was a trusty and worked in the prison canteen. When he escaped December 1 he took with him $30 of the canteen money, and this got him as far west as St. Louis.

FISTS FLY AS AMERICAN FIVE DEFEATS C. U., 29-19

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Jan. 19.—If the records didn't lie before me in the form of a daily dozen sports pages, all with loud banner lines and excited accounts of the affair, I would find it very hard to believe that such a transparent deception as the current agitation over a couple of prize fights involving three self-seeking pugilists, one next June and the other next fall, could be perpetrated successfully in an age of sophistication which has its doubts about divinity, the motives of mayors and governors and the amateurism of some of the leading football players.

I have tried hard to make the public think, but at 1,000,000 words from me the public continues to do just about as it pleases with a perversity which I am beginning to regard as a personal affront.

Notwithstanding some rather pointed suggestions, amounting practically to imperative orders, the public seems determined to spend about $1,500,000 on these two prize fights, one between Stribling and Schmeling, the other between the winner and Primo Carnera, and I should be inclined to give the public up as a bad job and abandon it to its follies if I but knew of a better job, the existence of which I much doubt, unless it be that of bartender in the champagne-cocktail department in the Sevilla in Havana.

$1,500,000 TO BE SPENT ON FIGHTS

As to heavyweight prize fights, the customers evince that same wanton, wilful irresponsibility if not positive wrong-mindedness with which they discharge their duties as citizens at election time. As far back as my memory runneth they have, at election time, insisted upon returning to public office the very persons whom the editorial writers—who have my sympathy—have denounced as dishonest, ignorant, insincere, incompetent, rude, unscrupulous and, not to evade a bold word, generally unfit.

The editorial writers, who also try to make the public think, pined through the long administration of Mr. Hylan in New York, permitting themselves a slightly malicious gloat every now and again over the well-deserved discomfiture of an electorate which, however, maintained an exasperating unawareness that it was being discomfited.

CANDIDACY OF GOB URGED

Similarly, during the tenure of Max Schmeling as heavyweight champion to date, I have not failed to remark

Spencer Chief Reliance as Catcher

Had Poor Year With Nats in 1929 But Has Made Good.

Sold Self for $15,000; Blocking Runners Is Specialty.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

LIKE the linemen in football, who are the work horses of the team, the baseball catchers are generally cruelly overlooked when the laurels are handed out.

A receiver's duties are the most varied of those of any player on the field. The catching and returning of all deliveries, which many fans rate as important, is mere mechanical routine, as the good catcher signals for the type of ball he wants in a battle of wits with the batter, chases fouls, hustles down to back up first and third on throws and, last but not least, has to have plenty of nerve when blocking runners trying to score.

For years the Nationals have been depending upon Herald (Muddy) Ruel, but Roy Spencer edged Ruel completely out of the picture last season and, as a result, is the main dependence of Manager Walter Johnson behind the plate during the coming campaign, with his rival having been sent "down river" to the Boston Red Sox.

Declared Free Agent By Landis.

Spencer's case is a most unusual one. When Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis declared a flock of players free agents in the spring of 1929, on the grounds that some of the clubs had evaded the rules by covering up players, the Pittsburgh Pirates lost title to Spencer, who then was with the Indianapolis Club. The latter was training at Sarasota, and Clark Griffith, Nat owner, immediately hustled there from Tampa and gave Roy the tidy sum of $15,000 to sign a Washington contract, which called for $7,500 salary.

Spencer, however, failed to impress, although given plenty of opportunity. His fielding caused no joyous ecstasies, while his batting average for 50 games was a puny .155 This, Griffith figured, was much too little for the $22,500 which Roy drew, and he

Auto Speed Champion Shuns Sunday Drivers

New York, Jan. 18 (A.P.).—Billy Arnold doesn't like to drive an automobile fast, that is, on the highways. It's too dangerous.

"It's too risky, with all those Sunday drivers to outguess," the country's auto racing champion for 1930 and winner of the Indianapolis Speedway grind last year, explained. "Those amateur speed demons who like to tell their neighbors how they 'hit 70' on the Boston Post road have never had a front tire go out when they were making 50 miles an hour. A blowout would muffle them, sure enough."

Alabama Ace Named Kentucky Football Aid

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—John (Spinner) Campbell, one of the University of Alabama's outstanding half backs, was named back field coach for the University of Kentucky Football Team today. Coach Gamage, in making the announcement, said Campbell had returned to Alabama and would take up his new duties after graduation this spring.

Mrs. Hurds Scores 75 For Record in Bermuda

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former United States women's champion, established a new women's record for the Belmont Manor course today when she negotiated the eighteen holes in 74, exact par.

A feature of her play was the fact that she played all but two holes in par figures. She went over on the thirteenth, but scored a birdie on the fifteenth.

Penn State-Harvard Will Resume in 1932

Philadelphia, Jan. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Penn State College and Harvard are to resume football relations in 1932, it was learned here today.

The Nittany Lions will go to Cambridge October 15, it is understood, after a lapse of eleven years. On the same day Dartmouth and Penn resume gridiron relations at Franklin Field, after a lapse since 1921.

The last football game between Harvard and Penn State was played at Soldiers' Field, late in October, 1921, and resulted in a thrilling 21-to-21 tie.

Glenn Killinger, former All-American quarter back, was acting captain of the Penn State team. One of Killinger's feats against Harvard that day was to run back the kickoff for a touchdown to start the third period.

March 9 Set For Tourney Opening

Teams to Compete at Tech High for D. C. Court Titles.

Post Again Sponsors; Must Register by February 7.

THE District A. A. U. basket ball championship tournament, the crowning event of the court season in this section and sponsored each year by The Washington Post, will start March 9, it was announced last night by Winfree Johnson, chairman of the basket ball committee.

The same ideal playing conditions that market last year's tournament, the first under supervision of the District group, and the three previous events, sanctioned by the South Atlantic A. A. U. and conducted by The Post's sport staff, will prevail. Team entries will close at midnight, February 27, at The Post's sports department.

Individual gold A. A. U. medals and team trophies will afain be presented to the new District champions in each of the classes.

Tech High Gym Again Tourney Scene.

The spacious Tech High Gymnasium, with the last word in facilities for basket ball available, will again be the scene of the tuornament. Play as usual will be in seven classes, 100, 115, 130, 145 pounds and unlimited (for men and boys) and under 18 years and unlimited as to age (for girls and women). Eighty-five teams competed last year.

Team entries, player registration and playing rules will be virtually the same as were in effect last year.

Teams again will be allowed ten players, the number set by the basket ball committee last year. As usual no overweights will be allowed. Players will be weighed at least one week before the start of the tournament.

Players in the men's 145-pound and unlimited classes must be registered a month before theh start of the tournament. February 7 has been set as the last day for registration in those classes. In each of the other classes, including the girls' and women's divisions, players must be registered before midnight of February 27, the date of the closing of team entries in all classes.

Early Registration Is Urged.

All teams are urged by the committee to register their players as soon as possible. No extra time will be granted and players will not be allowed to shift to another team after naming the club for which they will compete on their registration applications.

Registration may be obtained by application to William E. Russell, 1503 North Capitol street or at The Post sports department. Team entry blanks for the tournament will be available at The Post next week.

Phillips Is Winner In Pinehurst Golf

Pinehurst, N. C., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Howard G. Phillips, of New York, today won the seventh annual mid-January golf tournament. He defeated Tom Rudel, of Chicago, former Princeton linksman, 6 and 5, in the final round.

Three-Eye Unanimous In Accepting Draft

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—The Three-Eye Baseball League today voted unanimously to accept the major leagues' universal draft proposal. The vote was perfunctory, as all club owners announced they were in favor of the proposal during the minor league meeting in Montreal.

Canadian Ice Hockey Team Wins at Prague

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Six thousand persons sat in a blinding snowstorm for two hours today while a team picked at random from the students of Prague played an exhibition match with Manitoba University Ice Hockey Team now touring Europe.

The game ended with a score of two goals to one for the Canadians. The rink was covered most of the time with an inch of snow.

Only Football Paid Way at Princeton

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Footbal was the only sport at Princeton University to pay its own way during the fiscal year ending July, 1930, according to the financial report of the university athletic association, issued today.

Football had a net revenue of $259,574 for the 1929 season, the report revealed.

Harvard-Princeton Plan Would Except Football

Princeton, N. J., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Undergraduate "officials" at Princeton University favor an immediate resumption of athletic relations with Harvard in all sports except football.

This sentiment was expressed in a letter published by the Daily Princetonian today and signed by the chairman of the undergraduate council, the presidents of the three upper classes and the captains of all major and minor sport teams.

In part, the letter, containing nineteen signatures, said:: "Realizing that the football problem involves many intricate details, we, on the other hand, feel that there is no reason what ever to postpone scheduling contests in other sports."

BASEBALL FOR TOPEKA.

Topeka, which lost its Western League franchise to Tulsa, probably will not be without baseball this season. The Western Association, according to President Dale Gear, will place a club in the Kansas capital.

HUNGARY has been without a king since the death of the late Charles, father of Archduke Otto. Just recently Otto attained his eighteenth birthday and his legal majority, and under normal conditions should rightfully be king. However, at present Hungary is in a political and economic predicament which makes it appear that there will be no king for some time to come.

Taxes in Samoa are based on height, not on wealth. As soon as a native becomes five feet one inch tall he begins paying taxes. The local government, or "fono" as the natives call it, formerly assessed everybody who was five feet one inch tall $6 a year, but more recently raised the rate to $11.50 per year per man to carry out a road building program. If you grow fast in that country you're just out o' luck.

VETERANPRO LIKES NEW BALL

Flat Swing Learned in Scotland, Valuable, Says Hutchison.

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Take it from an old-timer who learned his golf in the high winds on the other side of the ocean, the new, large ball is "jest aboot right."

The old-timer is Jock Hutchison, sporting the winter silks of the Nassau Country Club for the eighth year, but known more familiarly to the shooters of the winter golf caravan as the "perennial runner-up" of Florida tournaments.

Jock talked about the new ball, his game and golf in general before he sailed for Nassau to take up the work that he alternates with his Chicago job as a professional. He has been at the Glen View Club there for seventeen years.

"You might think the new ball would worry some of us older golfers," Jock said. "Well, it doesn't. You see, we learned to use our wood and long iron clubs in the face of high winds in Scotland and England. Naturally, we learned to use a flat swing that sent the ball skimming just barely over the grass tops."

Sees No Difference On Greens.

Hutchison always made his fairway shots after this manner. Now, he said, he finds this style of swing an advantage in putting distance behind the large pellet in the face of a wind.

"How much difference do you find on the green between the old and the new balls?" he was asked.

"None at all, and the less said about my tournament putting this year the better," the Scot declared flatly.

Hutchison will return to American soil in March for competition in the international four-ball matches at Miami and the $15,000 La Gorce open at Miami Beach.

SAKS VS. FLASHES.

Saks Clothiers and Jewish Community Center Flashes will tangle tonight in a 145-pound Boys' Club League game. The contest will be staged at the Boys' Club at 8:30 o'clock.

Sun Beau Takes Cat To Winter Quarters

Columbia, S. C., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Sun Beau, one of the greatest money-making race horses of all time, has arrived in Columbia to spend the winter.

With him he brought his cat, whose name is Red, but in reality a large yellow feline. The horse also owns a dog, an Eskimo husky, which is said to keep guard over Sun Beau day and night.

The horse has won $265,000 in prize money, being outranked in America only by Gallant Fox, Zev and Blue Larkspur.

$40,000 Wage Demand Denied by Hack Wilson

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Jan. 19.—At his home here tonight, Hack Wilson, Chicago Cubs' slugging celebrity, denied emphatically a story that was sent out from Chicago today to the effect that he had asked the Bruins for a $40,000 contract for 1931.

Wilson declared he had not yet negotiated with William Veeck about the salery he is to receive for the approaching season. "I expect to be called into conference with him before departing for Catalina Island. We conferred in New York City on February 2 last year. I do not know where the conference this year will be held," he said.

Dr. Martin Due Today; May Meet Conger Again

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Dr. Paul Martin, the little Swiss surgeon, who is one of the few runners to have beaten Ray Conger in the past few years, will arrive tomorrow on the liner Bremen to resume his medical studies in New York hospitals and take another turn at the boards.

He plans to enter the Newark A. C. games January 28, a meet in which Conger is also entered, but whether the two will meet has not been determined.

The doctor beat the Illinois A. C. flier last year in the 1,000-yard run at the national championships in New York in the fast time of 2:12:8.

Baseball Prospers in Hard Times, Hurt Only by War, Says Johnson

He is here convalescing from a recent illness.

"There may be managers of ball clubs who fear that the present hard times will reduce receipts next season, but it has been my experience that when the country is hard hit, baseball prospers," he said today.

"It is not affected by depressions. A man will go to see a ball game just to get his mind off his troubles. The only thing that puts a crimp in baseball is a war. This depression won't hurt receipts next season. Anyway, I look for times to be better, and when the season opens things, in my opinion, will be a little brighter."

Johnson said he did not approve of the practice of major league clubs maintaining "farms" in the minors.

2 G. W. FIVES IN ACTION TONIGHT

Randolph-Macon Foe of Varsity; Yearlings Meet Tech High.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY'S varsity and freshmen basket ball teams dominate an otherwise hollow collegiate court card tonight. Midyear examinations have cut down hard on the university dribblers, countenancing only one other game tonight, a Washington Collegiate Conference clash featuring Southeastern and Strayers.

The Colonial Varsity, boasting of Forrest Burgess and Jack Conner, first and fourth leading scorers among the local college players, plays host to Randolph-Macon, of Ashland, Va., tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the H street gymnasium. The preliminary, starting at 7:30 o'clock, brings together the G. W. Yearlings and Tech High.

Mulvey, Hurt, Out Of G. W. Line-up.

The Colonials take the court tonight without the services of Fred Mulvey, forward, whose play has been of high order all year. Mulvey's ankle, twisted in practice, has not responded to treatment. Coach Pixlee announced last night that Mulvey's understudy, Johnny Fenlon, would get the call tonight, and it is felt that no serious letdown will be visible in the play of the team.

Despite an unlooked-for setback at the hands of Catholic University, George Washington's basket outfit is enjoying a season unlike any floor squad which has represented the downtown school in the last decade. Shenandoah, Baltimore U., Villanova, Drexel, Virginia Medical, Richmond U. and Randolph-Macon have been taken into camp with varying degrees of decisiveness. Navy and Catholic have taken the measure of the Colonials, Navy by two baskets and Catholic by three.

The game tonight is the second of the two encounters scheduled between the two schools. George Washington dropped down to Ashland last Thursday night and gave the Virginians a 44-to-38 setback. Burgess and Connor, with 18 and 14 points, respectively, led the scorers, but in Ames, left forward, Randolph-Macon produced a sharpshooter who kept his team in the game with a quartet of field and a quartet of foul goals.

Colonial Cubs Foresee Win.

The Colonial Yearlings, spurred by an upset victory over Catholic University's Cubs, look for a win in the preliminary over Tech High. Tech has a smooth bunch of basket ball players this year, with Everett Russell back at his old forward post, and Beach, Reichardt and Wheeler coming along fast.

Southeastern and Strayers hook up tonight at the Y. M. C. A. at 8:30 o'clock, in the first of three local collegiate conference games scheduled this week.

Referee Ousts Three for Fighting

C. U. Trio Ruled Off Floor for Slugging Visiting Players.

Battle Waxes Warm in First Half With Crowd on Edge.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

CATHOLIC UNIVERSITY'S barket ball team nearly brought the law down on it last night for staging what is known as fisticuffs before a paid audience, a serious offense in the District. Incidentally, while Messrs. Sheary, Spinelli and Ambrose, of the Cardinals, were swinging in the general neighborhood of Messrs. Sells and Woods, of American, American took time enough from its ducking and parrying to defeat the Cards by the score of 29 to 19 in one of the major upsets of the feat the Cards by the score of 29 to college basket ball season.

It was a victory for American as hollow as a base drum. Catholic put a crippled team on the floor at the start, George Hickey, regular center, and Joe Walsh, regular guard, confined to their rooms, with an exam in the first case and a nip of the flu in the other. Then, after only eight minutes of the game had clicked away, with Catholic leading, 5 to 3, Referee Dutch Eberts ejected Buster Sheary, high-scoring guard, and Lou Spinelli, center, from the game for making manifestations of physical harm under the nose of Sells.

The effect on both C. U. and the Methodists was instantaneous. American drew away quickly, never to be headed. The score at the half stood 8-5 in its favor.

Thus the game progressed with C. U.'s makeshift team displaying ragged passing and harmless guarding and held together only by the work of Johnny Oliver and Whitey Ambrose. Catholic braced a bit when American had gained 20 points to its 9. Oliver and Hanley eluded their guards in great fashion to bring the score up to 20-13. It looked like the start of a C. U. spurt, but it did not materialize.

But the spurt died aborning when out of a legitimate tangle of players came the spectacle of Ambrose in hot pursuit of John Woods, high scorer of the American outfit. The two completed two full laps of the court before Johnny Oliver brought Ambrose down from behind with one of the best tackles ever made in Catholic University's gymnasium. Mr. Ambrose was quickly ejected from the game and C. U.'s last chance went glimmering.

American showed creditable skill in some parts of the fray. Dick and Woods broke well on a neat pivot play which accounted for a major portion of the Methodists' points. Red Olsen's all around work was also noteworthy.

Motor Boat Honor Awarded to Hoyt

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Richard P. Hoyt, New York banker, today was awarded the medal for the outstanding motorboat achievements of 1930 by the Regatta Circuit Riders in their annual meeting here.

As owner of the Rotsy-Totsy, Hoyt won the gold cup, the President's Cup, the national sweepstakes and the Chesapeake Bay free-for-all. In the first two races, Victor Kleisrath was at the wheel, while Hoyt piloted the speed boat on the other two occasions.

Robins Pay $50,000 For Oakland Catcher

Oakland, Calif., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Ernest Lombardi, giant catcher of the Oakland Baseball Club, was sold today to the Brooklyn Nationals for a sum reported not less than $50,000, plus two players.

Oakland officials said the two players were Henry De Berry, veteran catcher, and Eddie Moore, who played both at second base and in the outfield for Brooklyn last season.

Lombardi will report for spring training this year. He is 22 years old and considered one of the best catching prospects uncovered in the Coast circuit in many seasons. He is a heavy hitter, having an average of .377 in 1928; .366 in 1929 and .370 last year. He led the league in assists in 1929 and 1930 with 95 and 105, respectively.

PHILS MADE MONEY.

Profits of approximately $35,000 were made last season by the Philadelphia Nationals, according to figures reported at the annual meeting of the stockholders. Money realized from the sale of players was largely responsible for keeping the club out of the red.

CENTRAL-WESTERN CLASH TODAY IS IMPORTANT

Loser Faces Elimination In Series

Eastern Heavy Choice Over Business High Team.

THE hopes of Central and Western for the high school basket ball championship virtually hinge on the outcome of today's clash between these rivals which marks the feature of the semi-weekly series program at the Tech High gymnasium. This game, which starts at 3:45 o'clock will be followed by a battle of the series-leading Eastern five with Business.

For Central, a defeat today would mark the second and few teams in past years have gone on to the title after two setbacks although Tech turned the trick last year. On the other hand, Western, on the losing end, will have absorbed three defeats, a number which would reduce the titular chance of the Red and White to only a mathematical possibility.

Rivals Appear Even Match.

There is little to choose between these teams either by comparing their series records or their individual records. Each scored its only series victory at the expense of Business, Central winning, 39-20 and Western, 28-23. Each fell victim to Tech, in identical thrilling battles, Central bowing, 26-25 and Western, 28-24.

Central's team-play has appeared somewhat smoother than Western's, but the Blue and White has shown no individual scoring threat of the proportions of Tony Latona, the left-hand passing Western forward. Both teams employ the man-for-man defense, which speed play and there should be plenty of action from the opening wistle.

Eastern Outclasses Business.

Eastern is conceded a victory over Business today by virtually all hands except Coach Woodworth, his players and the more optimistic of the Stenographer rooters. Business, despite the heroic play of Bob Lucas, has never reached the form that marked some of its preseason games and there is no reason to believe that it will rise to the necessary heights against Eastern today.

Winter Indoor Tennis League Teams Idle

The Baltimore Winter Indoor Tennis League, in which Washington has two entries, enters an arid period today which will extend January 31 when the Dumbarton Club netmen meet the American Legionnaires of Baltimore.

The next appearance of the Washington All Stars who hold second place in the league, will be Sunday, February 1 when the Naval Academy racqueters are encountered.

Middle States Body Backs Tilden as No. 1

Philadelphia, Jan. 17 (A.P.).—The Middle States Lawn Tennis Association, meeting here today, voted to support its president, Paul W. G. Gibbons, for one of the offices of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

This action, it was pointed out, was a gesture of displeasure toward the national nominating committee in ignoring Gibbons, who was the Middle States' choice for a vice presidency of the U. S. L. T. A. Middle States delegates to the national meeting of the major association will renew their efforts to bring about Gibbons' election, it was said.

The association also adopted a resolution asking that the ranking resolution of the U. S. L. T. A. be rescinded to permit "Big Bill" Tilden to be ranked as No. 1.

Four Teams in Debut In D. C. Court League

Four more teams will make their debut this week in the District of Columbia Basket Ball League, which enjoyed such an auspicious opening last Saturday night at the Boys' Club. These clubs are the Y. M. C. A.'s, Clovers, Eastern Whirlwinds and Potomac Boat Club.

Clovers and Eastern Whirlwinds will tangle on Thursday night at the Boys' Club, starting at 7:30 o'clock. A double-header attraction will be staged Saturday night at the Y. M. C. A. gym at 7:30 o'clock, when the Saks Clothiers meet the Y. M. C. A. quintet and the Potomac Boat Club stacks up against the Eastern Whirlwinds. Dancing will follow the games.

Managers of the Clover and Eastern Whirlwind Teams are asked to communicate immediately with Charles M. Fyfe, of the Boys' Club, relative to the arrangements for their contest Thursday night.

SPENGLERS OPEN SEASON.

Off to a late start, Spengler Post's 130-pound basket ball team will inaugurate its 1931 schedule tonight when it takes on the Boys Club Optimists at the Boys Club, starting at 7:40 o'clock. Three other contests in the next few days also are listed for the Spenglers.

—Miami Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

THE Shore Crest Handicap, a $1,500 purse for three olds and up, at a mile, has a small but speedy field at Miami today and is on the program as the feature. SON O' BATTLE, a good horse in Maryland and on New York tracks, and also at Chicago, is selected to take the measure of GUN ROYAL, which will be the favorite, in this race.

GUN ROYAL beat Scatter Saturday at Miami, but whether he can go a mile is a different proposition, for he is rated as a sprinter and ran the six furlongs Saturday in 1:11 3-5. It is believed the Man O' War colt, a full brother of Battleau, has the edge at a mile. He has beaten some very fast horses. But he will have to catch GUN ROYAL which has great early speed and will be the favorite. JEAN VALJEAN occasionally runs a good race and has been regarded as of stake quality. The Man O' War colt is required to concede weight to the entire field. SILVERDALE should improve.

FIRST RACE—ULTRA MARINE has a good chance in the first race and Lowenstein horses are sent to the post fit. This son of Haste was beaten a head by Huntingdon at Bowie in a large field and remains a maiden. He came from sixth position in the stretch and almost won but had to go to the outside. IMAGERY may be the contender. The best race of this W. R. Coe gelding was when he ran second to Totem. He is now a three-year-old and will not remain long in the maiden class.

LITTLE COVENTRY has shown good form more recently and is dangerous. He has run second twice to good horses at New Orleans as a two-year-old and is by the Preakness winner, Coventry.

SECOND RACE—BATTY is due to annex brackets in the second race. This Greentree filly has been coming close and, in her last race last week, was beaten a nose by Germaine Chauvelot. She has up only 103 pounds and should carry this field until it gets dizzy. PERCEPTION, winner of his last race on Saturday, should be the contender. AUSTERLITZ will bear watching and should be close, having finished third to Impish last week, and was a winner at St. John's.

THIRD RACE—C. V. Whitney's GOSLING should repeat in the third race. She beat St. Agnes, fast Jeffords filly, last week in 1:12 1-5, and there is nothing in this race as dangerous as St. Agnes. GOSLING is well named daughter of Mother Goose, Futurity winner. Her sire is St. Germain. That was the first race for GOSLING since Eastern racing closed, and she proved to be in fit condition. SUN MASK is well thought of at Miami and may be the contender. OPPONENT is a sleeper and will win soon, but is in over his head here.

FIFTH RACE—The fifth race at a mile is sure to be close, for the field is balanced to within a few pounds. CROSS BONES has been coming around to good form and in his last race was third to Gun Royal and Scatter. A mile will suit better than 6 furlongs. HONEY LOCUST always has backing but ran last Saturday. PARTISAN may get third money. He was a star last season in Florida as a 2-year-old.

SIXTH RACE—PERKINS should repeat in the sixth race but he will have a keen contender in MAKE HASTE, whose compaign in Maryland was marked by speed. He beat good horses. PERKINS will have to do his best if he pulls through. PORT HARLEM should show a good race. She has plenty of speed if up to best form.

SEVENTH RACE—WOODGAIN is picked to win the seventh race. He was second to Calgary Kay Saturday, his first start since arriving from New Orleans. NEALON KAY, winner last out, doubtless will be the favorite, and a dangerous one, but WOODGAIN is believed to have the edge on him. AURICA also has a chance, and will be in the money if form is reflected on his second last week to Cabellsdale. NEALON KAY beat Western Princess easily in his start last Friday.

ANGRY AGAIN SCORES AT MIAMI

Closes Fast to Outrun Mud Under Urging by Workman.

HIALEAH RACE TRACK, Miami, Fla., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—C. V. Whitney's Angry scored his second victory of the meeting when he annexed the Alhambra Claiming Handicap, six furlongs feature of the Monday card here today. He picked up 12 pounds and stepped the route in 1:11 3-5, very fast time. Mud finished second with Hacky H. Third.

The start was good with Hacky H., Black Watch and Mud setting the pace a length in front of Angry, who was under steady restraint.

Black Watch ran out at the far turn and Mud moved into the lead. Meanwhile, Workman was urging Angry along. The gelding closed very fast on the outside and in the stretch took command to win easily by half a length. He paid $7.40.

Sunny Morn Wins First, Paying $34.20.

Sunny Morn, an outsider in the betting, was an easy winner of the opening event, a six furlongs gallop, when he ran the distance in the very fast time of 1:11 4-5. Germaine Chauvelot was second and Calgary Kay third.

Sunny Morn took command at the top of the stretch and drew away to win by two lengths in easy fashion and pay $34.20 to win and $34.10 to place.

ST. JOHN FIVE BEATEN BY EASTERN

Victors Given Scare, 44-40, Minus Services of Noonan.

PLAYING without the services of its kingpin center and scoring threat, Bill Noonan, Eastern High's basket ball team was given a scarce yesterday at Eastern by St. John's basketers, who fought all the way before yielding 44-40. Eastern had to stage a comeback to eke out the victory, trailing 20-17 at the half.

Augusterfer, Quigley and Scanlon, of St. John's, gave notice that it was to be a free-scoring fracas by depositing a goal apiece at the outset, quickly followed by like actions on the part of Courtney and Hayes, two of the Eastern reserves, who started the game.

Eastern's first string outfit, minus Noonan, went in at the half and soon drew away from St. John's, after overcoming the slight lead held by the Saints.

St. John's held on to the end, however, showing a flurry of baskets toward the close by Quigley.

Damascus High Wins Over Takoma, 20-17

Damascus lost little time in establishing a 11-6 lead, which held away at the half, mostly through the work of N. Poole, right forward.

Takoma-Silver Spring rallied in the second half, but not enough to overcome the lead of Damascus, despite the efforts of George Bozeviech, who scored eleven points for his team.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

DISEASE CARRIERS.

WILD animals, as a source of disease in man, are being extensively studied, and some worthwhile results have been obtained. In Panama, Dr. Clarke has proved that wild monkeys have relapsing fever, and that this disease can be transmitted to man by insects. He has also proved that monkeys harbor malaria, but the indications are that monkey malaria is about like bird malaria in that it does not directly threaten man.

In West Africa, effort is being made to establish a relationship between yellow fever and jaundice in jungle animals, and the menace of yellow jack to man in both Africa and America. The wild animals of the sleeping sickness areas in Africa carry the parasites of that disease. The fly carries the disease from the wild animals to man as well as to his beasts of burden. Bubonic plague got into the wild rodents of the Pacific slope about 30 years ago and, at intervals of several years, they fed it back to man.

The broad tapeworm has become something of a nuisance in Minnesota, Michigan and the Canadian central west. Man gets it from eating undercooked fish. The wall-eyed pike and the pickerel appear to be chief offenders. But how do the fish get their infection? This is a subject to which Mr. Vergeer has been devoting his attention. He holds bears principally responsible, though dogs play no small part in the process. He has found that wild bears in that region not only catch and eat fish but they eat the garbage around the camps of hunters and fishermen.

Their droppings are washed into the lakes and streams and, being eaten by the fish, serve to infect the latter. Thus the circle is made complete. The remedy he offers consists of several parts. First, all fish should be thoroughly cooked before being eaten by man, or by his dog, or by bears.

Second, all garbage and toilet material should be covered with some repellent and buried deep in the ground. In Panama the rot repellent used is a mixture of crude oil 8 parts, kerosene 1 part. Perhaps extermination of wild animals, as a measure of disease control, may be justified.

BEDBUGS.

S. S. writes: To get rid of bedbugs apply kerosene to all the outer portions of the bedstead, go over outer edge of mattress, except at head of bed, with gasoline, particularly the seams and niches. Now wind up the battle at the head of the mattress. It is this part particularly which the little public enemies like to occupy and for that reason gather there from the other parts of the bed. Apply no remedies here that will leave any odor or after effect. Heat fully answers such purpose. Turn the head of the mattress upward and lay a wet cloth thereon and go over same with a hot flatiron. Repeat two days later.

The housekeeper who is compelled to face trials of this kind often wastes a lot of time and effort because she applies the remedies in a way to scatter the invaders over the bed and room. Furthermore, she never dreams that these little pests can live and breed in men's hats and around hat hooks and down in the toes of shoes.

REPLY.

You should be careful about using heat, gasoline and kerosene on the same fabrics, or in the same room, and at the same time.

STOCKS MOVE DOWN AS TURNOVER DROPS

Lack of Leadership Lately Becomes Even More Pronounced.

1,107,507 SHARES SOLD

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Somewhat at the expense of quotations, the stock market gave itself over to the luxury of idleness today.

The lack of leadership, increasingly evident in the later sessions last week, became even more apparent and had there not been a flurry of activity in the final hour, the turnover would have set a new low record for more than three years. As it was, sales aggregated 1,114,800 shares, the smallest volume since December 1, when 1,107,507 shares changed hands.

Although fluctuations in so dull a market do little but emphasize the feebleness of the speculative pulse, the trend was noticeably lower throughout the day. A few stocks had to weather bearish demonstrations; the rank and file made negligible moves, sagging more from complete lack of interest than from special considerations.

Few Small Gains Appear.

The expansion of trading in the last 50 minutes started with a slightly broader decline, but covering reduced to minor fractions the losses in most of the important issues. There were some small gains.

General Electric, in anticipation of the news that 1930 orders had declined 23 per cent and those of the last quarter 32 per cent, dropped more than a point to a new low for the bear market. Its recession was cut to half a point. Westinghouse, a recent bear favorite, fared not quite so well, although it halved a 2-point decline.

Others making new lows included Bethlehem Steel, Allied Chemical and Case. U. S. Steel, which had been off a point, finished steady, and so did American Telephone. National Biscuit, whose earnings statement is expected soon, was down nearly 2, while Woolworth, Atchison, Johns-Manville, Public Service of New Jersey and Standard Oil of New Jersey sagged about a point net. Kroger Grocery was independently strong, moving up 2½. Lambert softened 4 points.

Bearish talk heard in stock market circles was based partially on the assumption that first quarter profits this year will be smaller than in 1930. And that the bulk of last year's earnings reports are not yet at hand. But it was also pointed out that the reaction in prices from the early January highs had been based on a readiness to discount such returns. Many observers list Wall street's chastened spirits as among the real assets on the current balance sheet.

Easiness of sterling exchange, which sagged to the lowest rate in more than a year, caused some speculation as to possible gold shipments from London, although there is said to be considerable reluctance to take any metal.

Wheat was steady, closing ¼ cent off to ½ cent higher, reflecting a smaller visible supply. Corn rallied ⅝ to a cent. Cotton was dull, finishing unchanged to 2 points off.

Announcement that the Canadian National Railways was to float a $70,000,000 bond issue in this market strengthened the Dominion dollar. European rates were slightly irregular.

BANKS' RESOURCES CLIMB $2,084,000

39 CONCERNS ON LIST

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Resources of the 39 banks of the District at close of business December 31, last call date, were $328,717,000, an abstract of reports of condition made public yesterday by the office of Comptroller of the Currency Pole reveals. This was a gain of $2,084,000 over resources of 40 banks shown by the preceding call date of September 24, and one of $2,995,000 over those of 41 banks reported in the call date of December 31, 1929.

Resources of the twelve national banks on December 31, 1930, are listed at $183,535,000; those of the five trust companies at $97,632,000, and those of the 22 savings banks at $47,550,000.

Becker, Woodbury Blair, William A. H. Church, Walter C. Clephane, H. Rozier Dulany, jr., Franklin H. Ellis, H. Prescott Gatley, William D. Hoover, Walter B. Howe, Reginald S. Huidekoper, Victor Kauffmann, Edmund D. Rheem, Frank Stetson, William H. Walker, William B. Willard, Harley P. Wilson.

Officers are: William D. Hoover, president; Woodbury Blair, first vice president; Frank Stetson, second vice president and trust officer; Charles C. Lamborn, treasurer; E. Percival Wilson, secretary; Frank R. Ulmer, assistant treasurer; Bruce Baird and David Bornet, assistant trust officers; John W. Calvert and W. Hiles Pardoe, assistant treasurers; A. J. Flint and John M. Boteler, assistant secretaries; Audley A. P. Savage, auditor.

Calculating Machine Sales Up.

That business conditions in Washington are becoming increasingly favorable is indicated by the fact that S. L. Shanks, local district manager of the Monroe Calculating Machine Co., Inc., with offices at 1104 Vermont avenue northwest, has just been notified that the Washington district led the entire country last month for sales in proportion to sales quota for districts of its size.

The local office was awarded the monthly sales pennant for this achievement and the record also won for Mr. Shanks a cash prize in a sales contest held during December. J. E. Ball, jr., representative of the Washington office, also was a prize winner in the contest. In addition, the Washington district won the yearly sales banner awarded to the district having the highest percentage of sales quota for the year 1930.

The Monroe Co. itself reports an increase in December of more than 20 per cent over November business, and inasmuch as the sale of calculating machines, which are used in every line of business, is a good barometer of general business conditions, this report indicates a definite upward business trend.

New Fenner & Beane Aid.

Association of Richard Oulahan with Fenner & BeBane is announced today. Mr. Oulahan is the son of Richard V. Oulahan, correspondent of the New York Times, and for the past four years has been manager of the Knoxville, Tenn., office of Bauer, Pogue, Pond & Vivian, former members of the New York Stock Exchange.

Mr. Oulahan was born and reared in Washington and also had his preparatory school work here. He was retired as a captain of infantry as a result of injuries received during the World War.

The statement of condition of the Fidelity Investment Association, the largest organization in the country devoted exclusively to the granting of annuities, shows total resources, as of December 31, 1930, of $25,047,124, of which $16,160,200 is in securities approved by and deposited with State departments for the exclusive protection of contract holders.

Resources of the association include $14,767,056 in bonds, $769,271 in preferred stocks and $895,794 in other securities. Loans to contract holders total $6,903,117; mortgage and collateral loans $405,636, and cash, $1,013,865.

Bank Distributing Pamphlet.

"On Entering a New Era of Business" is the title of an interesting article by Norman E. Towson, assistant treasurer and manager of the foreign department of the Washington Loan & Trust Co. It is being distributed by that institution in pamphlet form.

Francis M. Savage, retired bank president, and Mrs. Savage sail today on the Columbus on their second trip around the world.

Curb Review

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Trading all but flickered out in today's curb market, but there was sufficient activity to record an irregularly lower trend. The day's total transfers of 190,300 shares were the smallest in several years.

In the utilities, American Gas & Electric lost 2¼ points, but declines elsewhere were narrow. Electric Bond & Share sold off ¾, but closed down only ¼ net. United Light A lost ½.

Oils were also inclined to sag. Gulf and Vacuum lost about a point, and Cities Service yielded a fraction. The Indian Territory shares, controlled by Cities Service, held steady in response to report of annual earnings of $1.39 a share, against only 39 cents in the preceding year. In the Standards, Indiana sagged ½ point. Texon Oil was firm, moving up 1.

United Founders was the feature of the investment company issues. Its annual report, showing a break-up value of $8.96 a share, caused a rally of ⅛ of a point, carrying the stock up to 8¼.

There were only a few firm spots among the industrials and specialties, mostly in the very lightly traded issues. Fred T. Ley advanced 6 points, A. C. Horn 1 point and New Haven Clock 2.

The Ford issues were under pressure, perhaps as a result of the price cut announced Saturday. Ford, Ltd., closed off ¾, and Ford of Canada A, ½. Western Air Express was uninfluenced by announcement of its new 36-hour coast-to-coast express service. It sagged a point, then recovered ⅜.

Mines were largely neglected, although Shattuck Denn rose ¾ and Roan Antelope 1 point.

BONDS' PRICE LEVEL REMAINS UNCHANGED

Canadian National Railways to Float $70,000,000 Issue This Week.

U. S. GOVERNMENTS FIRM

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Trading in the bond market was a wishy-washy affair today. Gains and losses in the quiet and featureless session were about evenly matched, and the day's movement left the price level virtually stationary.

Distribution of the large volume of financing floated last week continued with virtually no competition, as the day's new offerings were negligible. Marketing of a $70,000,000 4½ per cent 25-year noncallable debenture issue of the Canadian National Railways is in prospect for the latter part of the week. The system will receive bids January 21.

The announcement was reflected in the reaction of a half dozen Canadian National bonds listed on the exchange, with declines ranging from ⅛ to a full point. The 4½s sagged a point and three 4½s of various maturities eased ½ each. The Canadian Railways has not floated a loan in the American market since last June, when it obtained $15,000,000 on equipment 4½s.

Pan-American Petroleum of California 6s took a spectacular drop of 20 points, to a new low at 55, on a few sales. It was the first transaction since the receivership of the Richfield Oil Co., the parent company, and appointment of a bondholders' protective committee. Richfield Oil 6s declined 1¾, but oil bonds generally were heavy.

United States Governments were not as active as in recent sessions, but continued to display a strong tone. Liberty 1st 4¼s advanced ⅛ of a point to a new high, and there was a larger rise in Treasury 3¾s.

A small group of railroad and utility issues showed a sympathetic reaction to the heavy tone of shares, notably certain issues of St. Paul, Illinois Central and International Telephone.

Slump in Earnings Reported by Bank

New York Reserve's Net of $4,588,000 Is Drop of $7,675,000.

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—The effect of an era of extreme ease in credit conditions is mirrored in the annual statement of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, issued today, which shows that net earnings dropped from $12,263,000 in 1929 to $4,588,000 in 1930.

Dividends were larger, although the paid-in capital shrank from $67,301,450 to $65,577,650 due to a reduction in capital of banks and the closing of the Bank of United States, a private institution which was in no way connected with the Government. Dividends, however, are paid on the average amount of capital outstanding.

The shrinkage in income was mainly attributable to the reduced earnings from loans to member banks and discounting of eligible paper from them, the rates on which were of course much lower in 1930 than 1929. The rediscount rate dropped from 6 per cent in 1929 to 2 per cent at the end of 1930. Earnings from this type of business alone dropped from $12,492,000 in 1929 to $1,910,000 last year. Loans and investments decreased $100,000,000 to $580,352,000.

Ousted Film Director Asks $58,500 of Thaw

New York, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—Charles Edward Davenport, motion picture director, presented evidence today in his $58,500 suit against Harry K. Thaw.

The director says Thaw employed him to make a series of pictures in 1927 and later discharged him "without reason or cause." He asks $8,500 for wages, $25,000 for alleged breach of contract, and a like amount for "prospective profits."

CITY UTILITIES BODY DECIDES THIS WEEK ON ADVICE OF BRIDE

Abrogation of Agreement in 1914 With Power Company Urged by Advisor.

BURDEN OF PROOF PUT UPON FIRM IN COURT

Keech Agrees With Opinion of Corporation Counsel on Rate Procedure.

The Public Utilities Commission will announce this week whether it will insist on Corporaton Counsel William W. Bride carrying out its instructions regarding the modification of the electric power consent decree or will accept the advice of Mr. Bride to abrogate the agreement it entered into with the Potomac Electric Power Co. in 1924, Harleigh H. Hartman, legal member of the body, said yesterday afternoon.

Several days study will be required on the rather lengthy opinion submitted by Mr. Bride yesterday morning, Mr. Hartman said, and attention will be given the advice despite the fact that the commission previously showed its disregard for the opinion of its counsel by not waiting for the receipt of requested advice before deciding on a course of action.

The opinion of the corporation counsel was not made public because it would furnish the counsel of the power company with ammunition to fight the action should the utilities body decide to discard the decree. It was learned, however, that the opinion holds that the commission is empowered to abrogate the agreement, set a new valuation or rate base, and order further reduced electric rates put into effect at once in the District.

Shifts Burden of Proof.

Should the commission follow this advice, the burden of proof would be shifted from the utilities body to the power company, it was said, and whatever litigation ensued would be considerably shorter than would result from an attempt to modify the decree by scaling down the profits of the utility and reducing its initial return from 7½ to 6¾ per cent. Under this latter plan the commission must convince the court that the rate of return of the power company, now more than 10 per cent, is unreasonable; whereas if the Bride proposal is adopted the Potomac Electric Power Co. will have to prove that the rates set by the utilities body are confiscatory.

A copy of the opinion was shown to Richmond B. Keech, the people's counsel, before being submitted to the commission and was given his approval. It is, in substance, what he has previously advocated.

Though there is a difference of opinion as to methods of procedure which the commission should follow in discarding the decree, it is believed that that could be accomplished either with or without notification of the court. The utilities body first, however, would rescind orders issued prior to the 1924 agreement governing the valuation and the electric rates. It was on the basis of these cases that prolonged litigation ensued and the decree resulted.

Delayed by District Business.

The communication to the commission is also understood to have explained fully why the Corporation Counsel's office had been forced to delay submitting its opinion. The pressure of District legislation kept Mr. Bride at the Capitol much of the time and the revisions of the traffic bill consumed the remainder.

Some of the ill felling between the commission and Mr. Bride as a result of the rebuke administered to him was believed to have diminished after a conference between members of the body and Mr. Bride and William A. Roberts, special assistant Corporation Counsel for the commission. Whether the differences will be smoothed out entirely will probably depend on the action of the commission regarding the opinion.

The utilities body held its regular semi-weekly meeting yesterday but it did not discuss Mr. Bride's proposals.

D. P. Cannon Weds Capital School Aid

Miss Margaret L. Fultz Is Married to Methodist Bishop's Son.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Lee Fultz, 26 years old, personal clerk of Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, and David P. Cannon, 27 years old, son of Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, was announced yesterday. The couple was married Saturday afternoon at the Foundry M. E. Church. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of the church.

Present at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Cannon, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom. News of the marriage came as a surprise, but the couple had been engaged for some time, it was learned. They will make their home at 2115 F street northwest.

Mrs. Cannon has been personal clerk to Dr. Ballou for the past four years. She is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Fultz, of Front Royal, Va. Dr. Fultz was pastor of the Francis Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church here until two years ago, when he was transferred to Front Royal. The bridegroom is next to the youngest son of the Methodist bishop. He is associated with his father on the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the church. He is also a law student at George Washington University.

Firemen's Extra Salary Subject to Deduction

J. Raymond McCarl, Comptroller General, yesterday ruled that the $5 a month extra allowance for policemen and firemen who have rendered meritorious service is subject to a deduction of 3½ per cent for the policemen's and firemen's retirement fund.

The decision was made in the case of Private James P. Hendricks, of the Police Department, who was receiving the $5 monthly award when he was retired. He claimed that in addition to half his regular salary he should also be given half the $5 as his pension, not including the amount deducted for the retirement fund.

NEW PORTRAIT OF GEN. LEE

A new portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee, whose birthday anniversary was observed yesterday, showing him in the uniform of the United States Army as a colonel of engineers, his brevet rank between 1852 and 1855. The painting, which is by E. L. Ipsen, is a gift of the United Daughters of the Confederacy to the U. S. Military Academy at West Point.

TRIBUTES PAID LEE THROUGHOUT SOUTH

Military and Civil Life of Hero Extolled on Anniversary of His Birth.

JACKSON ALSO HONORED

Richmond, Va., Jan. 19 (A.P.).—An affectionate South turned today to memories of Robert E. Lee.

The 124th anniversary of his birth was the occasion not only for extolling his accomplishments on the field of battle, but for recalling that in civil life, following the war between the States, he set an example of simple service for his fellow Southerners in the adjustment to a new life.

At Washington and Lee University, in Lexington, where Gen. Lee took up his share of the task of rebuilding his beloved Virginia, students and alumni assembled today to hear his name praised by R. Gray Williams, Winchester, Va., lawyer, in a Founders Day oration.

Elsewhere in the South, from the Potomac and the Ohio Rivers to the Gulf of Mexico, simple ceremonies attested to the esteem in which the commander of the armies of the Confederacy is held. Many of the commemorative exercises were in charge of the United Daughters of the Confederacy, who presented crosses of honor and service to veterans at Richmond and Atlanta.

Jackson Honored Also.

The ceremonies, in some parts of the South, honored the memory of Gen. Thomas J. "Stonewall" Jackson, as well as that of Lee. Gen. Jackson's birthday anniversary is Wednesday, January 21, and other celebrations will be held at that time.

In Virginia, where Lee was born and lived in the early and latter parts of his life, State and municipal offices, banks and schools closed today. The United Daughters of the Confederacy held a memorial service in Battle Abbey, Confederate shrine here. Other exercises took place yesterday at Stratford, the Lee home in Westmoreland County, and at St. Paul's Church, Richmond.

The old statehouse at Montgomery, Ala., where Jefferson Davis was inaugurated President of the Confederacy, echoed to reminiscences of the birth of the Southern alliance as part of the ceremonies inducting into office Gov. B. M. Miller.

Georgia Legislators Recess.

The Georgia Legislature was in recess in honor of both the Southern generals, and the Daughters of the Confederacy held services in the Capitol at Atlanta. In Kentucky Chief Justice Logan, of the State supreme court, senator-elect, spoke at a U. D. C. luncheon at Lexington.

State offices at Nashville were closed and an annual custom was observed at Tech High School, in Memphis, by holding Lee memorial services.

Kappa Alpha Fraternity, South, was in charge of exercises at the Lee Monument in New Orleans. Memorial services were held in North Carolina and banks were closed in South Carolina, Alabama and Kentucky, as well as Virginia.

LONE POST MEMBER ATTENDS LEE DINNER

Six Survivors of Alexandria Group Unable to Be Present.

JACKSON ALSO LAUDED

Only one member of the Robert E. Lee Camp, Confederate Veterans, out of the seven survivors, was able to attend the annual banquet of the camp last night, in Lee Camp Hall, Alexandria. Commander E. C. Graham was scheduled to preside, but was unable to attend. Adjutant Edgar Warfield, the only member of the camp present; Gen. S. S. Simmons, commander of the Pacific Division of the United Confederate Veterans, of Bell, Calif., and Crawford Crook, a former Alexandrian but now a resident of the District of Columbia, represented the late Confederate hosts.

R. Samuel Luckett, commander of the Sons of Confederate Veterans of Alexandria, presided. The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. E. V. Regester, presiding elder of the Alexandria District, M. E. Church South, and the benediction by the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, rector of Grace Episcopal Church. Mrs. Margaret Bailey sang "Lead Me Back to Old Virginny."

Representative Lafayette Patterson, of Alabama, delivered an address on Stonewall Jackson, and Representative John J. McSwain, of South Carolina, spoke on Gen. Robert E. Lee. In his address Mr. McSwain referred to a visit he paid to the West Point Military Academy some years ago. He was shown the Memorial Hall, he said, on the walls of which hung the portraits of distinguished graduates. He called the attention of the commanding general to the fact that the portraits of some of the most distinguished graduates of the institution—Gens. Johnston, Beauregard, Longstreet, Jackson and Lee—were absent, and was told that it was not considered fitting that those who had resigned their commissions to take up arms against the Union should be included in the list of those whose portraits were displayed.

After Mr. McSwain had concluded his remarks, he asked to be heard again, and announced that he had just been told that only yesterday the president general of the Daughters of the Confederacy had unveiled, in that same hall, a portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee, "and thus right prevails and justice is vindicated."

Rankin Chief Speaker At Capital Exercises

Representative John E. Rankin, of Mississippi, was the principal speaker last night at a memorial meeting of the United Confederate Veterans, Camp No. 171, at the headquarters building, 1322 Vermont avenue northwest, honoring the birthday of Robert E. Lee and "Stonewall" Jackson.

Lee's farewell address to the Confederate troops at Appammatox Courthouse was given by Mrs. Maude Howell Smith, and musical numbers were given by Dr. Clifton P. Clarke and Mrs. Benjamin S. Ganz. Gen. W. L. Wilkerson, commander of the local group of veterans, presided.

AMALGAMATED AREA IS URGED FOR RATES

UTILITIES' CHARGES HIT

The metropolitan area of Washington should be considered amalgamated in the fixing of public utility rates, so as to avoid discriminations, delegates to the interfederation conference stated in resoluitons adopted last night.

This action represented a reiteration of a former stand taken by the conference. The conference is made up of representatives of the Montgomery County Civic Federation, the Arlington County Civic Federation and the Federation of Citizens Associations of the District of Columbia.

The public utility situation created considerable discussion at last night's meeting which was held at the United States Chamber of Commerce, and it was hinted that a determined fight will be launched to avoid discrimination against the territory surrounding Washington.

The conference reelected the following officers: Col. A. B. Barber, of Montgomery County, chairman; Robert E. Plymale, of Arlington County and Edwin S. Hege, of Washington, vice chairmen and W. B. Armstrong, of Montgomery County, secretary-treasurer.

Members of the conference complained that the District of Columbia is poorly represented at the conference meetings and an effort will be made to get better attendance.

Bodfish Will Disposes Of $150,000 Estate

Leaving an estate valued at more than $150,000, Julia T. Bodfish, who died December 10, last, left $2,000 to charitable and religious organizations, according to her will and petition for probate filed yesterday in District Supreme Court. The Washington Humane Society and the Home for Incurables each receive $500, while the First Congregational Church is to get $1,000.

Catlin, Arraigned, Asks Jury Trial

Miss Wine, Thrown From Car, Unable to Appear in Court.

Alleged to have hurled Miss Nellie V. Wine, of 2901 Connecticut avenue northwest, from his automobile Saturday night on Lanier place near Eighteenth street northwest, Elmer Catlin, of G street northwest near Twentieth street, pleaded not guilty and demanded a jury trial yesterday in Police Court. Bond was fixed at $200.

The woman was found by passing motorists and taken to Emergency Hospital. It was stated her condition would not permit court attendance for several days.

Miss Wine, according to police, said she was riding with the defendant and another man, when during an argument Catlin became angry, and, opening the door, shoved her out.

U. S. Funds Are Denied To Borglum Magazine

A magazine of which Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, was in charge as chairman of the committee on design and publicity of the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission will not be paid for by Federal funds, according to a ruling yesterday by Comptroller General J. Raymond McCarl.

Borglum had asked that approximately $6,000 which was expended on the magazine be taken care of by Congress, which had appropriated $250,000 to aid in the work. The memorial consists of carving historic figures, including Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln, and Roosevelt, on a giant rock cliff on Mount Rushmore.

Rock Creek Parkway Is Open to Day Traffic

Daytime traffic is being permitted to pass through the National Zoological Park over the Rock Creek Parkway under the Calvert street bridge, in accordance with instructions of the Smithsonian Institution. Gates will be kept open from 7 a. m. until sundown, it was said, so long as there is no high water nor ice in the park.

The parkway is now being improved between Massachusetts avenue and Q street bridge, it was said, and will soon be possible to drive through this area from Silver Spring, Md., to the Potomac River.

CASSIDAY APPEALS LIQUOR CONVICTION

'Man in Green Hat' Seeks to Have Recent Verdict Set Aside.

GIVEN 18-MONTH TERM

"The Man in the Green Hat," George L. Cassiday, yesterday asked the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to set aside his recent conviction in District Supreme Court on a charge of transportation and possession of liquor.

Cassiday, who, since his conviction wrote the story of his experiences as a "congressional bootlegger," which appeared in The Washington Post and other newspapers, was convicted by a jury last summer and sentenced by Justice Jesse C. Adkins to serve eighteen months in jail.

The conviction was obtained on indictment in which the appellant was alleged to have been found to posses whisky near the Senate Office Building by Sergt. George Little, of the Metropolitan Police Department.

Cassiday, at his trial, and in other legal steps, claimed he had not been seen to have liquor, but that on account of his reputation he was apprehended. Prior to going on trial he asked the court to suppress the evidence, but his motion was overruled.

The appellant came into prominence several years ago when, while wearing a green hat, he was seen to drop a bag containing liquor in the Senate Office Building. Attorneys Myron G. Ehrlich and Russel Kelly appear for Cassiday.

Contractors Send Eight in Conclave

Eight members of the national staff of the Associated General Contractors of America left Washington yesterday for Chicago, where they will board the association's special train to the twelfth annual convention in San Francisco, January 26 to 30. They were accompanied by Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, and O. R. McGuire, counsel to the comptroller general.

Dr. Mead and Mr. McGuire are both scheduled to address the convention. Brig. Gen. Charles H. Danforth, assistant chief of the Army Air Corps, who is also on the program, will fly to San Francisco for the meeting.

The Washington delegation, headed by Edward J. Harding, managing director of the association, and Mrs. Harding, is composed of H. E. Foreman, engineer; W. R. Richards, safety director; Harry Kirk, assistant engineer; Ralph D. Winstead, editor of the association's publication; Edward J. Brosnan, assistant treasurer; William Ogden, manager of the affiliated manufacturers' bureau, and S. M. Williams, president of the Bureau of Contract Information.

Baltimore Reports 1,300 Cases of Flu

Whole City to Suffer, Says Health Commissioner; Disease Mild.

Baltimore, Jan. 19 (A.P.).—With more than 1,300 cases reported, 90 of them today, Dr. C. Hampson Jones, health commissioner, said he expects an outbreak of influenza that will "involve the entire city." The outbreak started several days ago, the commissioner said, and "no one would be spared in its spread."

No steps have been taken to call off public gatherings.

At Annapolis, where 200 midshipmen of the Naval Academy were confined to beds by the outbreak, authorities today said all but 80 had been released from the hospital. In Baltimore the Sun papers, jointly owned and publishing morning and evening papers, were forced to lend each other portions of their staffs, depleted by the near-epidemic. The outbreak, however, was said to be not of the virulent type.

THE TROUBLE WITH AMERICA.

HE thought he saw a world all blue
And burdened down with care;
He looked again and presently
Observed it wasn't there;
"At last I realize," he said,
"How easily I scare."

II.

He thought he saw a growing blight
On trade both far and wide;
He looked again and found it was
A turning of the tide;
"I guess," he said, "the trouble is
The pessimists have lied."

III.

He thought he saw a big black thing
That stood and shouted, "Boo!"
He looked again and realized
His eyesight wasn't true;
"It's seeing things that aren't there,"
He said, "that makes me blue."

IV.

HE thought he saw the Russian bear
Devouring Uncle Sam;
He looked again and found it was
A little soft-shelled clam;
"I never thought I'd be," he sighed,
"The coward that I am."

V.

He thought he saw a Dividend
That passed him on the street;
He looked again and saw it was
A bonus very sweet;
"A4 times," he said, "I seem to feel I'm crazy with the heat."

VI.

He thought he saw depression stand
Across the Nation's course;
He looked again and saw it was
A lot of apple sauce:
"It's being such an oaf," he cried,
"That fills me with remorse!"

VII.

He thought he saw the country sunk
In chaos bleak and stern;
He looked again and saw it was
Prosperity's return;
"The trouble is," he moaned aloud,
"I never, never learn!"

Evidence to Urge Local Fraud Law

Blaine Subcommittee to Hear Testimony on Securities Plan.

Testimony designed to show the need for strong fraud laws in the District, covering transactions in securities and real estate, is to be taken at a public hearing before the Blaine subcommittee of the Senate District committee, in the committee room in the Capitol, at 10 o'clock this morning.

Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, chairman of the subcommittee, has not stated what details he expects to develop through witnesses called to testify today.

He has said, however, that the testimony will show conclusively that there is need here for specific and stringent legislation governing issuance and sale of securities, and to safeguard unwary persons who become involved in real estate transactions and thereby assume burdens about which they know nothing.

Arlington Bridge Costs Will Be Cut

Commission, Meeting With Hoover, Plans Change in Structure.

In order to reduce the increasing cost of Arlington Memorial Bridge, the commission, at a meeting yesterday with President Hoover at the White House, decided to scale down some of the plans for the project. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission, informed the President that the bridge will cost approximately $780,000 more than originally estimated if plans are not modified.

Substitution of equestrian groups for pylons at the east end of the bridge and unexpected foundation conditions were blamed for the increased costs. The gain is $4,544,000 above the original estimate, it was said, but elimination of some items, together with economy, has reduced this total to $780,000.

Proposals for cutting down costs are omission of statues on boundary channel bridge, $78,000; omission of statues on main bridge, $392,000; substitution of gardens for balustrade on Columbia Island, $400,000; omission of statues on island, $400,000.

Death Causes Checked Where Liquor Is Blamed

Experts from the Industrial Alcohol Bureau of the Treasury Department, who are investigating more than 140 deaths which have been attributed to liquor and poison alcohol, yesterday announced, through James M. Doran, commission of industrial alcohol, that 30 cases have been definitely established as being from that cause. The investigation is to continue.

The investigation covers the entire country. Commissioner Doran stated that many of the deaths could be attributed to use of synthetic wood alcohol for antifreezing mixtures, which may be purchased at filling stations.

Automobiles in District Pass License Estimate

The number of automobiles in the District has already exceeded the estimate of officials of the License Bureau, C. A. Russell revealed yesterday with the announcement that 105,235 tags were issued at the close of business Saturday night. Several hundred more 1931 license plates were issued yesterday.

Beginning today all applicants for license plates must get them at Room 120 of the District building. Use of the basement to serve motorists ended yesterday.

New Red Warning Is Issued by Fish

Declares Many Meetings Will Be Held Here Under Fake Names.

Organizations under fake names, but actually under the direction of Communists, will meet in Washington this year and the city should be on guard against them, Representative Hamilton Fish, of New York, chairman of the special committee that recently submitted a report on Communism, told the public order committee of the Board of Trade at a luncheon meeting yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel.

Representative Fish expressed confidence that the Washington police force will be able to cope with any Communistic situation that might arise in the National Capital. The chief danger of Communism in this country, he says, is the attempt to stir up antagonism among the colored people. The efforts of Russia to control the economic power of the world is an equally grave danger, he added.

Representative Fish mentioned The Post as one of two newspapers in Washington that has been fair to his committee. He was introduced by Odell Smith, chairman of the public order committee. Among those at the luncheon were Commissioner Crosby and the chief of Metropolitan Police, Henry G. Pratt.

Validity Indicated Of Virginia Statute

Railway Express Agency Fights Interstate Business Law in Supreme Court.

(Associated Press.)

The Supreme Court indicated yesterday it was inclined to take the view that Virginia had acted within its lawful authority when it refused to permit the Railway Express Agency, Inc., to do intrastate business unless it became a corporation of that State.

In his argument, Albert M. Hantung, for the Railway Express, contended the refusal of Virginia to permit that company to do intrastate busines without incorporating in the State had acted as a burden on its interstate business and was illegal. Virginia replied through its assistant attorney general, Collins Denny, jr., that the company was free to conduct its interstate business within the State without restrain, but that Virginia had the right to say what corporations should be permitted to conduct intrastate business.

Members of the court by questions indicated during the argument that the company had failed to show that the restrictions imposed by Vorginia had acted to restrain or burden its interstate business.

JANE ADDAMS RAPS ARMED CONFLICT AT CONFERENCE IN CITY

Editor of Survey Also Talks at Parley on Cause and Cure of War.

MRS. C. CHAPMANN CATT TELLS GROUP'S RECORD

Reed Heard on Naval Pact; Resolution Urges U. S. to Join World Court.

Notable successes in the substitution of a court for war have always combined disarmament with arbitration, Miss Jane Addams, of Chicago, told the Sixth Conference on the Cause and Cure of War last night in her address at the Hotel Washington.

During the afternoon session on "Disarmament" delegates at the conference had heard Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, chairman of the national committee of the organization, discuss the five years' record of the group and James G. McDonald, chairman of the Foreign Policy Association, and Senator David A. Reed talk on world affairs and the recent Naval Conference in London, respectively.

The afternoon session also saw two resolutions, one reaffirming the conviction that the United States should become a member of the World Court and the other planning celebration of April 14 as Pan-American Day, adopted by the conference.

Influence of Supreme Court.

According to Miss Addams, the United States Constitution disarmed the country at the same time it established the Supreme Court.

"The battleships were taken off the Great Lakes and the forts were dismantled when the arbitration treaty was made between Canada and the United States, in 1818, ver soon after a war with England," she declared.

"We are so accustomed to the political arrangement that we do not dream of being afraid, at least our mental adjustment has happily been made."

Miss Addams stressed the point that the great achievements of the human race are those which have brought deliverance from some form of terror or oppression, and suggested that deliverance from fear of war would bring greater progress for the present generation.

Mrs. Catt declared that five years of study by the conference had revealed that competition in armament building is the chief cause of war, and that pacts of peace and of disarmament are its chief cures. All the nations of the earth recognize these facts now, she asserted.

No Retrogression Seen.

Mr. McDonald pronounced 1930 as a whole chaotic and discouraging, but declared that there was no retrogression in the cause of world peace in South American revolutions, since they were all "in a certain sense, merely elections."

Today the delegates of the 11 national women's organizations represented at the conference are scheduled to hear several prominent men discuss disarmament with Bruce Bliven as discussion guide.

Salvador Madariaga will talk on questions likely to disturb international relations, at the opening session at 9 o'clock. Material considerations, such as guns and ships will be presented by Adm. William V. Pratt and Rear Adm. Mark L. Bristol.

During the afternoon session Edward P. Waner will talk on the rapid development of aircraft and its relationship as a war menace and Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan will discuss the needs of the great powers for defensive armament.

A dinner will be held for the delegates at 6:30 o'clock followed by an evening of drama centered on the Naval Conference entitled "A Little Theater Tournament for Peace."

House Says No to Policing Of Virginia Roads by City

There was a chorus of noes from the floor of the House yesterday when the Moore bill, providing for policing of the military roads in Virginia adjacent to the District, was reached on the consent calendar, and the bill was eliminated from the calendar.

Introduced by Representative R. Walton Moore (Republican), Virginia, as an aftermath of the Mary Baker murder, the bill provides for policing of the Virginia roads for 5 miles beyond the District line.

Representative Fiorella H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, offered a lengthy amendment and said that if the amendment were agreeable to the author of the measure he would not object to its passage as amended.

Discussion of the measure was cut short by Representative Robert B. Simmons (Republican), Nebraska. Mr. Simmons declared that even with the amendments proposed by Mr. LaGuardia the measure still provided for policing of Virginia roads by District police.

"I am opposed to sending District police officers outside the District," Mr. Simmons said. "There is no use carrying this discussion further. There are several other members on the floor here now ready to object to it consideration."
